A ruptured water oain on the Miracle Mile in San Rafael cools down eastbound traffic on Fourth Street. The break, which occurred at about 10:45 a.m. today set passing motorists fumbling in the downpour to turn on windshield wipers and roll up open windows. The cooling reprieve from today's 80-degree San Rafael temperatures lasted about half an hour. The oain was broken by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph workmen who hit the line while drilling a man hole. Other summery and rising temperatures reported in Marin at 11 a.m. were Novato, 86; San Anselmo, 81; Woodacre, 84; Mill Valley, 79 and Sausalito, 72 degrees.

Rogers Sees Report On Vietnam Serious

Says Publication Casts Some Confidence Doubts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that publication by the New York Times of secret Johnson administration documents on Vietnam was a "very serious matter." He said it caused foreign countries to question whether they could safely deal with the United States on a confidential basis.

Rogers, attorney general during the latter part of the Eisenhower administration, said the publication was a clear violation of the law, "which provides that top secret and secret documents should not become public until they have been declassified."

Rogers told a news conference he did not think the disclosure of the information would have any effect on Hanoi, but added that publication of the hitherto secret papers "is going to cause such a great deal of trouble."

He explained that the State Department already had "many queries from other governments" as to how they could still deal with the United States with some assurance that confidential matters would not be disclosed.

Rogers said that so far as the substance of the information disclosed was concerned, "I believe we should reserve our judgment," particularly when those who prepared the Pentagon memorandum acknowledge that "they did not have all the information" available.

Rogers said specifically that the analysts, who offered "a good deal of narration," worked from documents available in the Pentagon and "they did not have the White House documents ... these are selected documents."

In view of all this, he said, "I am not going to get involved in passing judgment on those events."

The secretary rejected the suggestion that his attitude on the documents was contrary to the right of the public to know what its government is doing.

"The public is entitled to know a good deal," he said, "but we have laws that are designed to protect the interests of the United States."

On other matters, Rogers said:

—Hanoi is using American prisoners of war "for ransom purposes" and to play on the emotions of relatives of the unfortunate men. While expressing sympathy for the prisoners and their families, Rogers said, "We can't abandon our national objectives in order to pay ransom."

—The nation during the fiscal year ending June 30 will have spent approximately $350 million on the war in Laos, exclusive of the cost of bombing attacks by U.S. aircraft based outside that country. While this figure has not been made public before, Congressmen were well aware of individual cost items which added up to that figure.

—Public opinion polls showing that the American people don't trust the government with respect to Indochina reflect factors for which the Nixon administration is not responsible. There is a widespread "feeling of frustration" and an inclination on the part of the public to feel it has been "misled in the past."

Report On Health Merger Accepted

Marin County Supervisors today accepted a report recommending merger of all county health services into a single department. The board agreed to talk about the merger's mechanics and budgeting at budget hearings Monday.

Supervisors questioned what would happen if one of the officials involved — the county medical director who also is coroner — should not win reelection as coroner. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney was asked to provide advice, after County Administrator Alan Bruce said he thought the supervisors could make the coroner office appointive.

The merger report submitted by the executive board and a task force of the Marin County Comprehensive Health Planning Council, calls for combining functions now provided by County Medical Director Donovan O. Cooke, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht, Mental Health Program Chief John S. Guerrant and County Service Officer James V. Burdick. The single department's head would be the medical director, with the other three officials serving as lieutenants each responsible for a segment.

The question still unsettled by the task force is whether as chief of the community health segment of the new department, Dr. Albrecht would retain administrative responsibility or could act "as a professional, like a doctor calling on a hospital's staff for services," according to spokesman James F. Reed.

Reed was chairman of the health council's task force that drafted the merger plan. He said today the committee wants more time to prepare recommendations on "the box below the health officer in the organization chart."

Reed urged the task force plan's adoption as a "highly flexible structure" but warned that if administrative problems occurred "you may have to go for a more rigidly structured organization."

New Presidential Car Being Built

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Secret Service has announced that Ford Motor Co. is building a new $200,000 armor-plated, bulletproof presidential limousine to replace the one in which President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

The White House has a continuing program under which it gets one new limousine every four years and keeps the car for eight years. The last car went to President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968 and it will remain in service until 1976.

Rioting In Albuquerque, Much Arson

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Youthful militants smashed storefront windows, overturned cars and hurled rocks and flaming bottles at National Guard troops Monday in the city's second day of civil strife.

Scattered fires were set early today but the National Guard ended its patrol of the city's streets before dawn.

"Everything has been pretty quiet since about 3 a.m.," Police Lt. Frank Becerra said. Until then, there had been "a small fire here and a small fire there — nothing serious."

Fire officials said 61 fires were set in the city since the trouble began Sunday evening. Police said 46 persons have been injured, including 13 hit by gunfire.

Some sniper fire was directed toward National Guard troops Monday when guardsmen dispersed a crowd of jeering, rock-throwing youths from two city parks. No one was hit by the gunfire.

The outbreak was less extensive than the previous day when 1,500 whites, blacks and Mexican-Americans marched on police headquarters demanding the release of minors arrested for drinking in a crowded city park. The demonstrators also charged police brutality.

The second day's trouble began after Lt. Gov. Robert Mondragon tried to talk to the militants.

"I know we have police brutality in Albuquerque," Mondragon told 400 militants assembled at Roosevelt Park. "Police brutality is not alleged —it is factual."

Mondragon, Gov. Bruce King and Attorney General David Norvell met with Mexican-American militants known as the Black Berets and the League of United Latin American Citizens to discuss the possible involvement of "outside elements" in the disturbances.

Mondragon also told the

Angela Denied Bail; Proceedings Halted

By MARY LEYDECKER

A visiting judge in Marin Superior Court today refused to release Angela Davis on bail, saying that she was not legally eligible for bail on the three capital charges she faces.

Although Miss Davis came into court at the Hall of Justice full of smiles and wearing a new print dress, she received the news from Judge Richard E. Arnason without a trace of emotion.

The judge repeatedly said that if he had found Miss Davis legally eligible for bail, he would have followed a probation officer's suggestion and set bail at $100,000.

The judge's legal reference was apparently to a section of the California Penal Code which says that a person charged with a capital offense may not be released on bail "when the proof of his guilt is evident or the presumption of it great."

One of Miss Davis's attorney's Alan Brotsky, said after court "that's what he was ruling on but he didn't have the guts to say so."

Miss Davis, who has been held in Marin County Jail since last December, is charged along with San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out last August at the Civic Center.

Her chief attorney Howard Moore Jr. said after court today that the judge's bail denial was indication to him that the judge would not dismiss the indictment against her for lack of evidence.

The bail denial brought shouts of "Free Angela" and "Power to the People" from Miss Davis's supporters in the courtroom and one cry of "the people want to know what the legal issue is."

Judge Arnason, a Contra Costa County jurist, said that he had done a "great deal of soul-searching" before making his decision.

"As I understand the law, the defendant is not eligible for bail," he said. "If I had found her eligible, based upon her background and the probation officer's report, I would have granted bail."

Chief Deputy Probation Officer James B. Soetaert had reported that he did not think Miss Davis would flee if released on bail. "There is in my estimation, a commitment on Miss Davis's part to her family, attorneys and supporters..." he said.

"She is looked upon by a great number of people in this country as a leader for social reforms," Soetaert said, adding that any flight would be a "great disappointment to her family, supporters and attorneys."

He also said in the report that a Marin attorney who lives a few minutes' drive from the Civic Center had offered her a home if she had been freed on bail.

The denial of bail left Miss Davis today in jail with a case still bogged down by her codefendant's legal maneuvers.

The judge ruled today that he will not hear anything further in the case until either a federal court or a higher state court settles the issues of Magee's

A Copy Of Document Uncovered

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration finally has found a copy of the secret Pentagon study made during the Johnson administration, covering the history of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The State Department said it discovered the 40-volume work Monday afternoon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers was promptly given access to it.

Existence of the report was disclosed Sunday by The New York Times but the White House and other offices of the Nixon administration claimed they had never heard of it.

Among other things, the report said the Johnson administration had decided before the 1964 election to launch large-scale bombing raids on North Vietnam. The actual attacks began early in 1965 as the war started to escalate.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., President Lyndon B. Johnson's opponent in the 1964 election, said the report was no surprise to him since he heard about the buildup of the war about 10 days before the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

"See, I was being called trigger happy, war monger, bomb happy and all the time Johnson was saying he'd never send American boys and I knew damn well he would," Goldwater told UPI Monday.

Goldwater said he came to know of the war's escalation from a telephone call from a commander who told him "that he had received shipping orders and his men were to be properly equipped to go overseas and he wanted me to know about it." He said he did not disclose the information since he felt bound by an oath to "respect secrecy" and he doubted anyone would believe him anyway.

On Aug. 29, 1964, Johnson said:

"I have had advice to load our planes with bombs and to drop them on certain areas that I think would enlarge the war and escalate the war and result in our committing a good many American boys to fighting a war that I think ought to be fought by the boys of Asia to help protect their own land."

Mitchell Seeking Times Injunction

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attorney General John N. Mitchell said today the Justine Department will seek an injunction later in the day to stop the New York Times from publishing top secret documents because this could "result in irreparable injury to the national defense."

Mitchell said the Department will seek a temporary restraining order to block publication of the Defense Department study of the Vietnam War pending a hearing on the request for an injunction. The action will be filed in U.S. District Court in New York City.

Mitchell made the announcement in a news release which said an affidavit, attached to the complaint, stated that publication of excerpts from the Vietnam study "has prejudiced the defense interests of the United States" and that publication of additional excerpts would further prejudice U.S. interests "and result in irreparable injury to the national defense."

The affidavit was signed by Fred Buzhardt, general council of the Defense Department.

The complaint charges that the newspaper and a long series of its officials and reporters obtained "without lawful authority and at a time and place and in a manner unknown" to the government certain documents consisting of 47 volumes entitled "History of U.S. Decision Making Process on Vietnam Policy."

In addition, the newspeper anquired a copy of "one volume Command and Control Study of the Gulf of Tonkin incident," the complaint said. All the material is labeled top secret.

In a front page story in today's edition, the Times said it would not voluntarily halt pubcation, "believing that it is in the interest of this country to be informed of the material contained in this series of articles."

Earlier, Mitchell had asked the Times in a telegram to halt the publications, saying this was directly prohibited by provisions of the Espionage Act.

Named defendants in addition to The New York Times Company in today's injunction were: Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, resident and publisher; executive vice presidents Harding F. Bancroft and Ivan Veit; vice presidents Francis A. Cox, James C. Goodale, Sidney Gruson, Walter Mattson, John McCabe, John Mortimer and James Reston.

Also, John B. Oakes, editorial page director; A. M. Rosenthal, managing editor; Daniel Schwarz, Sunday editor; Clifton Daniel and Tom Wicker, associate editors, and reporters Neil Sheehan, Hedrick Smith, E. W. Kenworthy, Fox Butterfield, and foreign desk editors Gerald Gold, Allan M. Siegal and Samuel Apt.

The department said that according to Executive Order 10501, "top secret information is that material of which the defense aspect is paramount and the unauthorized disclosure of which could result in exceptionally grave damage to the nation such as leading to a definite break in diplomatic relations affecting the defense of the United States, an armed attack against the United States or its allies, a war, or the compromise of military or defense plans, or intelligence operations."

It was the second time that the Nixon administration has tried to stop a newspaper from publishing documents. Mitchell attempted unsuccessfully to get the Times, the Washington Post and other papers to refrain from publishing approximatety 1,000 documents stolen from the FBI office at Media, Pa. No injunction or other court action was taken, however.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Narrow Victory

ROME (UPI) —A strong swing to the right by Italian voters touched off noisy neo-Fascist celebrations today and rocked a government already beset by dissensions, violence and economic trouble.

The neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) scored surging advances in Sicily, Rome and other places Monday in regional, provincial and city elections involving seven million voters, one-fifth of the Italian electorate.

Premier Emilio Colombo's center-left coalition narrowly retained control of all major administrations involved. But margins in some places were dangerously slim.

Heavy losses by Colombo's own Christian Democrats and gains by their smaller coalition partners—Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans—added to animosities already rampant in the half-hearted government alliance.

Housing Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration, in a new refinement of its announced policy against forcing economic integration in the nation's suburbs, has decided that communities which exclude the poor will have to pay for the privilege.

George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), said Monday communities which have neither low cost housing nor firm plans for providing it will be turned down if they ask for federal money to help pay for urban renewal, sewer and water or other community development projects.

Bishop Resigns; Hits Dogma

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The auxiliary bishop of Providence has chosen to leave a Roman Catholic hierarchy whose structure, he feels, has not changed since the Council of Trent in the 16th Century.

Kelly

Most Rev. Bernard M. Kelly submitted his resignation Monday and said it would take effect immediately. He is the second bishop to have resigned recently and is believed the highest ranking prelate in America to have left the active ministry.

Kelly was asked at a news conference about probability of his getting married. He replied that he "had no plans to do so at the present time" but that the "possibility" existed in the future.

He said his resignation was due primarily to "an abiding sense of frustration" resulting from his inability to comprehend or conform to attitudes and policies of the U.S. hierarchy which, he said, continued to abide by the policies of the Council of Trent.

The Council of Trent which lasted for 18 years established Catholic policy on matters of faith, morals, divine law and inner church problems such as clerical discipline.

Missouri Joins

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Missouri's approval of the proposed constitutional amendment to give 18 year olds the right to vote in all elections brings to 33 the number of states ratifying.

It could be the last such ratification this year.

The amendment needs approval by 38 states to become part of the Constitution. There still is a possibility three more states could approve the proposal this year, but that was not certain. Approval some time in 1972, however, is regarded as a certainty.

The Supreme Court already has affirmed the 18-year-old voting age in federal elections, and the amendment is designed to extend that to state and local contests.

In both Illinois and Wisconsin the state senate has passed on the matter and it awaits House action.

In Ohio, the Senate Elections Committee has approved ratification and the matter is now before the Rules Comittee which likely will schedule it for floor action soon.

Switch Costly

DANANG, Vietnam (UPI)—A 21-year-old soldier was busted to private and fined $146 Monday for letting his civilian brother come to Vietnam in his place.

An Army spokesman said Glenn Storer of Yarmouth, Maine, was busted from Spec. 4 in administrative punishment meted out by his unit, the 196th Brigade of the Americal Division.

The spokesman said Storer will pay the fine in two monthly installments of $73.

Asks Rate Agency

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rep. Wright Patman, a longtime opponent of banking interests, called Monday for a new federal agency that would regulate interest rates.

Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, told a seminar here that banking agencies operated under some "of the worst regulations that the nation has ever seen."

The Texas Democrat said the federal authority he proposed "should not only absorb the regulatory functions of three current banking agencies, but also those of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which has jurisdiction over savings and loan associations."

He recommended that the agency operate under the President in the interest of consumers.

Dies Penniless

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Jean Lussier, a one-time circus stunt man who risked his life 43 years ago for "fame and fortune" by plunging over the Horseshoe Falls in a rubber ball and emerging with only a scratch, died here Monday.

He was nearly penniless.

Lussier, 79, suffered a heart attack Sunday at his apartment in the Spallino Towers, one and a half miles away from the falls, where he made history July 4, 1928.

Thinking Process Vs. Drug Culture

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Students attempting to resume college after a "dropout" period are finding it "difficult if not impossible" because of the effects of marijuana and drugs, reports the chief psychiatrist at the University of California in Berkeley.

Testifying before the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, Dr. D. Harvey Powelson said Monday even after a year of rehabilitation, the student who has come back from the drug scene "finds that he cannot think clearly and that, in ways he finds difficult to describe, his thinking has changed."

Powelson said that for such persons to study or do almost anything "requires a gigantic effort" because they have "lost their will some place." place."

"The irony here is that they have now achieved the freedom from compulsion which they sought—they need an external director. They are ripe for a demagogue," Powelson said.

Several other witnesses before the federal commission testified the most harmful thing about marijuana is that it is illegal.

Dr. David Smith, director of the Haight-Ashbury Clinic, said marijuna "has a lower potential for chronic abuse than does alcohol." He said one in 20 alcohol users abuses it, but only one in 100 marijuana users is an abuser.

Smith said that many of the 100,00 drug users visiting the Haight-Ashbury during the past four years also had psychological problems, But he said "rarely in our experience is marijuana the cause of such psychopathology.",

He said, in fact, marijuana sometimes helped straighten out mixed up youngsters. He cited a 15-year-old boy who was hostile and had an "identity" problem until he became a marijuana user, found a place in the drug subculture of his high school, and began doing better in class.

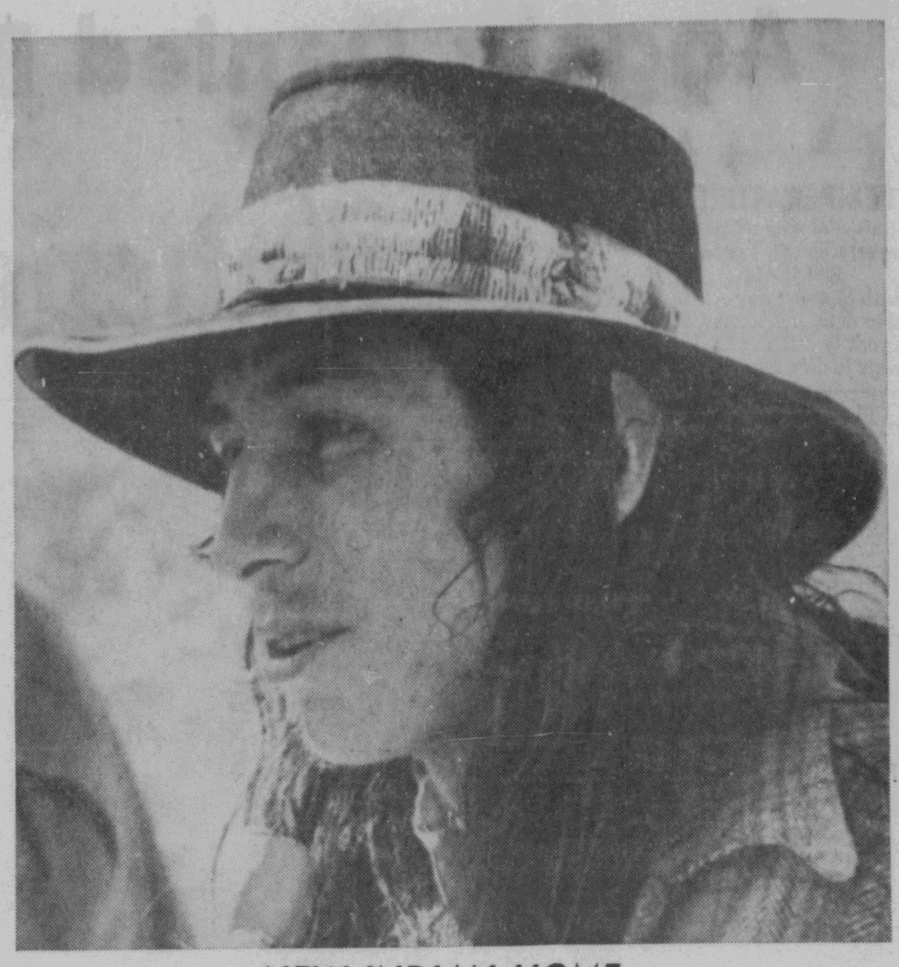
Dr. Joel Fort, who heads a special problems center in San Francisco, scolded the commission for "making a major event out of the discussion of marijuana—while the world burns." He said there were "far more important things" to be studying.

"Why is it that so many people cannot go to a wedding or any social event without drugs, legal or illegal?" Forte asked.

"Many parents are concerned about their children's drugs use and many children are concerned about their parents' drug use," said Forte. The answers cannot be found by dwelling on drugs but by getting at "the roots of alienation and discontent" in the nation, he said.

Forte advocated "decriminalization" of the private use of marijuana, "legalization of treatment" for heroin addicts, and a ban on "all advertisement and promotion of drugs such as alcohol and tobacco" because it has "institutionalized the drug-ridden society."

The 13-member commission was set up by Congress last year to make a study of marijuana and drugs. It held an earlier hearing in Washington and will hold further sessions in Chicago later this year, as well as visiting a number of college campuses. ,



NEW INDIAN HOME

John Trudell, leader of a party of some 50 Indians who are now occupying an 87-acre abandoned Nike missile site about five miles east of Richmond, sits in the sun at the site. The occupation came yesterday, three days after the Indians were ousted from their Alcatraz Island occupation by the government. Trudell and his followers walked up to the base early yesterday and told two surprised private security guards, "we're taking over." No immediate action has been taken against the intruders, officials have announced.

Clifford Audience Slated On Viet Prisoner Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration, despite its initial remarks discounting Clark Clifford's plan for securing the release of American prisoners of war, has decided to discuss the matter with the former defense secretary —just in case.

The decision, according to informed sources, stems from belated recognition that the administration by simply dismissing Clifford's plan out of hand was leaving itself open to charges that it had failed to explore every possibility of securing the release of U.S. servicemen held by Hanoi and the Viet Cong.

Administration officials disclosed that Deputy Assistant Secretary of State William Sullivan late last week had two telephone talks with Clifford. They said a meeting between Clifford and Sullivan, who currently is the State Department's resident expert on Vietnam, has been set for Wednesday. Other officials may attend.

Clifford last Tuesday said he had "reason to believe" that if the United States would announce it was withdrawing all U.S. military personnel from Vietnam by Dec. 31, the Communists would release all American prisoners of war within 30 days of such an announcement.

Two Southern Senate Hawks Switch On Viet Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Two southerners, both long-time backers of the U.S. effort in Vietnam, reversed their positions today and called for total U.S. withdrawal from the war.

Sens. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., issued unequivocal calls for the withdrawal of all American forces.

Jordan said Monday he would vote for the Vietnam Disengagement Act tomorrow. The legislation would require an end to U.S. combat in Indochina by Dec. 31.

Talmadge said he could not vote for the measure on constitutional grounds. But, in a speech prepared for delivery today, he denounced the war as a drain on U.S. manpower and resources and implored President Nixon "from the floor of this Senate to negotiate a release of our prisoners and announce a policy of complete and total disengagement to begin now, and to terminate one year from today."

"The American people," Talmadge said, "are weary to the bone and fed up with this ill-conceived conflict. It has placed a dangerous drain on a precious reservoir which we once thought bottomless —the unity of spirit and purpose which has made this nation great.

Jordan said he would vote for the antiwar measure, which he opposed last year, because it was obvious that a negotiated settlement was nowhere near.

"The war has drained away our national strength in every conceivable way," he said.

How to get the most from your life insurance

It's a three step suggestion and, as it should, it starts with you. When you purchased life insurance, you no doubt had in mind definite jobs for it to do for your family if you die; for you if you live. But time brings many changes . . . and it makes good sense for you to review your objectives and to check whether your life insurance currently meets them.

There are two other people who can help. The first is your wife. Your life insurance is designed for her and the family and it's wise to have her know your plans. The more she understands your objectives, the more she will be able to help you keep them up-to-date, and the better she'll be able to use this priceless protection that is being paid for through her careful budgeting.

The second is the Man from Manufacturers. Through him, the flexibility of your policies will come to life. His experienced, practical recommendations add up to an invaluable source of service for you now and for your family later.

Tanker Skippers Suspended For Oil Spill Crash

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The skippers involved in the Jan. 18 collision of two oil tankers which spilled 800,000 gallons of oil in San Francisco bay both have had their licenses suspended.

Capt. Harry H. Parnell, 46, of the inbound Arizona, Monday was handed a one-month's suspension of his masters license. The Coast Guard lifted the license of Capt. Morris E. English, 59, for three months.

Thousands of birds perished from the thick oil which was swept onto shorelines as far as 50 miles north and south of the Golden Gate.

The vessels collided just west of the bridge in a dense fog. The ships were locked together until they anchored near Angel Island, where most of the oil escaped from the Oregon Standard.

Testimony at the Coast Guard investigation indicated both ships were out of their normal lanes.

Ex-Inmate Escapes Quentin Time Again

Tommy Lee Walker, 26, who spent most of the last 10 years behind bars, escaped being returned to prison yesterday.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court placed Walker — who pleaded guilty in April to a charge of battery against a prison guard — on probation for three years and sentenced him to six months in Marin County Jail.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman had urged a prison sentence for Walker, who was released from San Quentin in November.

Judge McGuire's decision brought smiles and even tears from a few of a crowd of Walker's supporters who had accompanied him to the Hall of Justice yesterday.

Most of the supporters were College of Marin students with whom Walker has become friendly since his San Quentin release and enrollment at the college where he is taking three courses.

Walker was committed at 15 to the California Youth Authority in 1960 for purse-snatching in Los Angeles County. He was released a year later, but was sent back to the CYA two months after his release for holding up bus drivers.

Scuffles between Walker and several prison guards kept him in penal institutions until last year.

Even after his release the battery charges remained pending.

A trial on the charges he struck two guards at San Quentin in August 1969 ended in a hung jury last October when the jury could not reach a unanimous verdict.

A second trial became unnecessary in April when Walker pleaded guilty to one of two counts of battery on a guard, and a second count was dismissed.

In recommending that Walker be returned to prison yesterday, Herman told Judge McGuire that there was not a prisoner in San Quentin who wouldn't agree to add 90 days to his sentence for the chance to beat up his most disliked guard.

Jesse W. Johnson, deputy probation officers, had recommended a two-year probation period and a 90-day jail sentence for Walker.

Herman said that the guard whom Walker struck suffered a broken nose and was unconscious for three days. The guard finally had to resign his position, Herman said.

"A 90-jail sentence would be a miscarriage of justice," Herman said.

But McGuire said, "I think Mr. Walker ought to be given an opportunity to become a member of the community." The judge told Walker that if it hadn't been for people in the community "who've gone to bat for you, it would have been easier for the court to cop out and sentence you to state prison."

In giving Walker the six-month jail sentence, McGuire also rejected the recommendation of Walker's attorney, Robert R. Birkie of San Rafael, that he be given only probation.

"He has a fear of prison, a fear of being locked up like no man I've ever talked to," Birkie said.

Bond Issue Ruling Draws Alioto Fire

SAN FRancisco (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto called today for a state constitutional amendment to overturn the U. S. Supreme Court ruling upholding the two-thirds vote majority required for local bond issue approval.

The U. S. Supreme Court, citing its controlling West Virginia decision of June 7, ruled Monday that California had the right to require two-thirds approval for bond issues.

The court's decision voids an estimated $1 billion worth of bonds in the state. Alioto, in a statement issued here called the ruling "very unfortunate."

He said it would make it "difficult, if not impossible," for many cities to get future general obligation bonds approved for schools, parks and recreation, sewer and water facilities.

Alioto himself was in Phile delphia attending the U. S. conference of mayors.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in its ruling Monday, set aside a State Supreme Court decision striking down the two-thirds requirement.

The high court overruled the California court's contention that the two thirds requirement violated the "one-man, one-vote" doctrine.

Monday's ruling came in three cases — one from California, Idaho and Missouri.

The California case concerned park improvements in San Francisco and school construction at the Hunters Point Redevelopment project.

The controlling decision of June 7 involved a West Virginia law requiring a 60 per cent yes vote for all local bond and tax increase issues.

Cafeteria's Wine Plea Is Approved

Four of five Marin County supervisors agreed today with an old saying that "a day without wine is like a day without sunshine" and voted to allow the Civic Center cafeteria operators to apply for a state Alcoholic Beverage Control permit to serve beer and wine in the building during lunch hours.

The wine saying was presented to the board in anonymous notes, written in Italian.

Public opposition was voiced by Beth Taylor, operator of the Taverna Yiasou restaurant a block from the Civic Center. She argued that the county supervisors would be subsidizing the cafeteria in competition with private enterprise. She decried serving alcohol in the same building as the courts and county jail. "The idea is appalling. It doesn't honor the courts or the county," she said.

"I'm not going to vote for this," declared Chairman Louis H. Baar, "I don't think this is the place to have it."

He was alone in his stand.

Supervisor Michael Wornum lashed at "treating 1,200 county employees as irresponsible citizens" by denying them a glass of wine. "It's rank hypocrisy to pretend people in government don't drink. We do at every luncheon," he declared.

The supervisors' 4-1 vote leaves cafeteria operators Donald A. Giovannoni and Camille Bamatter free to apply to the ABC — which then may set hearings on the protests that may arise.

RIOT

youths at Roosevelt Park an investigation into charges of police brutality would begin today. But the militants were not satisfied.

They hooted and jeered and moved downtown, where they smashed plate glass storefronts of 25 businesses, overturned cars, and hurled Molotov cocktails at National Guardsmen who tired to disperse them.

Youths then moved to a park adjacent to the University of New Mexico. State policemen dispersed them at this point with tear gas and shotgun blasts. About 200 Guardsmen were sent to the campus to aid the 150 police.

A spokesman for the Chicano Youth Association blamed the rioting on city, state and federal officials who he said were insensitive to the needs of Albuquerque Mexican-Americans.

"City commissioners who give promises for the future to the problems of today are the causes," said Jose Armas.

Fire Chief Ray Kuhn said 61 fires were set during the two days. He estimated damage at $3 million.

Nikita Votes, Says He's Fine

MOSCOW (UPI)—"I feel fine," Nikita S. Khrushchev said. The former Soviet premier had little else to say Sunday when he came to Moscow to vote in parliamentary elections.

It was his first public appearance in two years.

"I'm a pensioner. What do pensioners do?" the 77-year-old Khrushchev said when asked what he was doing now.

Khrushchev, his wife Nina Petrovna on his arm, voted at a public school near the Canadian embassy in central Moscow. Then they returned to their suburban villa.

Hunger Can't Wait For Check Recovery

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—When a mail truck was robbed of 200 welfare checks, the state economic security department set up a plan to issue federal food stamps on credit to those whose checks were stolen.

Duplicate checks would have taken about two weeks to reach the recipients. State Welfare Commissioner Merritt Deitz said "many of the recipients would have been starving before then."

petitions asking that the case be transferred to a federal court.

Judge Arnason said that he does not believe the Marin court has jurisdiction in the case until either a federal court remands it back to Marin or a higher state court orders him to proceed.

This left the case off calendar until such an order is received.

Judge Arnason yesterday refused to split Miss Davis's case from Magee's after saying that he was seriously considering such a move.

After both Miss Davis's lawyers and Magee's attorney as well as prosecuting attorney Albert W. Harris Jr. objected to a severance, the judge announced his decision.

"If all parties resist a severance, I'm not going off on my own," Arnason said.

In a day which resembled an intricate legal ballet, none of the attorneys would come out and ask that the two cases be severed.

It had been reported that Miss Davis's lawyers privately wanted her case split from Magee's, but the Independent-Journal erred yesterday in saying that they had actually asked in chambers last week for such a move.

According to a transcript of the conversation, after the judge suggested a severance they told him they would have to think over the matter.

Yesterday, one of her attorneys, Sheldon Otis, said that a severance would be "premature" and asked that the cases "joined by the prosecution" remain together.

"We're glad to go ahead on a unified front," Ernest L. Graves, Magee's court-appointed attorney added.

By the end of the arguments, Harris had been backed into a corner and said "our main concern is that the cases get moving." Although he had earlier opposed a severance, he said later "we would probably not resist a severance."

Belfast Army Barracks Hit

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Extremist bombers attacked a temporary British army barracks in Belfast Monday night but hurled their explosives into an empty room, an army spokesman said.

Three men tossed a duffel bag with explosives through a window of an abandoned factory in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area now serving as a barracks for 30 Royal Greenjacket soldiers.

The blast wrecked the room but no soldiers were inside, the spokesman said.

Very Long Wait

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Testimony Is His Downfall

Five customers who regularly had lunch at Sam's cafe came down with hepatitis within a few days of each other. The restaurant's cook also came down with the disease.

The cook sued Sam's cafe. He said the facilities in the restaurant were not clean. He claimed Sam violated the health and sanitary rules from time to time. But the cook lost his suit. Medical testimony was his undoing.

The doctors called by Sam testified that there was little chance that the cook got hepatitis from handling food at the restaurant. They put the odds at no more than 10 per cent.

In fact, the usual case of hepatitis is caused by person to person contact and not from a common source outbreak such as food and water. "Food borne outbreaks" are very rare said the doctor. Besides the incubation period for infectious hepatitis was much longer than five days. The judge concluded that the cook must have gotten his hepatitis some other way.

Expert testimony on the crucial issue in the case can be quite persuasive. Experts can give their opinions. Ordinarily a witness can only testify to facts, not give opinions.

The experts may be any kind of person who has a special skill or knowledge that is helpful in deciding an issue. The "expert" must qualify as an expert before he testifies and gives an opinion. But the judge or jury may disregard an opinion if it does not appeal to their "reason."

All people are experts in some ways. For example, when we see certain people often, we come to know what is special about them, like the sound of their footsteps or their voices. Based on this, the lay witness can testify and give an opinion.

Also from knowing a person well, a lay witness may testify about this person's sanity. He may know whether the person always acts a certain way or whether his behavior was irregular.

Moreover, every one has some competency to give an opinion as to speed, distance, size or sounds. Age of others, values of property, even handwriting, in some cases, are all matters to which one can testify.

First Police Union Step By Tiburon

Tiburon took the first step last night toward joining police forces with Belvedere by approving a $2,500 consolidation study by an East Bay police chief.

City councilmen, who voted 3-0 to approve a contract for the six-week study, also put out a feeler for a $500 contribution from Belvedere.

Both Councilmen Anne L. Ellinwood and M. Carlisle Becker said they had received assurances from two Belvedere councilmen that their city stands ready to contribute.

Miss Ellinwood wanted the Tiburon city staff to write Belvedere asking $500, but Mayor Denis T. Rice said he felt no specific amount should be mentioned.

Edward S. Kreins, former Sausalito police chief and now chief in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County, will conduct the study and complete it by Aug. 1. City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said he already had begun work.

The study will look into how Tiburon might set up its own police force — the city now contracts with the Marin County sheriff's department — and also how a combined force would work.

The investigation also will explore how a joint force would be administered: one city contracting with the other for police service, a combined department or a third party providing the service for both cities.

In addition, the study will include advantages and disadvantages of consolidation and when such a plan could go into effect if approved.

Hearing On New Charge Is Sought

The Sausalito District Teachers Association has charged the principal of Martin Luther King School with incompetence and unethical conduct and has asked the school district board for a closed hearing to discuss the charges, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg reported.

The black principal, Henry Hopkins, was hired by the district last August to replace Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. fired by the former school board in May.

The association, which represents most of the district's 53 certificated employees, last night asked the board for a closed session at the board's regular meeting on June 28. Lindberg said the trustees asked him to obtain specific details on the charges and recommend what procedures the board should follow in the matter.

The charges, against Principal Henry Hopkins, were formulated at a meeting of the teachers association on Friday, Association President James T. Toliver Jr. said.

Honeymoon Site A Guarded Secret

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Tricia and Edward Cox, who managed to say out of the public eye during their two-year courtship, are just as elusive on their honeymoon.

Their honeymoon spot is a closely guarded secret among the few at the White House, including the President and Mrs. Nixon, who are privy to the information.

Out of fear of "leaks," most secret servicemen were kept in the dark, too, except for Tricia's agents who discreetly went along on the trip.

Board Asks Toliver Case Court Test

The Sausalito School District board last night voted to go ahead with dismissal proceedings against Special Assistant James T. Toliver Jr. and directed its counsel to file charges in Marin Superior Court.

Trustee Jerry L. Whitcomb cast the only dissenting vote and board Chairman Nathaniel Johnson was absent.

Toliver's attorney, A. Leonard Bjorklund, had requested a hearing on the charges which the district has leveled against his client in an effort to fire him for cause. The charges in the notification which Toliver received in May included "incompetence, disruptive behavior and failure to follow administrative directives and suggestions."

Last night, under the terms of the education code, the school board had the option of either rescinding its May 13 action to fire the special assistant or proceeding with a Superior Court hearing on the charges.

Toliver, who has been with the district four years, has vowed to fight the move to dismiss him.

U.S.-Soviet Navy Eyeballing Told

MOSCOW (UPI)—U.S. warships and planes in the Mediterranean shadowed a Soviet cruiser carrying Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Andrei A. Grechko last weekend, the government newspaper Izvestia said Monday night.

Grechko was visiting the Soviet squadron in the Mediterranean. Izvestia said the U.S. destroyer Ricketts came so close to the Soviet cruiser Dzerzhinsky, with Grechko aboard, that the Soviet captain radioed his U.S. counterpart.

Changing Date

Peacock Gap Homeowners Association directors agreed, last night, to change their regular meeting days from the second Monday of each month to the second Tuesday of the month. The group also suspended meetings of the association until September.

Looks Ahead To Another '100 Years'

A woman who played hooky from school to watch an Indian hang at the Old Courthouse in San Rafael celebrated her 100th birthday recently at the Rafael Convalescent Hospital in San Rafael.

Mary F. Spellman was born May 27, 1871 in San Francisco, but lived all of life — "except for the first 18 months," — in Marin County.

As a young girl, she was adopted by her uncle and aunt, Richard and Catherine Bullis and grew up on a ranch on what is now Peacock Gap. She rode a horse to school every day and graduated from the old B Street School.

Active in county politics, Mrs. Spellman served on several grand juries in San Rafael. She was a charter member of the Marin County Historical Society and has often helped historians recreate a picture of Marin County during the last century.

When she reached her 100th birthday, Mrs. Spellman told the friends and relatives who had gathered to help her celebrate that she might live another 100 years.

TIMES

followed publication of another article after Mitchell sent his telegram.

Mitchell said the information contained in the series had top secret classification and further public action would harm the defense interest of the United States.

The government said Monday the report — which quotes from secret strategy meetings, diplomatic cable and military directives — contains highly sensitive information even though it deals with the period before 1968.

A Justice Department spokesman said Harding Bancroft, asked what the government position would be if publication continued.

"The department would seek to enforce all applicable statutes and would seek an injunction to prevent further publication of the information," said Assistant Attorney General Robert Mardian, in charge of the Internal Security Division. The department did not say when such action would be taken.

The Times said it would "oppose any request for an injunction for the same reason that led us to publish the articles in the first place. We would of course abide by the final decision of the court."

The Pentagon study, which runs 40 volumes and took a year to complete, details U.S. involvement in Indochina from the Truman administration to the Johnson administration. It details a deeper and deeper commitment in Vietnam through the years and states that several policy decisions did not correspond with official public statements.

The Times said today the government said the publication of the study violated provisions of the Espionage Law, Title 18, United States Code, Section 793 which carries a $10,000 fine and-or 10 years in prison for conviction.

The newspaper said it believed it was the first time a publication had been involved in that particular legal code.

A Farm Family's Note To Hunters

ALICE, N.D. (UPI)—A farm family near Alice, N.D. has come up with a cure for hunters who insist on killing their tame ducks and geese. It gives hunters a few laughs but leaves no doubt as to intent.

Next to what looks like the grave of a fallen hunter, complete with cross topped by the hunter's hat, is the message: "Here lie the remains of the last hunter who shot one of Mrs. D. Hahn's tame ducks."

Mrs. Linehard was a secretary at Hamilton Field Air Force Base and received several awards for outstanding service. She was originally from Ligonier, Pa.

She is survived by her son, Fredric, of Reno, Nev.; two brothers, Richard Rivers of Palm Springs and Mark Rivers of Hope, Idaho; and two grandchildren.

Private services were held today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Memorial donations should be made to the William Babcock Memorial Endowment Fund.

5 Viets Killed In Khe Sanh Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist artillerymen bombarded a South Vietnamese outpost near the abandoned U. S. base at Khe Sanh in an attack that killed five Saigon government troops and wounded 15 others, military spokesmen said today. The Viet Cong killed four Americans and wounded eight in an ambush near Saigon.

A communique from Phnom Penh said a terrorist threw a grenade at a truckload of U. S. GIs but it missed them and injured two Cambodians.

Allied spokesmen also reported heavy fighting near the South Vietnamese Artillery Base 5 in the Central Highlands. They reported 68 Communists killed in Monday clashes.

The Communists fired more than 200 rounds of 82mm mortar Monday afternoon and evening eight miles east of Khe Sanh. Five South Vietnamese Marines were killed and 15 wounded in the shelling. The North Vietnamese were reported to have moved more than 10,000 men into the mountainous region in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

U. S. B52 bombers flew four missions over the area in the 24 hours ended at noon today, command spokesmen said. The B52s have dropped nearly 1.5 million pounds of bombs over the area since Saturday in the heaviest concentration of B52 raids in South Vietnam since the Laotian operation in Feburary and March.

At the port of Qui Nhon on South Vietnam's northern coast, an explosion rocked the U. S. merchant ship "American Hawk" early today. The 492-foot 12,900-ton vessel was carrying military supplies but no munitions or oil, a military spokesman said. The ship, owned by the New American Foreign Steamship Co. of New York, was listing 10 degrees to port. One longshoreman was injured.

U. S. spokesmen said the cause of the explosion was apparently a mine planted on the ship's hull by Communist frogmen.

The ambush of the American GIs was 45 miles northeast of Saigon on Monday.

Military spokesmen said Communist units halted a U.S. armored patrol with a mine Monday then opened fire with rifles, machine guns and rocket grenades, killing four Americans and wounding eight.

The Americans called in artillery and helicopter gunships and killed nine of the attackers in the fighting 45 miles northeast of Saigon near Xuan Loc.

A communique said the patrol of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Air Cavalry Division was on a mission in a heavily wooded area when the Communists attacked.

In Phnom Penh, two terrorists on a motorbike threw a grenade at a truckload of American GIs on a downtown street. Police said it missed the Americans but wounded a Cambodian soldier and a taxi driver who was passing by.

BEST POLICEMAN — Lt. Raymond F. Bleasdale of the San Rafael Police Department has been awarded the Capt. Robert J. O'Neill perpetual trophy for doing the most for law enforcement during the past year. The trophy was presented Saturday by the International Footprinters Association, a group of law enforcement officers and businessmen.

Split Vote Passage Of Fairfax Sign Law

Fairfax City Council last night adopted a new sign ordinance that will outlaw more than 90 per cent of the city's business signs.

The council voted 3-2 to adopt the ordinance which had been in the making for the last two years. Dissenting were Councilmen Lee Nelder and Robert R. Souza. No representatives of the business community spoke.

The new regulation, effective July 15, was adopted after the council reviewed a survey by Robert E. Crowe, city administrator, listing 59 businesses with signs that would be in violation.

One business, Celoni's Liquor Store and Cocktail Lounge on Broadway, will have seven separate violations under the new ordinance which allows present businesses up to two years to change their signs to conform with new standards or apply for a variance from the city's design review board.

Crowe said that generally the business people were unanimous in supporting a sign ordinance that would clean up some of the proliferation of signing and prohibit additional undesirable signs.

In opposing adoption of the ordinance, Souza said, "We're going to have some real problems with enforcement — we've got 90 to 95 per cent of the businesses nonconforming. It's going to become more political than architectural."

Nelder said the ordinance was basically a copy of the one adopted in Mill Valley in 1966 and suggested residents and members of the council go to Mill Valley before adopting the same ordinance in Fairfax.

"If that's the way you want Fairfax to look — it's no use kidding ourselves. Personally, I think it's a mess," he said. "I feel it'll take more away from the town than add to it."

Charles L. A. Eckles, chairman of the design review board, urged the council to adopt the new regulation as a beginning.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

HONORED — Paid special tribute to retiring Fire Capt. Frank E. Harrison, who served as a volunteer for more than 20 years and as a full-time regular fireman for more than 20 years.

VACATION — Continued until July 21 a proposed resolution that would allow police and firemen to accumulate a limited amount of vacation time.

TAXI RATE HIKE — Set a public hearing for July 12 on proposed rate increases by Yellow Cab Co. of San Rafael. Proposed rates are, with existing rates in parenthesis, 70 cents for the first one-sixth mile (70 cents for first two-fifth mile); 10 cents for each additional one-sixth mile (10 cents for each additional one-fifth mile).

SALES TAX — Voted to support a constitutional amendment to redistribute sales tax on the basis of population. The request for support came from the City of Woodlake, Tulare County.

SPACE SHUTTLE — Voted to support a request from the City of Sacramento that work on the Space Shuttle Main Engine be done in Northern California.

PARKS COMMISSION — Appointed Russell J. Wilcox, a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School, as junior member of the Parks and Recreation Commission and appointed Leo Cronin as a regular member of the commission.

PARKADE — Approved unanimously regulated parking for merchants and their employees on part of the Parkade at an annual rate of $50, prorated at $5 per month for periods under one year.

GARBAGE RATES — Heard a proposed ordinance increasing garbage collection rates 25 cents a month; matter will have second reading at the next meeting.

MASTER PLAN — Approved an amendment to the master plan that includes the Design Review Board in the planning process. Vote was 3-2 with Councilmen Nelder and Souza opposing.

BUDGET — Will continue hearings on the proposed budget at 7:30 p.m. today at the Women's Club.

Banker Firm On Lockheed Loan Prop

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The airlines and banks which stand to lose the most if Lockheed goes broke say the firm's rescue would be an almost riskless venture for the U. S. government —but they won't commit another dime without a government guarantee of repayment.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., tried but failed to shake them from that position at Monday's hearing by the Senate Banking Committee into the Nixon administration bill for government backing of $250 million in bank loans for the financially troubled aviation and defense giant.

He said the banks have a "certainty of loss" vs. a "likelihood of profit" if they increase their ante; but C. J. Medberry, board chairman of the Bank of America, the nation's biggest bank, insisted that "prudent banking practice" rules out any more loans without government backing.

Today the committee was hearing from opponents of the administration's proposal, including A. Ernest Fitzgerald, the former Pentagon auditor who first brought to public attention the Lockheed cost overruns which added about $2.6 billion to the government's price for the C5A military transport.

Also called was Sen. Lowell Weiker, R-Conn., who says he would aid a filibuster if that is what it takes to block action on the Lockheed bill.

Medberry said the bankers had "come to a threshhold beyond which they will not go" without a government guarantee.

Dayan Says Mideast War Renewal May Be Imminent

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned Monday "the resumption of war may be imminent" in the Middle East.

Dayan, who has been taking a public soft-line attitude in recent months, changed his tone sharply in a speech to Hebrew University students in Jerusalem. His words apparently were prompted by the Arab guerrilla attack against an Israeli-bound oil tanker in the Red Sea Friday.

"The winds blowing in the Arab capitals tend more towards the resumption of the war than putting an end to it," he said. "Therefore the resumption of war may be imminent."

He said Israel was more interested in making peace than war, but if a new conflict came Israeli troops could reach the Arab capitals of Cairo, Amman and Damascus.

Dayan said "we for our part will look after our interests." He did not say exactly what measures were being taken.

Petaluma Council Passes On Plans For New Park

Preliminary plans for the development of La Tercera Park were approved last night by the Petaluma City Council.

Landscape architect Donald Campbell, a member of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association, displayed the plan for the 2.7-acre neighborhood park adjacent to La Tercera School and the Valley Little League Diamond.

The park will include separate play areas for pre-school and elementary-aged children, picnic area, horseshoe court and an open space area for free play on the north side. Campbell said off-site parking for 30 cars has been included along with the planting of evergreen trees to block the prevailing west wind.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said he hoped a contract could be awarded soon so that contouring work may proceed and the park completed by fall. Members of the homeowners association have pledged to provide free construction labor and a Petaluma civic organization is reportedly considering the donation of funds to buy play equipment.

The Petaluma City Council also:

BUDGET — Set budget study sessions for Thursday at 7 p.m. and for June 23 at 9 a.m., a session expected to last all day.

HEALTH FEE — Asked City Atty. Edouard E. Robert to investigate what action can be taken against two firms which have not paid the required $20 fee for inspection by the Sonoma County Health Department. Robert H. Reed, sanitarian, said Tony's Bar and Monticello's School Store had not paid the required fee.

SEWAGE — Asked Robert to study new rulings set by the Regional Water Quality Control Board requiring additional monitoring of effluent going into the Petaluma River. City Engineer David A. Young said the expanded program would require $3,600 in new equipment and an annual outlay of $1,200 for laboratory expenses. The council asked Robert to see what legal action the board could take against the city if it chose not to comply.

CARD ROOMS — Adopted an ordinance which would allow card rooms to be located in establishments were liquor is served, but would prohibit liquor to be served to card players.

Wall Not Yet Built Draws Citizen Fire

Fairfax City Council last night took a look at a wall in the city — nicknamed "the Berlin Wall" — and voted 3-2 to do something about it.

The council decided to question Standard Oil about the wall the Chevron station is rebuilding at the intersection of Broadway, Sir Francis Drake and Bank Street. Opposing the move were Councilman Francis J. O'Connell and Mayor Cornelis Van Vliet who said they would worry about the wall after it was built.

Although the item was not included on the council's agenda, the matter was brought before it by Louis Vacarro, a resident who said he had to look at the "ugly wall" every day.

John Price, another audience member, said the wall made the building look like "a concentration camp." He told the council, "They ought to have dogs outside patrolling it."

Councilman Frank J. Egger said the wall is "right up against the city right-of-way." He said he was afraid a car might run into the building because it was so close to the road. The wall, part of the station being rebuilt, is about 16 feet high.

Advisory Board Expansion On Top

A proposal to extend the jurisdiction of Sausalito's Community Appearances Advisory Board to give the board additional review power over commercial, industrial and multiple dwelling buildings will be considered by the Sausalito City Council at 8 p.m. Today in City Hall.

At its last meeting, the council agreed the advisory board should have no jurisdiction over new construction or remodeling of single-family homes.

SON OF A GIANT HAS LONG WAY TO GO

Only six days old and already weighing 250 pounds, this 6-foot tall baby giraffe is the son of one of the largest giraffes in captivity. The father, Jeep, is 17 feet tall and weighs 2,500 pounds. But the mother, Janie, shown here with the baby, is only 14 feet tall and weighs about a ton. The giraffes live at the St. Louis Zoo in Forest Park, Mo.

Skipper Of Tanker Reports Close Fire

TEL AVIV (UPI)—The captain of the Israeli-chartered Coral Sea said Tuesday four men in a speedboat fired a broadside of bazooka rockets at the laden 68,000-ton oil tanker in the Bab el Mandeb Strait last Friday.

Capt. Marcus Mouskus, a Greek with more than 14 years service in the Israeli merchant marine, said two other boats accompanied the attackers but gave no other details.

The Coral Sea came under attack as it passed through the strait connecting the Arabian Sea and the Red Sea. Nine rockets hit the tanker and started fires, but no casualties were reported. (The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said in Beirut the four PFLP guerrillas who carried out the attack have been detained by North Yemeni authorities. A spokesman said the guerrilla boat was pursued by naval vessels "of unkown identity, but believed to be Ethiopian" immediately after the attack and forced to make a landing in the Republic of (North) Yemen, north of its major port of Hodeida. The PFLP called on North Yemen to release the guerrillas "according to its national obligations."

The tanker reached the Israeli-occupied Red Sea fortress of Sharm el Sheikh Monday night and is due to reach Eilat Wednesday or Thursday.

Man Is Booked In Embezzling

A 42-year-old Berkeley man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of embezzling a leased auto, after police found the vehicle parked in front of his former Sausalito home, a month after it was scheduled to be returned to the rental agency.

Officers said Frank Hathaway Winston Jr. was arrested about 6:35 p.m. in front of 619 Spring Street where the car had been parked for two weeks.

A check revealed the car had been rented from Budget Rent-A-Car in South San Francisco and was to have been returned to the agency by May 7.

Winston was Freed on $2,400 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Driver Injured At Overpass

A 63-year-old San Francisco woman was injured yesterday at 12:15 p.m. when her car spun into the center divider of Highway 101 in Greenbrae and struck a pedestrian overpass.

Frances B. Gibson was treated at Marin General Hospital for a chip fracture on the spine and a bruised left leg.

California Highway Patrol officers said she told them her car was forced to swerve when another vehicle cut in front of her.

Laird Aide New Army Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon Tuesday named Robert F. Froehlke, an assistant defense secretary and close personal friend of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, to be secretary of the Army.

Froehlke will succeed Stanley R. Resor, who resigned recently to return to private business after holding the job for six stormy years.

Froehlke, 48, is a World War II veteran who rose to the rank of captain during service in Europe.

He joined the Defense Department Jan. 29, 1969, shortly after the Nixon administration came into office, as assistant defense secretary for administration.

Laird gave him responsibility for all Defense Department intelligence activities and made him chairman of the defense investigative review council.

Froehlke graduated from the University of Wisconsin Law School and practiced law in Madison for 11 years before returning to the university to join its faculty in 1950.

In 1951, he joined the Century Insurance Co., in Stevens Point, Wis., and become a top level executive.

Froehlke has been a close friend of Laird's for many years. He was reported in line for the job since Resor announced his decision May 21 to step down.

Pair Pleads Innocent To Marijuana Related Charges

Gregory Mcore Shields, 22, and Michael Moore Shields, 23 both of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of cultivating marijuana and maintaining a place for selling and using narcotics.

A preliminary hearing was set for July 13.

The cases of two codefendants were continued yesterday.

Clayton Stephen Anderson, 22, of San Rafael, is to return to court June 29 to plead to charges of selling amphetamine, cocaine, and mescaline; two counts of selling marijuana; cultivating marijuana, and maintaining a place for selling and using narcotics.

Kenneth Wilkes Bright, 22, also of San Rafael, is to plead Monday to charges of selling marijuana, mescaline and amphetamine; two counts of selling cocaine, cultivating marijuana, and maintaining a place for selling and using narcotics.

The four were arrested June 4 when Marin Drug Abuse agents went to their home with a warrant.

An article in the Independent-Journal June 5 erred in reporting that the group was alleged to have possessed heroin. Bright's name was also misspelled in that article.

Leeway Granted To Diablo Traingle Plan

The Novato Planning Commission last night reaffirmed its backing of planned residential zoning for the Diablo Triangle, but left the door open for some commercial development.

Commissioners recommended revision of the planned residential zoning ordinance to permit limited commercial uses.

The Novato City Council referred the zoning matter back to the commission last week after indicating it would consider commercial use for two parcels at Diablo Avenue and South Novato Boulevard.

The city's downtown plan calls for multiple family development in the undeveloped area of the triangle, bounded by South Novato Boulevard, Diablo Avenue and Center Road.

The commission also: recommended rezoning two parcels, 725 and 727 Orange Avenue from single family to multiple family as requested by John E. Sorum; recommended rezoning four lots at the southeast corner of Vallejo Avenue and Seventh Street from single family to multiple family as requested by Margie A. Yates, and granted Novato Parents Nursery School indefinite extension of its use permit to operate a school at the United Methodist Church, 1473 South Novato Boulevard.

Tentative Tax Rate Looks Rosier

After a series of split votes, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday whittled enough funds from the 1971-72 budget to equal 5.8 cents off the tentative county tax rate.

At the day's end, according to Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, the tentative rate stood at $3.117 per $100 assessed valuation — as compared with the present $2.565. The budget hearings opened with a tentative rate of $3.175.

To make the trims, the supervisors deleted $251,022 that had been requested for relocating and expanding offices in the Hall of Justice, $43,525 proposed for plans for a $500,000 county garage and repair facility at the Civic Center and revised proposals for landscaping the Civic Center and Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

The landscaping priorities may be revised again. Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said he wanted to present a new package proposal later during the budget talks.

Hopes of the Marin Civic Ballet Association to lease an acre of county land east of the Civic Center to build a $300,000 office and studio building for its headquarters were unveiled for the first time.

Max Thelen Jr. explained that the association hopes to arrange a foundation grant to finance the building. He asked the supervisors to budget for utilities to the easterly portion of the 85-acre Civic Center property, where it has long been planned to place several cultural activity buildings.

Board Chairman Louis H. Baar said he believed it would be at least a year before the ballet group could be sure of enough funds. He suggested Thelen and the association work toward a future budget.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. suggested a compromise use for part of the $165,000 in the proposed budget for landscaping around the Hall of Justice and the auditorium. He asked that $85,000 be held in reserve for preparing the ballet center site. It could be used for other landscaping work if the ballet group does not raise the building money, he said.

The vote on Arrigoni's proposal was 3-to-2, with Baptiste declaring he wanted the money used for landscaping the Civic Center lagoon area and Baar simply voting no.

The board spent more than two hours arguing whether to complete landscaping of the auditorium parking lot and develop the county fairgrounds between the auditorium and the lagoon.

Supervisor Michael Wornum finally moved to budget a total of $150,000 "with the direction that the least amount possible will be spent on the (auditorium) parking lot and the rest (on the fair site) toward the lagoon."

Again it was a 3-2 vote, with Baar objecting "how much money are we going to spend on landscaping this-year?" and Arrigoni reminding the board "You're talking about two and a-half cents on the tax rate."

According to Mitchell, $70,000 is raised by each additional cent on the tax rate.

Despite recommendations by County Administrator Alan Bruce, the board sharply refused to spend a quarter-million dollars on completing vavant rooms on the top floor of the Hall of Justice so the probation, public defender, district attorney and other offices could be expanded or relocated.

The departments have been in the Hall of Justice less than two years, and already are seeking more space at a cost of $20 to $25 a square foot, the board pointed out.

During yesterday's hearings, the board acted on several requests by outside agencies for funds.

The supervisors unanimously vetoed a request from the City of Mill Valley for $25,000 to help remove the Miller Avenue slide. They approved $42,500 of the $44,986 requested by the Marin City Community Services District.

The board postponed action on a Sausalito School District request for in-lieu tax payment to compensate for Marin City pupils using the district and on the Shoreline School District's request for $82,000 to make up for loss of tax base due to the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Supervisor John F. McInniss recalled that last year the board gave the county schools office "clear-cut fiscal responsibility" at its own request. He suggested asking the Marin County Board of Education to raise the funds without adding to the county government's general fund tax rate.

SCHOOL LESSON PAYS OFF IN LIFE SAVING

Thanks to the quick thinking of his brother, 3-year-old Douglas Lorenger survived a near drowning yesterday in the pool at his home.

Douglas was lying at the bottom of the pool when his brother, Randy, 13, saw him and dove in. He pulled Douglas out of the pool and began giving him artificial respiration — a technique he had learned in school, but had never used.

San Anselmo Fire Department arrived at 7:30 p.m. with resuscitators and rushed the still-unconscious boy to Marin General Hospital.

The boy was revived at the hospital after several minutes and spent the night in his own bed. Both boys are children of Mr. and Mrs. Peirre E. Lorenger of 60 Green Valley Court, San Anselmo.

Petaluman's Leg Lost In Crash

A 21-year-old Petluma man lost a leg and three other persons were injured as a result of an accident at 10 p.m. yesterday on Old Adobe Road, south of Lynch Road, Petaluma.

Hillcrest hospital officials said the right leg of Edward Howard Elliott, 91 Thompson Lane, was amputated below the knee. He was reported in satisfactory condition today.

The California Highway Patrol said Elliott was standing in front of a parked car when struck by a southbound car driven by James Baffunno, 68, of 149 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo. Officers said Elliott had been attempting to start a second parked car with jumper cables.

Baffunno, whose car also hit one of the parked autos, was treated at the hospital for a cut nose, and his passenger, Gladys I. Rich, 56, of Sonoma, was treated for cuts of the arms and legs and transferred in good condition to Sonoma Valley Hospital.

A second pedestrian, Robert Grimes, 24, of 1941 Old Adobe Road, was treated for cuts of the face and arms, suffered when he was struck by one of the parked cars.

Tiburon Spokesman: Hilarita Density Cut

A weekend preview of the planned 112-unit apartment project at Tiburon's Hilarita site drew about 50 persons and saw both optimism and concern expressed over the development.

E. G. (Ned) Weed, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, sponsor of the apartment development, said about 12 residents of the present World War II housing attended the Saturday session. A few were concerned over whether they would be allowed to live at the new apartments.

Weed said they were told the new apartments will accommodate all of the project's current residents who qualify for low and moderate cost housing, although he did not know how many persons this amounted to.

Also present were two longtime critics of the project, City Planning Commissioner Allan N. Littman and Herbert G. Wenig, owner of property adjacent to the eight-acre site.

Weed said the men, who last year opposed the new project partly on the basis of its relatively high density, were told that the development's "effective density" has been reduced by cutting down on the number of three and four-bedroom units in favor of smaller ones.

"Effective density" takes into account the size of units, demands on city services, number of cars that will be generated by the development and amount of land covered. Actual density is based on the number of units per acre only.

Weed, however, was unable to supply precise figures on the density decrease.

He said several discussion groups operated Saturday, including one to handle complaints, another to discuss architectural specifications, still another to present provisions for handling drainage and sewage, and one to describe financing available for the project.

Despite the reservations expressed, Weed said the overall atmosphere was "positive and optimistic."

In ceremonies during the five-hour session, Weed said, a certificate of appreciation was presented to Donald O. Stutsman, former executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, for his work on the project.

Marin Planners Approve Strawberry Housing Plan

A master plan for a 334-unit apartment development on the ridge east of Highway 101 in Strawberry was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The 24-acre parcel is owned by Sea-Port Development Co., which asked for an average density of 14 units per acre, including 127 two-bedroom apartments.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

NOVATO — Rezoned 26.69 acres on Hicks Valley Road east of Stafford Lake from A-2 to minimum one-acre lots. The so-called G. J. Garlick property had been overlooked in earlier rezoning of the entire area.

LOT — Upheld neighbors' appeals against a variance granted G. C. Kott to legalize a substandard building lot at 363 Pinehill Road, Tennessee Valley.

KENTFIELD — Denied applicant David Cunningham's appeal against denial of a variance for a substandard building lot at 130 Wolfe Grade Road, Kentfield.

COAST — Continued to June 28 a decision on architect Bruce Beebe's appeal against conditions on a six-lot land division one-half mile south of Blake's Landing on Shoreline Highway.

LUCAS VALLEY — Voted to rezone the Melvin Swig 21-acre parcel west of Mount Shasta Drive to limited agricultural with three-acre minimum lot size, but was unable to get the four votes necessary to act on the Marinwood Community Service District's appeal against the land division granted to Swig by the planning director.

INDUSTRIAL PARK — Postponed action to June 28 on a master plan for the Del Pantano Industrial Park near Gnoss Field north of Novato.

DAY CARE CENTERS — Set a public hearing for July 12 to consider changing the definition of home occupation to include home care for the mentally retarded.

LOT SIZE — Set a public hearing for July 12 to consider amending the county ordinance to increase maximum permissible lot size from 40 to 60 acres.

'Acid Test' For Antifreeze Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said today the "acid test" commercial for Prestone antifreeze is deceptive and has been banned under an agreement with the manufacturer.

Another FTC false advertising case is pending against a second major antifreeze, Zerex, made by DuPont.

The FTC said it was provisionally accepting a consent order under which Prestone's manufacturer, Union Carbide Corp., New York, is banned from using deceptive demonstrations to promote any consumer product.

In the "acid test" commercial, two strips of metal —one dipped in Prestone, the other in "ordinary antifreeze" —are immersed in acid. The "ordinary antifreeze" strip is destroyed. The one dipped in Prestone is not.

The FTC said neither the acid, the metal, the antifreeze mixture nor the corrosive effect have anything to do with what happens in the car's cooling system.

Vandals Break Into Nike Site

Vandals broke into an abandoned United States Army Nike site Thursday and caused $60,000 in property damage, police reported yesterday.

A metal trailer, on the Black Canyon site in San Rafael, containing electronic micro-wave equipment had been entered, police said, and extensive vandalism occurred.

The Nike site has been abandoned for several months, and, according to police, has been the site for numerous incidences of vandalism. No arrest has been made in the case.

Mill Valley Car Crash Injures 3

Three members of a Mill Valley family have been treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for injuries suffered in a three-car crash on East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley.

Treated at the hospital Saturday for cuts and bruises were Carol M. Roecks, 41, of 278 Summit Avenue, and her daughter, Sandra L., 14. A second daughter, Althea M., 19, sustained a mild concussion.

Mill Valley police said the pileup occurred Saturday at 6:08 p.m. when a car driven east on East Blithedale Avenue by Jack D. Williams, 50, of 52 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Ross, stopped to make a left turn at Meadow Road.

Williams's car was struck from behind by a vehicle operated by Dean Reis, 17, of 9 Juno Road, Tiburon, police said. The impact pushed the Williams car into the path of the Roecks vehicle, which was westbound on East Blithedale Avenue.

Motorcyclist, 19, Injured In Spill

A 19-year-old Novato youth who fell while riding his motorcycle in a field near Indian Valley Golf Course was treated yesterday at Novato General Hospital for multiple scrapes and bruises.

The California Highway Patrol said Michael A. Tournahu, of 1217 Fourth Street, fell about 3:30 p.m. on the field off Novato Boulevard east of the entrance to the golf course.

Mamie Gets Standing Ovation In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower was escorted to the House podium for Monday's Flag Day ceremony, she didn't expect to make a speech; but Speaker Carl Albert eased her to the microphone.

"I am so very proud to be an American," she said, tears welling in her eyes. "I'm so very, very proud of the House." Members, their guests and tourists jammed in the galleries gave her a standing ovation.

MOLOTOV COCKTAIL THROWN AT GUARDSMEN

Three militants in Albuquerque, N.M., were caught in the act of lighting and throwing a firebomb yesterday at advancing National Guard troops who were called up to quell two days of rioting, burning and looting in the city. A photographer took the picture on the left just after the crouched youth had lit the molotov cocktail. A split second later, another photo (right) caught the act of throwing the firebomb. Officials said the 61 fires were started during the disorders, 46 persons were injured and almost 400 persons were arrested. By 3 a.m. this morning the unrest appeared to have subsided. Welfare Chief Cites Deficit Vs. Reform

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature was told today Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $676.6 million budget for welfare would have to be increased by $109 million if no legislative or administrative "reforms" were adopted.

State Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson, testifying for the second consecutive day on the governor's spending plan and defeated welfare bills, made the estimate at a hearing of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The governor originally earmarked $676.6 million in state funds for operation of welfare during the next fiscal year and later proposed his welfare revision plan.

Under yuestioning, Carleson said if none of Reagan's proposed legislative and administrative regulatory changes were adopted, $169 million would have to be added to the budget.

But he said he now had the authority to reduce that figure by a "conservative" $60 million by implementing regulations which would tighten eligibility for welfare aid. This would leave a balance of $109 million.

Carleson made the estimates under questioning from Ways and Means chairman William Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, who demanded a "hard, fast (budget) figure we can live with evermore."

Later, Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, accused the administration of publicly "touting" a savings of $684 million through adoption of the governor's welfare program.

Bagley asserted someone in the administration was supplying that figure to "citizen committees" he said are being organized to support Reagan's plan. But Bagley said the projected savings actually was closer to $169 million.

"It's unfair and perhaps grossly unfair for the department to tout this figure to rump citizen committees," he said. "Please write them again and say we're only going to save $169 million."

Carleson insisted that $684 million could be saved if the legislature and federal government "get behind this welfare reform program." He added, "We still stick to that figure. It is very firm."

The director also testified on the governor's program Monday during an often-tumultuous six-hour hearing called to examine its fiscal impact along with that of a Democratic-sponsored welfare plan.

That hearing was abruptly recessed by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, after a dispute arose over alleged withholding of information.

$1,891 Robbery At Loch Lomond Marina

Personal property and equipment valued at $1,891 was taken between 2:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. Saturday from five boats moored at Loch Lomond Marina at 175 Loch Lomond Drive, San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

The boat owners and their losses are: Judson Weil of San Francisco, $343; Howard M. Arneson of 6 Locksly Lane, San Rafael, $773; Robert B. Bottini of 45 Bellevue Avenue, San Rafael, $45; William J. Treber of 12 Montego Key, Novato, $485 and Charles G. Rosenbaum of 10 Morgan Lane, San Rafael, $245.

Infant No. 7 Dies; Two Fight For Life

SYDNEY (UPI)—The seventh of the nine infants born Sunday to the wife of a wholesale meat salesman died today, leaving only one boy and one girl alive, doctors at the Sydney Royal Women's Hospital reported.

The latest death was that of Geraldine Brodrick's firstborn, a girl. Attending doctors had held the greatest hope of her survival until her condition suddenly deteriorated. She died at 11:15 a.m. (1:15 a.m. EDT), less than 55 hours after delivery.

Mrs. Brodrick, 29, the mother of two other girls by Caeserian section, gave natural birth to five boys and four girls in what medical experts say was a world record number for one pregnancy. Doctors said delivery was almost three months premature. She had taken pills to promote natural childbirth before her pregnancy. Doctors had told her the drug could increase fertility as a side effect.

Two of the infants were stillborn and three others died less than 24 hours after delivery. A sixth baby, a girl, died during the early hours today.

The only surviving boy was six inches long and weighed 12 ounces at birth, the smallest of the nine. His surviving sister was a one-pounder and less than eight inches long.

The hospital's official report of the seventh death confirmed what had been reported hours earlier by friends close to the Brodrick family. Authorities at the hospital have restricted newsmen from the premises and keep them informed only through bulletins posted on the hospital's front door.

Dr. John Grenwell, the medical suprintendent, earlier said Mrs. Brodrick was continuing to make progress in her recovery. No change in her condition was reported.

Petaluma's Third Fire Unit Opens

Petaluma's third fire station went into operation today with a simple dedication and flag-raising ceremony at 8 a.m.

Mayor Helen Putnam and members of the city council led the short ceremony. Two pieces of equipment and four firefighters will be on duty at the station on South McDowell Boulevard at Berrydale Drive.

Only landscaping remains to be done and Northbay Federal Savings and Loan Association of Petaluma will assist in that by planting several large birch trees at the firehouse grounds tomorrow at 11:30 a.m.

The tree planting ceremony will kick off a campaign by the bank to improve living conditions in the North Bay. It plans to spearhead a tree planting campaign in the Petaluma area and to encourage residents, businesses and organizations to join in the effort.

Tribunal Curbs Labor Dept. Powers On Policing Of Unions

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court, ruling on a California case, has curbed the Labor Department's power to reform the infernal operations of unions on the basis of complaints by members.

In a 6-2 decision Monday, the court held the department was barred from bringing a civil action against a union about a matter which was not included specifically in a member's complaint under the 1959 LaborManagement Reporting and Disclosure Act.

Justice Thurgood Marshall wrote the majority opinion.

In another 5-4 decision, the court held in an Idaho case that a union member could not sue in a state court on grounds the union had him fired from his job for non-payment of dues. Justice John M. Harlan ruled for the majority that the issue was one for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), exclusively under past Supreme Court cases.

The case relating to the Labor Department's police power stemmed from a complaint by Nicholas Hantzis, an unsuccessful candidate for president of Local 6799 of the United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO) in Ontario, Calif.

Hantzis first protested to the union about the fairness of a June 12, 1967, election on the ground that union facilities were used to prepare campaign literature for the incumbent president, Kenneth Rose, who won.

Unable to obtain satisfaction, he went to the department, at the same time adding a challenge to a rule restricting candidacy for local offine to members who have attended at least half the local union meetings during a 5-year period preceding the nominations.

The department sued on both counts in federal district court in Los Angeles.

Marshall said Hantzis knew about the attendance rule when he made his protests to the union local and international. He said it would be "to weaken union self-government" to let the department go ahead with a lawsuit when the union had not considered the matter. He said the court did not reach the question of whether the rule itself is reasonable.

The Idaho case concerned a lawsuit by Wilson P. Lockridge, who lost his job as a Greyhound bus driver in 1959 on demand of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach employes.

State court awarded him a judgment of $32,678 on the ground that the discharge was a violation of the collective bargaining agreement under which the employes worked.

Failing Weather Hampers Search for Downed Jet

HONOLULU (UPI)—Deteriorating weather today hampered a search near remote Palmyra Island where an Air Force C135 jet research plane crashed into the ocean with 24 men aboard.

Debris, possibly from the big four-engine transport, was seen in the search area Monday but could not be identified from the air.

Two ships, the destroyer USS Richard Edwards and the British merchant vessel Amalric, steamed toward the scene to investigate the debris described as "white material."

A U. S. Navy search official said Monday night rain squalls were intensifying and cutting down visibility in the area. Search planes which had been circling above the debris were called home for the night.

There seemed to be little chance anyone survived the crash but a Navy search official at Pearl Harbor said:

"The mere fact that we're continuing the search indicates we haven't lost hope that there may be some survivors. Until the ships arrive to give us surface capabilities we really can't speculate on the odds of finding survivors."

The big jet was carrying 12 military men and 12 civilians when it disappeared Sunday on a 2,300-mile flight from American Samoa to Hawaii.

The C135 was based at Wright Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio.

Italian Airline Firm On Fare

NEW YORK (UPI)—Alitalia Airlines contends it will continue to sell youth tickets to Rome for a bargain $199 despite a Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) decision against the low fare.

"We must continue to apply this tariff on orders from our government pending resolution of this dilemma through proper channels or in the courts," Guido Vittori, general manager of Alitalia in the United States said Monday. The airline is owned and operated by the Italian government.

Alitalia applied to the CAB last week to put the new fare into effect on one day's notice. But Alitalia said the CAB decided Friday the bargain fare for passengers aged 12 to 26 could not be put into effect for at least 30 days.

Miracle Coating Replaces House Paint for 15 Years

Los Angeles, Calif.

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 15 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX texture Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

Over 1,000,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 10,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor — at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Homes and Guided Missiles
Unique among KENITEX applications is the use on guided missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Shot From a Gun
KENITEX is guaranteed for 15 years against chipping, flaking or peeling . . . it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually, "Shot from a Gun" KENITEX fuses to the sidewalls in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

Free Estimates
Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by the Golden Gate Bldr's Inc. licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low — convenient terms can be arranged. Home owners can obtain free estimates without obligations, by calling 776-4453 or mail coupon herewith:

Water Controllers Pass Tough Bay Sewage Plan

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

OAKLAND — More than $88 million in new sewerage facilities must be built in Marin and Southern Sonoma under a tough plan adopted unanimously yesterday by the Regional Water Quality Control board.

Boat owners also will be socked by the new plan, which immediately bans all discharge into San Francisco Bay of sewage wastes from vessels. Enforcement of the ban, however, was at least a year away, the board's staff said.

The "interim water quality management plan" was required by the federal government to maintain local sewerage agencies' eligibility for grants. These grants and state money can cover up to 80 per cent of capital costs of local sewerage projects. But local agencies were warned they still would have to build required facilities even if they had to pay for them on their own without grants.

The plan fixed deadlines and estimated costs for the nine-county region at almost $850 million during the next five fiscal years. Of this amount, some $600 million would be to pipe treated wastes to deep bay waters for better dilution than possible in shallow waters close to shore.

The rest of the money would be for improved treatment and to start reclaiming wastewater for reuse.

The cost estimates were bound to be too low, however, since they were based on 1971 costs and did not allow for inflation. The heaviest costs under the plan were projected toward the end of the five-year period.

The plan warned that cease and desist orders will be imposed on dischargers who fail to comply with its requirements. State law provides for $6,000-a-day fines and bans on all new construction for violating such orders.

Virtually all of the projects listed in the plan are being studied by local sewerage agencies, but the plan's deadlines for construction were far ahead of any being considered by the agencies.

The preliminary draft of the plan, reported in detail on April 13 by the Independent-Journal, proposed the ban on vessel discharge only in Tomales Bay, Bolinas Lagoon and Drakes and Limantour esteros. The regional board, however, last month suggested extending the ban to the entire bay system.

The ban would apply to vessel wastes "regardless of the degree of treatment," a provision that conflicts with pending federal regulations. These regulations set standards for marine sanitation devices effective on all new boats in two years and on existing boats in five years.

Federal law,however, provides that states may seek waivers from the Environmental Protection Agency to impose total bans on vessel discharge. The regional board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, said he would seek such a waiver so the ban could be imposed on bay boaters.

He said a ban was the only feasible solution to pollution from vessels. There were too many to police, he said, adding that marine sanitation devices usually have proven ineffective, nreliable and poorly maintained.

The plan also will require dischargers to remove pesticides and all poisonous wastes such as mercury, lead and cadmium.

Dierker cautioned that meeting the plan's goals "will require increasingly higher levels of treatment." The ultimate aim, he stressed, was "maximum reclamation."

The plan's year-by-year project list, somewhat changed from the original in April, included the following for next fiscal year: Inverness area of the North Marin County Water District, $40,000 to build sewerage system; City of Petaluma, $4,970,000 for pump station, force mains and oxidation ponds; Marin Bay plant of San Rafael Sanitation District, $82,500 to extend discharge pipe in bay; Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, $400,000 for interim improvements; Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, $175,000 for interim improvements; Tiburon Sanitary District, $250,000 for interim improvements; City of Mill Valley, $250,000 for interim improvements; Richardson Bay Sanitary District, $250,000 for interim improvements; Ross Valley Sanitary District, $1 million for interim improvements and treatment of wet weather flows; and San Rafael Sanitation District, $818,000 for pump station and interceptor.

Listed for construction starting in fiscal 1972-73 were: San Rafael Sanitation District, Ross Valley Sanitary District and San Quentin Prison, $20 million for interceptor to Point San Quentin and a deepwater outfall to the bay or ocean; and Richardson Bay dischargers, $10.2 million for treatment plant and ocean outfall at Tennessee Cove.

None was scheduled the following year, but $50 million in 1975-76 was earmarked for a huge interceptor pipe to discharge Southern Sonoma and North Marin sewage at Point San Pedro, Point San Quentin or the ocean.

The regional board's interim plan must be followed by July, 1973, with a specific program to enforce all its restrictions.

Lightning Hits Apollo 15 Tower, Damages Units

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— Engineers checked the Apollo 15 moonship today to make certain it was not harmed by a nearby lightning strike Monday night that apparently knocked out two power units on the rocket's umbilical tower.

The 446-foot umbilical tower next to the Apollo 15 moon rocket was struck three times by lightning, but the booster and its spacecraft apparently escaped damage.

The electrical surge, however, knocked out five pieces of ground equipment used to support the moonship during testing and launch. The damage was considered minor and engineers expected to complete the repairs today.

The lightning strikes interrupted the Apollo 15 flight readiness test, but project officials hoped to resume the exercise today with astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin participating.

Vanishing Bay Marshlands Put Under Army Corps Jurisdiction

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The vanishing marshlands of San Francisco Bay have a new protector, the Army Corps of Engineers.

Prodded by the Sierra Club, the corps has reversed its historical stand that its jurisdiction did not include marshlands even though they were subject to tidal action.

This stand permitted more than 50,000 acres of marshland to be diked on the bay in earlier times without a permit from the corps.

The corps, however, stressed that its new decision was not retroactive, thus would not affect previous actions that allowed such extensive diking. The corps termed the new permit procedures a "clarification" of its previous stand.

The previous stand was based on protection of navigation, but new federal laws in 1969 and 1970 expanded the corps' jurisdiction to include far broader environmental uses. These new powers were upheld in a court test of a Florida case last year.

Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer for the corps, said it now was concerned also with protecting "ecology, fish and wildlife, recreation, water quality and recreation — the total aspect of the well-being of the public."

The new permit procedures also extended the corps' jurisdiction upstream beyond low bridges that block navigation up sloughs and tributaries.

Notice of the new procedures declared the corps' jurisdiction "shall extend to the line on shore reached by the plane of the mean of the higher high water." This is the average of the two daily high tides.

The notice meant that the corps' protection will backstop that of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Any developer receiving a permit to fill marshland from the commission then would have to get one also from the corps.

Silent Alarm To Be Studied

The San Anselmo School District board, meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Red Hill School, will consider purchase and installation of a silent alarm system for Red Hill School.

The alarm system, to be tied into the city's police station, will be purchased with matching school district insurance company funds. Cost is estimated at $600.

Red Hill School during the past year has been the scene of repeated burglaries and vandalism.

The board also is expected to consider reactivating its committee on district goals to review goal setting procedures.

Officer Stops Car, Shot Dead During Struggle

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)— One of two policemen who stopped a car for speeding late Monday was shot in the chest and killed.

Mike Ratikin, 25, a four-year police veteran, was killed by a shot fired from the car he and his partner, Charles Sheldon, stopped shortly before midnight.

Police spokesman Bruce Shaw said seven persons were in the car. One tried to run away and struggled with the two policemen. Three shots were fired from the car, Shaw said. One hit Ratikin.

Sheldon returned fire and wounded one of the passengers in the leg. The others escaped on foot. The one wounded and two others were later captured.

'Wrong Guy' Claims New Lawyer For Corona

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)— The new attorney hired by the family of accused mass murderer Juan V. Corona believes police have "the wrong guy."

"As far as I'm concerned, the man is innocent," said attorney Richard Hawk, a private criminal lawyer who has defended Mexican-Americans in the past.

Corona's family abruptly dismissed their defense attorney Monday in a surprise courtroom move and named Hawk to represent the defendant.

The Mexican-born Corona, suspected of slaying 25 transient farm workers, was present for the 10-minute court action, along with his wife, mother, a sister and brother Pedro who made the decision to replace public defender Roy Van Den Heuvel with Hawk.

"I only learned late yesterday I was being replaced and I have nothing more to say," said Van Den Heuvel.

"I was recommended to the family by people I represented in the past," Hawk said. "I've tried a lot of cases with Mexican-American people."

Mexican-American friends of the defendant, said Hawk, are collecting money for his legal case. He said he did not know how much had been collected.

Judge Denies Dismissal Of Racial Action

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A federal judge refused Monday to dismiss a suit charging officers at Vandenberg Air Force Base with racial discrimination against members of the Malcolm X Association.

The suit, filed by the American Civil Liberties Union, contended the group, composed mostly of black airmen, was denied use of meeting facilities or fund raising privileges on the Southern California base.

In a motion to dismiss the suit, the government argued that the court did not have jurisdiction in the case because the government cannot be sued for violations of constitutional rights without its consent.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren J. Ferguson denied the motion, saying his court had jurisdiction where there was alleged racial discrimination by any government agency.

Nuclear Weapon To Be Fired Tomorrow

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)— The Atomic Energy Commission will detonate a low yield nuclear weapon tomorrow — the first underground test since radiation leaked from a blast six months ago at the Nevada Test site.

The commission said Monday the latest test would have a punch of less than 20 kilotons, or 20,000 tons of TNT. The device will be triggered at the end of a thousand foot shaft at 7 a.m. EDT, weather permitting.

UNABLE TO find a teaching job, musician Thelma Gates turned to composing about a year ago, and today an album by singer Lou Rawls with her song, "How Thoughtless I've Become," is being released. In all she has written 15 songs, at the piano in her Sausalito home. The wife of Dr. Charles Klieman uses her maiden name because, "if I used my married name who back in Brooklyn knows from Thelma Klieman? I want they should know it's me — Thelma Gates — when I become famous." (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

SAUSALITO COMPOSER

Moxey For Fame's Sake

By JOAN LISETOR

Anybody back in Brooklyn remember Thelma Gates?

She was the little blonde girl who played the piano.

Well, she's Mrs. Charles Klieman now, and she lives in Sausalito. But if you hear a song on a new LP record by Lou Rawls, "How Thoughtless I've Become," with words and lyrics by Thelma Gates, it's the same Thelma.

AS SHE says, "If I used my married name who back in Brooklyn knows from Thelma Klieman? I want they should know it's me — Thelma Gates — when I become famous."

When Thelma and her husband, a resident in surgery at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco, and their son Mike, who will be 2 years old tomorrow, moved to Sausalito from the East last year, she looked for a teaching job. There were none, so she turned to composing, which she says is the best thing that ever happened to her.

"I'll be a success because I've got moxey," she says.

She describes her moxey.

"What was I, a novice with three songs, and I read Lou Rawls was appearing at the Fairmont, so I called him up. He answered the phone, 'hello dere,' and I said, 'You don't know me, but I have your next three hits'."

THE SINGER told her to come right over; she did, and he loved her songs, she says.

"It was so exciting. I went down to MGM while he was recording," she says. "It all happened so fast because the timing was right. He needed a new song with a new sound, and he has his own publishing company."

That was so simple she tried it again when Robert Goulet came to town and again with singer Leslie Gore. Both have heard her music and are interested but things are still tentative.

"If they will listen, they'll love it," she says about her music, but many efforts to reach other performers have failed.

"My husband comes home and says, 'Well, who did you call today?' And the other day I said, 'Barbara Streisand.' Who is she but a girl who went to high school in Brooklyn? But I couldn't get through to her, just her agent," she says.

HER MUSIC she describes as "Not commercial, a new sound, ballads that are somewhere between Burt Bacharach and Jimmy Webb." Ideas, she explains, come from personal experiences — new places or emotional feelings.

"I left my son with a new sitter one day, and I came home and sat down at the piano. I didn't feel right about where I had left him, and I kept thinking about that. Then came the inspiration for a song, I call it 'I'm Waitin' without a 'g' because I'm from Brooklyn, but if Robert Goulet records it it'll be 'I'm Waiting'. To hear it you'd never know it was about my son, but it was how I felt about leaving him."

The personality that usually bubbles is reflective when she discusses her own childhood.

"My father was an artist. He led a creative life," she says. "If you opened the refrigerator to get something to eat you found a hammer and nails he used to make his frames. That's what he thought a refrigerator was for, his supplies — not food."

Thelma's mother died when she was nine years old and her brother was 18, so it was just she and her father, she says.

"MY FATHER was my friend. He'd say I just want you to be happy, do what you want, but he never told me what to do," she says.

"A child needs to be told what to do. To my father material things never mattered. He would have like to have gone to the South Seas and been left alone to do his painting. Material things never mattered to him, but I needed roots."

Thelma says she loves California.

"California people are not hostile, and they smile," she says. "I found it very difficult to make the adjustment to the quiet of Sausalito. In New York there is something to do every minute, and moving here left a void after a life of diversions. That is why I turned to composing. I couldn't compose in New York with all the diversions."

Thelma attended schools on Manhattan — Music and Arts High School, Julliard School of Music, New York University and Columbia University. She has bachelor's and master's degrees in music from NYU and was working on a doctorate at Columbia but quit because she couldn't stand the structured teaching.

She says she is a good teacher, if a bit eccentric.

"ON AN INTERVIEW I'd tell the principal, 'I'll do a good job if you allow me leeway and remember I'm a little insane,'" she says.

She says she is careful not to influence her young son and won't push him into music.

"My husband sometimes takes out his stethoscope and tries to get Mike to play with it; I seat him at the piano and say 'play.' We try not to influence," she says laughing, "but do you know what one of his first words was? 'Guitar.' "

Her husband is typical of the public, when it comes to music, she says.

He knows what he likes, but he doesn't know why, she explains, so she tries out new material on him.

"He gives me encouragement. He says I am the world's foremost leading composer, but no one else knows it," Thelma says.

She has two fetishes, she says — scales and food.

"THE NICEST gift I have ever gotten was from Charles. He gave me a doctor's scale," say Thelma, a Libra. "Maybe it's an obsession but I know what scales are accurate in every town I've ever been in, and that includes Europe and Israel."

She made two trips abroad as a group leader for high school and college-age students when she was a teacher and another trip to Austria and Switzerland with her husband.

This fall the Kliemans are going back to New York on an eating trip.

"We have every night planned by where we are going to eat because that is something we just can't find here — a good restaurant," she says.

She names a few restaurants in the Bay Area that she has enjoyed, and says there are a few they have not tried yet, but if you want good food, you've got to go East.

Well, you can take the girl out of New York, but you can't take New York out of the girl.

Now do you remember Thelma Gates?

Marin Women

New Leader For Humane Auxiliary

Mrs. Simon Erlanger of Ross, who has been a member for 23 years, is the new president of the Humane Society of Marin Auxiliary.

She has previously been the auxiliary's treasurer, thrift shop chairman and secretary. She is also a member of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

Now a widow, Mrs. Erlanger was born in Modesto and she attended Notre Dame School in Santa Clara and Presentation in Berkeley. She has been a Marin resident "on and off" for 50 years. Aside from her auxiliary and hospital work she enjoys oil painting.

Mrs. Erlanger says that the auxiliary's purpose is to provide financial help for the Humane Society of Marin, and its main activity is to run its thrift shop at 360 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo. Volunteers staff the shop and also donate merchandise to it. All shop proceeds go to the Humane Society.

Anyone interested in animal welfare and in working in or donating to the shop may join the auxiliary, she says.

Other new auxiliary officers are Mmes. William Miles, vice president; Richard Keating, secretary; Daisy White, treasurer; and Gus Corbin, corresponding secretary.

Ex-Stewardesses Give $500 To Home

Marin Chapter of Clipped Wings, former United Air Lines stewardesses, has donated $500 to Marin House in Larkspur, a home for six moderately retarded women between the ages of 18 and 30.

The funds were used to purchase a refrigerator and a ping pong table. Clipped Wings also donated $100 to Forest Meadows Development Center in San Rafael.

ANTIQUE COLLECTOR

Her Life Was Changed By A Little Music Box

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—From model to music box collector and authority represents quite a contrast, but Vicki Glasgow managed to go from one to the other by simple means — the antiques bug bit her. Also, bitten: her husband, Robert, a certified public accountant.

It all started 10 years ago when the couple, hitting the antiques circuit in New England, came upon an eight-inch-tall music box they liked the sound of. It turned out to be a Regina, made by a firm established in the 1890's in Rahway, N.J. Eventually, they found a 15-inch Regina from the firm which became the leading American music box maker.

Then they began reading up on music box history, joined the Musical Box Society (it has about 1,000 members in the United States), and for Mrs. Glasgow a whole new career began.

Today, Mrs. Glasgow runs an antique music box shop at the Antiques Center of America, Inc., a complex of 110 shops and displays in the heart of Manhattan.

On her last shopping trip to Europe, Mrs. Glasgow lucked into a collection of "about 50" music boxes and their relatives that an English widow was selling. It, added to what she and her husband already owned and friends lent, became one of the most fascinating and earfilling special exhibits in the center's one year of operation. The exhibit, open to the public free and on view through July, features some 150 music boxes of all sizes, shapes, ages, tuneful variety, and price. One prize box is a whole "symphony" with bells, drums, organ et al able to play 10 selections from the likes of Wagner and Bizet.

John Lennon of the Beatles dropped in and bought a roller organ (with wooden cylinder and bellows) for $195. A Dallas collector (not identified) paid $2,200 for an Eroica Symphonion, whose triple discs play simultaneously. Tall as a grandfather's clock, it is considered one of the finest of music-boxes, the work of Paul Lochmann, a Leipzig engineer.

THE EARLIEST music boxes, developed in the late 18th century, were the cylinder type, making music with "teeth" or tines of a "comb" vibrating against pins on a cylinder.

Then came the disc type in the 1880's, first developed in Germany and the sensation of the home music field during the 1890-1910 era, says the society publication on music box history. Interchangeable metal discs, via a star wheel mechanism, played a tuned musical comb similar to that in the cylinder box.

Some of Mrs. Glasgow's boxes are not for sale, although with the addition of the English purchase she's not sure where they'll all go in the couple's Scarsdale, N.Y. home. As it is, she said, every room has some boxes and "we have music just with the flick of a switch anywhere in the house."

Mrs. Glasgow was born Vicki Wilson, daughter of a sportswear buyer for a Long Island store. As a child, she modeled at the store, and then as she grew into a tall girl with a model's slim, long-legged figure, she worked in showrooms of New York's dress and fur houses.

THE EARLY antiquing she and her husband did was in the field of Currier & Ives, daguerreotypes, old types, old tools and the like. Then that small music box discovered in New Hampshire changed their whole pattern.

What next for the collecting pair? More music boxes of course "as we upgrade our collection," she said. "Now we're getting into clocks too. Bob loves anything mechanical."

Most Popular Month

June is still the most popular month for weddings, according to the U.S. Bureau of Vital Statistics. August runs a close second, and September and December are nearly equally third. The fewest weddings are held in the months of January and February.

Some Summer Rules For Avoiding Accidents

This is the time of year when children climb trees, ride bicycles, roller skate and go hiking. They spend more of their time in the street, backyard or in the playground, sliding, swiming, running and climbing, all activities that involve a certain amount of hazard, the Health Insurance Institute reports.

While parents can do little about some of the dangers, they can eliminate the causes of preventable accidents, the institute says.

Teaching children good safety habits should begin early, even though teaching young children takes a great deal of time. According to government statistics some 19 million youngsters under 15 have injurious accidents annually, and almost 15,000 are fatal.

Basic safety rules include cautioning a child never to ride two on a bicycle built for one, and never hitch a ride on the back of a truck or bus.

Teach him to put away his bicycle and toys in out-of-reach spots where he and his playmates can't trip over them.

A temporary fence in the yard where children under 4 years old are playing will keep them out of the street and away from its dangers, out of neighborhood backyard pools, out of the reach of stray dogs and from becoming lost and frightened.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Just Tell Him The 'Helpful' Neighbors Take Sleeping Pills

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 19, and able to take care of myself. But my parents still alert our neighbors when they leave me alone for a weekend. And our neighbors are very burglar-conscious! So I'm out one perfectly good boy friend, unless you can tell me a way I can apologize.

I met this new guy at college. He's a stereo and hi-fi nut, as I am, so he said he'd bring over some of his portable equipment, plus records, Friday night. We had a great time listening to the good sounds, and talking, and it was almost 2 a.m. when he gathered up his stuff and left.

Then's when it happened! Our neighbors, seeing a man load what they thought was "stolen goods" into his car "in the middle of the night," rushed out with shouts of "stop thief!" and stuck a shotgun in his face, while the women hopped around saying the police were on their way.

Sure enough, they were. It took half an hour of explaining to get the embarrassed fellow off the hook, as by that time a crowd had gathered and everyone was telling a different story, plus trying to be in on the capture.

I haven't heard from him since. What can I say that will bring him around again? — NEIGHBORED OUT

DEAR N.O.:

If you two can't joke about this by now, then maybe you'd never make music together. A humorous card of "apology" should be sufficient — especially if you add, "Our neighbors now take sleeping pills." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I go to school with bruises, and when my friend asks how I got them I can't tell her, because it's my mother.

I get the knocks for what my brothers do. They won't obey, and she takes it out on Me. Almost every day I get a beating, I guess because she thinks that's the only way she can make my brothers behave. It doesn't work very well.

How can I get adopted out? If I don't soon, I'll run away. — HURTING

DEAR HURTING:

Let the school nurse see your bruises. If your mother's beatings are this severe, she needs psychiatric help, and YOU need a foster home. The nurse will contact the proper agencies. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

In my spare time I do volunteer work in a mental institution. I've noticed that what these sick people need more than anything else is love. Many of them get very little from their families, who leave them to rust away, not even visiting or writing except perhaps once a year.

Not long ago a girl asked what she could do, without planned entertainment this summer. She could find lots of very rewarding things to do at State Hospitals, where she could help take the place of families that don't come around any more. — TRUE FEELINGS

DEAR HELEN:

Is it true the Black Panthers invented the saying, "Right on!"? — CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS:

That's what Huey P. Newton says. — H.

Nail Clipping Tell Sickness

A variety of child disorders can be identified at an early stage from fingernail clippings, scientists at the University of Alabama report in a recent issue of "Medical Lab."

According to Dr. George Cassady, professor of pediatrics at the University's School of Medicine, clippings taken from newborn infants for analysis may someday replace tissue biopsies.

Learning how healthy a baby is as early aspossible is crucial to treating whatever disorders he may have, Dr. Cassady explains.

Larkspur Will Not Delay Employees' Pay Increases

The Larkspur City Council last night decided that delaying employee pay raises two months wasn't worth the $4,000 it would save.

"The idea of saving $8,000 intrigued me," said Councilman William G. Fleckles, "but $4,000 is just nickeling and dimming."

Fleckles's comments referred to the council's vote last week to grant employees a 5 per cent pay boost but delay paying it until September. Only Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr. opposed the delay.

Fleckles said last night that when he voted last week he was not sure of the amount to be saved but figured it would be about $8,000.

However, since learning the two-month delay would only add $4,000 to city coffers he could see no reason for delay, Fleckles added to nods of agreement from other councilmen.

On a motion by Councilman Neil R. Brixon, the council voted unanimously to approve pay raises beginning July.

Following last night's budget wrap-up session, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst denied reports that the council's action resulted from employee interest in collective bargaining.

On other budget matters before the council, Bathurst disclosed that Dane Coleman, Greenbrae civil engineer, was the planner he could hire to revamp the city's master plan for $4,500, far less than the $12,500 discussed in previous council meetins as the minimum needed for the job.

"Because of his knowledge of the area and the people we can save a few dollars," Bathurst said.

Last week the city manager told the council it could cut $8,000 from $12,500 set aside for revisions to the general plan, but refused to say in public how the savings could be achieved, instead urging a closed session. At the objection of an Independent-Journal reporter to such a closed session, the matter was continued.

As discussions began last night, it became apparent that at least three councilmen didn't share Bathurst's feelings of good fortune at getting Coleman at cut-rate prices.

Even before Coleman's name became public, Sifford objected to Bathurst's proposal. "I'm sure he could accomplish what we have in mind," he said, "but I have an objection to the individual he (Bathurst) is considering because of a conflict of interest."

Minutes later, after other councilmen had forwarded guarded opinions, it became clear they were speaking of Coleman — planner for the Tiscornia Estate property in and adjacent to Larkspur. (Tiscornia property comprises half the undeveloped land in Larkspur.)

Councilmen Fleckles and Alfred J. Malvino agreed with Sifford while Brixon maintained he could see no harm in hiring the planner.

"I have no objection to the gentleman you are proposing," Brixon told Bathurst, adding that planners are like attorneys — one case one week and another case the next.

"The interests of a (private) client may be different than the interests of a city," Sifford responded.

Bathurst said the Tiscornia plan, which Coleman is currently working on, will be before the city's planning commission within 90 days thus freeing the planner of any conflict of interest if he accepted the city's work.

After the meeting Bathurst said the Tiscornia plan will propose development of the property adjacent to Corte Madera Creek between Doherty Drive and Bon Air Road. The property is currently zoned for light density commercial use.)

Following further discussion of the master plan budget, the council approved retaining the $12,500 amount for planning.

It also reaffirmed its earlier position of establishing a screening procedure for selection of a planner as urged by the Larkspur Town Meeting.

In other action, the council approved amendments to the business license ordinance which will add $7,000 in revenue to next year's proposed budget now totaling $1,018,439. Increases in zoning and building fees are expected to raise another $1,000.

As of last night, the council had cut $10,000 from the proposed budget. Those cuts included $9,000 for councilmen's salaries and $1,000 proposed for pay hikes to two top administrators.

If the budget is approved as it stands, Larkspur property owners can expect a tax rate of about $1.945 per $100 assessed valuation — 5 cents above this year's rate.

To be considered at a later date is an incentive program for employees. If approved it would add another 2.5 per cent to some employees, pay raises.

Homes Damaged

John Leroy Novak of 50 Rica Vista, Novato, owner of Summit Building Co., reported to Novato police yesterday that vandals damaged 11 homes under construction along Marjory Court during the past month, resulting in damage to glass and piping totaling $400.

Car Spaces Win Over Landscaping

The Mill Valley Planning Commission, faced last night with a choice between two precise development plans for a 186-unit apartment project, chose the plan with more parking and less landscaping.

Planning Director Tom W. Newton said Mape Industries, which plans the apartments on Shelter Ridge above Highway 101, submitted two plans, one including the required 234 parking spaces and the other with 204 spaces.

Newton said a Mape spokesman told commissioners the firm could do more extensive landscaping with the 204-space plan, but the planning director said the "amount of landscaping gained was very little, really very minimal."

On this basis, he said, commissioners opted for the 234-space plan and denied a variance from parking requirements sought by Mape.

In other business, the commission continued to July 12 consideration of a four-lot split at Lomita Drive and East Blithedale Avenue.

Sutter Hill Development Co. has requested the subdivision to permit construction of a supermarket, drugstore and bank on 4.86 acres.

Mission Inn Is Abruptly Closed Due To Losses

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)— The 95-year-old Mission Inn, where a young lawyer named Richard Nixon was married in 1940 and where four other U.S. presidents visited, closed Monday because of financial problems.

"I didn't know it was coming until last night," said George Parrish, manager of the inn. "They (owner representatives) just checked in and said we had to close down today."

A majority of the ownership is held by San Francisco hotelman Ben Swig, who has tried for years to keep the inn, a national monument, open in the face of continued losses.

"He (Swig) offered it to the city for $1 last week, and I suppose anybody could buy it for $1 at this point. The trouble is it loses about $20,000 a month.

Cosmonauts On 'Walking Binge

MOSCOW (UPI)—The legs suffer most duing prolonged weightlessness Soviet space scientists say, so they want the cosmonauts to walk and walk and walk.

The Salyut orbital station has a "miniature stadium" so the three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts, aboard for the past nine days, can have adequate exercise, the government newspaper Izvestia said Monday night.

"There is a miniature stadium on Salyut in order to give the cosmonauts good exercise for their muscles," Izvestia said.

"There are exercise devices of rubber and spring. Barbells are useless in space. There is a treadmill on which to walk or run as they grasp rubber grips anchored to the floor."

Sausalito Officer Denies Quota Arrests

By C. P. McCARTHY

A young Sausalito police officer — testifying today in the drunken driving trial of William M. Bennett of Kentfield — denied that the Sausalito Police Department operates on a quota system for arrests.

The officer, Blake Hoffman, 22, today completed four hours on the witness stand following selection yesterday of a Marin Municipal Court Jury of five men and seven women.

Bennett, 52, a member of the state Board of Equalization, was arrested by Hoffman April 25 in Sausalito.

The quota system charge was made last week in an article in the weekly Pacific Sun. Hoffman denied it today under cross-examination by Bennett's attorney, William O. Weissich of San Rafael. Weissich suggested the system required Sausalito officers to make one misdemeanor arrest a day and five felony arrests a month.

Bennett, who suffered facial injuries between the time he was arrested and the time he was brought to Marin County Jail, has claimed that he was struck by Hoffman and that Hoffman deliberately slammed on the brakes of his patrol car while taking Bennett to jail, throwing Bennett's face into a screen in the car.

Hoffman testified yesterday that he saw Bennett's car take a wide turn onto Second Street, crossing over a double line. The car returned to its own lane, Hoffman said, but then crossed about four feet over the line again.

The car, which bore license plates of an official state car, also had its high beam lights on, Hoffman said.

When he confronted Bennett in the parking lot of the Valhalla Innn Hoffman said, he noticed a "strong odor of alcoholic beverages" about Bennett.

Two other Sausalito officers arrived at the parking lot, Hoffman said, and a roadside sobriety test was given Bennett by one of the other officers.

Hoffman indicated Bennett failed the test, but when he attempted to take Bennett to county jail for booking, "an emotional scene" between Bennett and his wife developed in the parking lot, Hoffman said.

It was to prevent another such scene, Hoffman said, that instead of taking Bennett directly to the jail entrance of the Hall of Justice, he pulled his patrol car over to the side of Civic Center Drive near the lagoon.

Bennett charged after his arrest that Hoffman had pulled off to the side of the road, shut off his engine and lights, and was getting out of the car, when Mrs. Bennett and two friends — who had followed the patrol car — pulled up behind it.

Under cross-examination by Bennett's attorney, Weissich, Hoffman said the procedure of pulling off the road prior to taking subjects to the jail was "not unusual" for him.

He said he did it "to advise subjects of certain things to be sure when they arrive at jail there won't be a violent encounter."

Hoffman told Weissich he was not sure his motor and lights were on when the car was stopped near the lagoon, but he "believed" they were.

Earlier on the way to the jail, Hoffman said, he stopped in the vicinity of Zack's Restaurant, to meet another police officer to pick up some equipment.

He denied stopping there, getting out of the car and punching Bennett in the mouth, as Bennett has charged.

Hoffman said Bennett called him "an arrogant punk" and various obscenities, and made comments that "I was too young and that I wore my hat in a funny position."

Bennett refused to take chemical sobriety tests at the jail, Hoffman said, and later — when Bennett was taken to Marin General Hospital for treatment of his facial injuries — he refused to have his wounds washed until he was photographed, the officer said.

Photos of Bennett, with scrapes and cuts on his forehead, nose and lips, taken at the hospital and three days later, were shown to the jury yesterday.

Marin Alerted To Sonic Booms

Hamilton Air Force Base today advised Marin residents may hear sonic booms this evening or early tomorrow in connection with training exercises in the Western United States and Canada.

F-106 Delta Darts from the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron will join aircraft from the North American Air Defense Command and the Strategic Air Command in the exercises.

They will be on missions to intercept bombers simulating attack and some may achieve supersonic speed and residents may hear their sonic booms, the base information office reported.

Elderly Woman Is Found Dead

An elderly San Anselmo woman was found dead in her home yesterday after neighbors reported that she had not been seen for several days.

The body of Geraldine G. Salaun was found about noon in her apartment at 84 Madrone Avenue by the building manager.

Coroner Keith C. Craig said the woman appeared to have been dead about five days. He attributed death to natural causes.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Chapel of the Hills in San Rafael.

Minister Faces Prison For Pot As A Sacrament

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A minister today faced a sentence of from 10 years to life for using marijuana as a sacrament.

Rev. Wilber L. Minzey contended that marijuana was part of his Shiva religion.

Superior Judge S. Lee Vavuris in passing sentence Monday accused Minzey and his attorney of sacrilege in mentioning drug advocate Dr. Timothy Leary and Christ in the same breath.

Rev. Minzey was convicted last month of passing out marijuana to a gathering of his followers in Golden Gate Park. He was already on probation from other pot charges.

Antiwar VFW Post Suspended

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—A Veterans of Foreign Wars post here has been suspended from the national organization, perhaps because of antiwar activities, its commander says.

Mel Cohen, commander of West Madison Memorial Post 10203, said Monday his post received a 60-day suspension because of its antiwar resolutions and other peace activities.

"But we really don't know," Cohen said. "We haven't received any notification of charges yet."

Ara L. Fish, commander of the state VFW, said the suspension was his decision and was approved by VFW commander-in-chief H.R. Rainwater. Fish refused to describe charges against the post.

Pair Receives Minor Injuries In Two Wrecks

Two persons received minor injuries in two separate accidents yesterday in San Rafael, police reported.

Lynn Christine Auer, 24, of 2 Oak Avenue, San Rafael was to see her own doctor for injuries received at 2:59 p.m. in a two car collision at C and First Streets, police reported. The Auer car, southbound on C Street, collided with one driven east on First Street by Byrel Addelaide Hosford, 75, of 8 La Crescenta Way, San Rafael, according to police.

Charles Allan Saul, 18, of 123 Canal Street, San Rafael, received scrapes to his lower left leg and left elbow when his motorcycle collided at 1:30 a.m. yesterday with a car at Racquet Club Drive and Longwood Drive, police reported. Driver of the car was Lori Ann Lucia of 74 Meadow Road, Mill Valley, according to police reports.

Self-Education Comes To Public Schools

Among late "education innovations" is something known as "On Location."

The name appears to derive from the movie industry, in which a crew is "on location" if it is filming a sequence away from the studio. Where the idea derived from, we have no notion.

Tamalpais High School District has "On Location," and there have been some glowing reports of its success there. Also, there have been some not so glowing — it depends on whom you ask.

The same thing has been proposed for San Rafael High School District by a group of teachers and students.

WHEN A STUDENT is enrolled in "On Location," he is freed from the usual classroom routine. He goes out into the community on special projects, ostensibly supervised by the teacher.

Naturally, this has a great appeal to the students. Today's high school students are (we are told) much more mature and responsible than those of past generations — who, with similar carte blanche, doubtless would have spent many of their days fishing, shooting pool, or engaged in other nonproductive activities. Nevertheless, youth has not changed so much that it will fail to take advantage of the absence of routine and discipline. It wouldn't be youth if it had.

Supposing, however, that all the "On Location" projects are beneficial, that the high schoolers really buckle down to them, that the teacher really supervises them (quite a chore for him!). In other words, suppose that all goes as perfectly as the proponents of "On Location" describe it.

What, then, has the student gained by this new freedom?

SCHOOL (OR WHAT substitutes for school) has been made more interesting for him. He has been permitted to spend the days doing things he wants to do — which may be things of considerable educational value. He has not become bored; he has not been subject to discipline. He has been set free.

But what has he missed? He must have missed something, or else school is absolutely meaningless.

He has missed not only discipline, but also the disciplines.

THE CHOICE OF SUBJECTS for basic studies did not come about by accident. It is the result of centuries of trial and error. One's own language, mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, history, government — these are things of which some knowledge has been found essential for members of a civilized society. To make sure that all acquire some modicum of these disciplines, they have been structured into school curricula.

"On Location" abolished this structure. It puts the student in the position of the person who must educate himself without the classroom. The teacher becomes not a teacher in the usual sense, but a sort of overseer of an assortment of different projects in different places.

THERE HAVE BEEN many examples of men who educated themselves. But there have been many more examples of those who tried hard to do so but failed because they lacked knowledge and means to organize their education, as it is organized by the schools.

Discarding the structure that has been built up over the centuries is a doubtful business. School board members would do well to ask some very searching questions before permitting the young people with whose education they are charged to skip the classroom and go "On Location."

CAPITOL REPORT

Time For Legislators To Tighten Their Belt

By RUS WALTON

SACRAMENTO — In 1960-61, it cost $2.5 billion to run state government in California.

In 1970-71 — this fiscal year which ends June 30 — it will cost at least $6.7 billion.

Before anyone smirks, "Yeah, but there are lots more people in California now," just chew on this: For 1960-61, the per capita cost of government was $159.12. For 70-71, the per capita cost will be about $336. For a family of four, that's $1344 in all types of state taxes.

You'd think that was enough of a load to carry. After all, when you add on federal taxes and local taxes, it gives you that "what the hell's the use" feeling.

BUT, SMILE. Things could be worse. And they will be. Next year state government — and state taxes — may cost you even more.

Randolph Collier (D-Yreka), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, says the state needs another $974 million in taxes. He started out at $1 billion but cut that by $26 million which was real thoughty of Old Randy. He wants $400 million of that for the public schools.

Mr. Collier once was known as the "father of California's freeways." Now that the concrete mentality is no longer in vogue, he's trying to change his image. Wants to be known as "the granddaddy of the public schools." At taxpayer's expense, of course.

OTHER LEGISLATORS are not quite as vast as Senator Collier. Only half-vast. They're talking about tax increases ranging from $250 to $500 million. Sales taxes. Income taxes. Business taxes. Sin taxes. Somewhere along the line, Governor Reagan will probably have to sign or veto a bill raising about $300 million in new taxes.

MORE MONEY. That's what they think of you. More money for welfare. More money for Medi-Cal. More money for schools. More money for state employes, including state college and university faculties.

Pay hikes at a time like this? If the legislators had any smarts, or guts, they'd hold the line this year. Or, maybe they have already figured out what they're going to say to those 125,000 unemployed aerospace workers. "Let's hear it, baby. Tell us how the State can afford $100 million for pay raises when we can't afford beans and franks and shoes for our kids."

IT'S TIME to face a few facts. Temporary or not California has fallen on some hard times. Legislative analyst A. Alan Post calls it an "acute depression." On top of that, the cost of living is going up. During the past three months, wholesale industrial prices have risen at the annual rate of 4.8 %.

Yet, in the face of these harbingers, politicians of both parties are prattling about a tax increase. It makes you wonder what they serve in those coffee cups at the Capitol. What the citizen, and the economy needs now is not a tax increase but a tax cut.

VERNE ORR told them how to do it. Leave the tax rate alone and start withholding as of next January. Use the $170 million increased revenue from withholding to help offset the expected drop in revenues. Use about half of the one-time, $530 million, "windfall" for capital construction, and give the other half back to the taxpayers.

The taxpayers have already tightened their belts. It's time the legislators did the same thing. Starting now, with the 1971-72 state budget.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Moral Issue In Abortion Decision

The polemic from Frances S. Grew disputing Mrs. DePizzol's position on abortion contains the incredible statement that the abortion decision is medical, not moral. Granted, once this decision is made, it will be effectuated medically but to say the the decision is without enormous moral factors is simply to deny that any life at all exists before birth.

Abortion, whether one's conscience approves or not, is in fact denying life to a viable human being after its life has begun. As such, it has the deepest possible moral implications which cannot be avoided by the pretense that they don't exist. That is the ultimate irresponsibility.

Fairfax Does Not Need Housing Project

We have read with appalled interest the articles appearing in various papers concerning the Marin Town and Country Club commercial development.

We honestly believe that this is a golden opportunity to create a city or county park here in Fairfax that would do credit to the whole Marin community in providing both recreation facilities and affording pleasant walks which have been sadly needed for years in this area. I would suggest that the area be called the "Lord Fairfax Park and Recreation Center."

In no way do I feel Fairfax needs an additional housing development bringing in hoards of people that will tax the already over-burdened highway through our city and along the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Fairfax is a most unique, warm, hospitable western town and the majority of town's people live here because of this.

Furthermore, such a development would make necessary the increase of our police and fire protection not to mention additional schools and other sundry services further compounding the tax payer's present problems.

I cannot stress my feelings too strongly except to say that if such a housing complex is deemed essential, it would be far wiser to situate same up in Novato and stick it in a swamp!

Planners Are Ruining Novato's Landscape

My purpose in writing this letter is to protest against the ineptitude of the "No Plan" Planning Commission of the City of Novato.

Subdivisions for the Novato area are being approved by the Planning Commission without any real planning having taken place. The Planning Commission and staff go through the motions without any serious thought for the future. All that occurs are minor modifications of the contractor's design. Comprehensive planning with a sense of responsibility toward the present citizens of Novato appears to be completely beyond the present Planning Commission.

A case in point is the recent approval by them of the plans for the Woodland Heights subdivision. This particular subdivision, at the extension of Terry Circle and Arlington Circle, was recommended for approval by the planning staff to the Planning Commission under unusual and revealing circumstances. The following are some of the major conditions and exceptions which the contractor is requesting.

1. The extension of Arlington Circle requires an exception to the normal grade (fixed by city ordinance). This makes the engineering less costly to the contractor.

2. Fifteen of the 55 lots require variances from usual subdivision setback requirements so the contractor can take advantage of the inadequate pads which were graded 13 years ago.

3. Many of the proposed houses in the subdivision cannot be given fire protection from the existing water supply. The contractor has proposed a "temporary" storage tank which would supply the area with fire protection for two hours.

At the public hearing of the Planning Commission it soon became evident that the planning staff was unaware that "temporary" could mean up to 20 years and that fire protection was inadequate on this basis. Only a concerted effort by homeowners and the representatives of the fire chief and the water district resulted in the recommendation that this part of the plan be resubmitted to the fire chief for consideration of a larger "temporary" tank. No explanation was given as to why it was necessary to develop this subdivision with temporary storage tanks. . .

The total inability of the Planning Commission either to understand the nature of their responsibility or to comprehend what was involved was revealed when one member of the commission bemoaned the failure of the homeowners to "get together" with the contractor to "resolve their differences." This is similar to asking the victim to get together with the bandit to agree on how he is to be robbed.

The damage the Planning Commission is doing to our community is irreparable. Our neighborhoods are being destroyed. Our hills are being ruined. The future overcrowding of our schools is being ignored. The ability of our poorly maintained streets to handle the increased traffic is being overlooked. Our fire protection and police protection are not being given adequate consideration. The contractor's fungus is creeping over our hills. In short, no planning is taking place.

At a private meeting with the planning staff, one homeowner was told that the homeowners in Novato have a "gangplank syndrome." They are aboard and they want to pull up the gangplank so that noone else can come aboard too. This may be true, but at some point you have to pull up the gangplank or the ship will sink. We have reached that point. What we need now is a Planning Commission that understands this and realizes that its primary responsibility is not to the developers, but to those people who now live in the City of Novato. If our city is not to sink in a sea of troubles (as so many others have), some end must be brought to the wholesale approval by the Planning Commission of the rampant, unplanned growth of the city. I propose a moratorium on subdivisions in the Novato area until adequate planning has taken place.

Dumping Agnew Not Likely —He's Needed In The South

WASHINGTON — During president Nixon's recent foray into the Deep South, ostensibly to inaugurate a new waterway linking the South and the Midwest, an unscheduled exchange took place. The five southern governors, guests of the President on Air Force 1 in the flight from Mobile, Ala., to Birmingham, were talking, inevitably, about politics.

"I'll tell you one thing," said Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, addressing Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, "if you run in my state next year and if Spiro Agnew is on the Republican ticket and he comes in to campaign against you, he'll clobber you."

I just thought old George was going to jump right out of that plane," said one of the administration officials sitting in on the conversation.

THIS INCIDENT says several things about the state of party politics in the South and the role of the vice president. He is front and center in the Republican party's southern strategy. While he could show few gains from his barnstorming in the South in last year's congressional campaign, he won the allegiance of the hard-core Republicans who have built the party south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

This makes the talk of "dumping" Agnew in '72 sound dubious. He may hurt the ticket in the North, but if the Republicans want to carry the six southern states with their 66 electoral votes that went for the G.O.P. in 1968, and add perhaps one or two others that went for Wallace, it is essential for Agnew to be in place. And the evidence increases that the so-called southern strategy is a vital part of the Nixon plan for re-election.

Those who know Wallace and Alabama make no hard predictions on what he will do next year. The roar of the crowd is for the little governor a drug. It is his amphetamine, his speed. Whether he could forego it in another presidential year is the intangible in the equation.

A second strong pull is money. He is setting up a series of fund-raising dinners in the North and the South, the first in the North at Toledo, Ohio, on June 26. In Dallas an appreciation dinner drew 1,300. Nominally the charge is $50 a plate but Wallace aides say they let in hard hats at $25. The hard hats are the stake he is counting on in the border states and the North.

THOSE WHO HAVE observed Wallace at close range over the years credit him with astute political judgment. In 1968 he carried Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Louisiana and Arkansas for 45 electoral votes. This was far short of his minimum goal of forcing the election into the House of Representatives, where he would be in a powerful bargaining position.

Wallace knows that he could fail to do even that well in 1972. The history of third-party movements has been for the rocket to flare across the sky and then come down with a thud. Obstacles have been put in his way. As a result of action by the legislature in his own state, he may have to run as a Democrat rather than an independent. With bitter party factionalism, there is at least the possibility that he could fail to carry Alabama.

Yet the crowd roar is a strong drug. And he has the supreme court's anti-busing decision as a new target to get the segregationists out of their seats shouting for their hero. To surrender his national image would be a confession of defeat. After all, he got 13 per cent of the total vote in '68. So the odds are that the crowds will roar again — in the South at least — for the presidential candidate promising to repeal the recent past and restore the pristine purity of a segregated nation.

AS FOR AGNEW, he can count on another kind of job insurance. President Nixon, early in his career, went through the dumping trauma twice. Once was in the 1952 campaign when the fund contributed by wealthy private backers in his native California was exposed. Easterners who had helped to persuade General Eisenhower to head the ticket favored dropping Mr. Nixon. But Ike prevailed in a dramatic reunion with his No. 2 in West Virginia. The second, and far less serious, threat came in a dump-Nixon movement started in 1956 by Harold Stassen.

The president is not likely to subject his own vice president to that ordeal. And, besides, Agnew turns them on against the eastern seaboard, the iniquities of the Washington Post, the new York Times, Walter Cronkite and CBS. In the South that is a conspicuous asset.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

China's Close Neighbors Suspicious Of Peking

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Fear of the intentions that may lie behind Red China's sudden smile and an almost overwhelming desire for her trade are the chief emotions that war within the nations on her threshhold.

A good example is Malaysia.

Malaysia reversed past policy last fall and voted in favor of a seat for Red China in the United Nations despite a continuous threat from pro-Peking guerrillas operating inside her northern frontiers.

This year a Malaysian trade delegation visited Red China and came under repeated urgings that Malaysia should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist mainland.

A PART of the bait was a Chinese offer to buy up 150,000 to 200,000 tons of Malaysian rubber.

Along with it was an expression by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai of keen interest in a Malaysian proposal for a neutralized Southeast Asia and his reported admonition to overseas Chinese, particularly in Malaysia, that they should be "completely loyal to the country you live in and not look to China as your homeland."

But almost simultaneous with the balm applied by Chou was a prediction on May 20 by the official New China News Agency of the eventual downfall of "reactionary" governments in Malaysia, Burma, Indonesia, the Philippines and Thailand.

THROUGHOUT Southeast Asia, with the exception of the Communist regime of North Vietnam, the overtures from Red China have been received with caution and, in general, the greater the proximity, the greater the caution.

Many have large Chinese populations which they fear are especially vulnerable to machinations of the Peking government.

Others await a final decision by the United States, its stand on a seat for the Communist regime in the United Nations and the kind of relationship that develops as the United States lowers its military stance in Asia.

AMONG SOUTHEAST Asia nations, Burma and Laos have diplomatic relations with Peking under conditions which range from cool to frigid.

Thailand does not have diplomatic relations but contacts are reported to have been established between Bangkok and Peking.

Indonesia would like to renew relations with the Red Chinese, particularly on matters of trade, but Indonesian overtures so far have been ignored.

Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos has said the Philippines would expand its contacts with Communist nations but has indicated he means mostly nations of the Soviet bloc. He remains suspicious of the Chinese.

Australia, farther to the south and at a considerable distance from Red China, would like to expand its trade with the Chinese and received some encouragement recently in the visit of a trade mission to Red China.

Beside Novato Meadows Grow New Townhouses, Row On Row

The name townhouse used to mean an elegant, expensive home within walking distance of Central Park, with crystal chandeliers and mahogany and a small army of servants.

That was before developers learned there is money in putting up something that is a cross between a single-family home, an apartment, and enlisted men's housing, and calling it a townhouse.

They are being touted as "low and moderate income housing," somewhat of a misnomer since there is no such thing as low-cost housing and the term "moderate" has to be stretched a mile to apply.

They are designed, the developers say, to provide persons who otherwise wouldn't be able to buy a home with a place to live, which in Marin these days covers a large field.

IT SEEMS as though every other person who walks into the Novato Planning Department these days has a set of plans for townhouses under his arm.

The Novato Planning Commission has been taking them in stride, but the moment of truth arrived recently when S. J. Garlick proposed to construct mainly townhouses on 400-plus acres west of the city.

Commission chairman Paul A. Oatis Jr. wondered whether Novato was on its way to becoming a community of townhouses. There have been from 1,500 to 2,000 townhouses "either developed or approved for development" in the past year, he said.

"I think cluster R-1 (single family homes) would be better for the city than townhouse after townhouse," Oatis commented.

IT'S HARD to conceive of Novato, originally a rural area and now a community of mostly single-family homes, becoming a townhouse city, but Oatis was concerned there would be an "overbundance of townhouses."

If the city's short-term housing committee is heeded, this will not come to pass, for it has as one of its goals a variety of housing throughout the city.

There is talk in some quarters that the single-family home is on the way out; that it is too costly, uses up too much land, and couldn't possibly meet the housing demands of an increasing population.

If this proves true, what happens to the traditional American dream of a home in the suburbs, with green lawn, the white fence with the little girl with the golden curls swinging on the gate?

Will she then line up outside a row of townhouses, along with six other golden-haired girls, to make sure daddy goes into the right house?

HOUSING, INDEED, is perplexing. It costs too much. There isn't enough of it. And now some people aren't sure we're living in the right type of housing.

Maybe Sam Walter Foss's line about "a house by the side of the road," will have to be changed to "a townhouse by the side of the freeway."

ART BUCHWALD

How Lindsay Missed The Boat In New York Traffic Tie-up

WASHINGTON — Last week New York had one of its worst traffic jams in history.

The reason for the complete breakdown was that Mayor John Lindsay and Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy did not follow the advice of President Nixon and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell in dealing with traffic tieups in major cities. Had the mayor and the police commissioner followed the guidelines approved by the president and the attorney general, almost everyone would have got to work on time.

The first thing Mayor Lindsay and Commissioner Murphy should have done was to go on television and warn the people that anyone stalled in his car on a turnpike or road leading into Manhattan would be arrested.

The mayor should have said that he had rented trucks and buses to haul people away. Anyone in a car in an area where there was a traffic jam would be subject to arrest, on the assumption that he was either participating in the traffic tieup or was a spectator.

THOSE PEOPLE STALLED on the Long Island Expressway coming toward the Triborough Bridge would be taken off to Shea Stadium and incarcerated there. Those who couldn't move coming down from Westchester and the Bronx would be thrown into Yankee Stadium. People stuck waiting to go through the Lincoln Tunnel or over the George Washington Bridge would be held in the Hudson tubes outside of Jersey City.

To break up the traffic jams so that the police buses and trucks could get through, recalcitrant drivers would be teargassed.

If this still didn't move the traffic, Commissioner Murphy could give orders for his men to move in on the stalled drivers and use their clubs.

WHILE CIVIL libertarians might squawk about the methods used by the police, Mayor Lindsay and Commissioner Murphy could defend their tactics on the grounds that the traffic tieups constituted a threat to the health and welfare of New York City.

The mayor could say, "It was vital that the government of New York City continue functioning, and I authorized Commissioner Murphy to use all legal methods including mass arrests to insure that the highways, bridges and roads to city hall were kept open."

Had the mayor followed through on the plan, he would have solved many of his most serious problems in one fell swoop.

FIRST, THE TRAFFIC jams would have been broken up in a few minutes, and those not arrested would have been able to get to work. Second, those arrested and incarcerated would have to put up a $25 bond. If they didn't appear for trial, the bond would have been forfeited.

Adding up the bonds of all the people who were stalled that day, the city would have been enriched to the tune of over $250 million, all of it money that Governor Rockefeller couldn't touch.

Thus the mayor would not only have kept his traffic moving but would have solved his financial problems at the same time.

IT WOULD ALSO be a warning to drivers in the future that if they got stuck in traffic they would have to suffer the consequences. It would make people think twice about driving into Manhattan and tying up the city.

I called Mayor Lindsay and asked him why he hadn't followed the president's and attorney general's advice concerning the breaking up of premeditated traffic demonstrations and he said, "Frankly, I was so mad at Rockefeller I didn't think of it."

Projects will include weed control, shrub trimming and other light maintenance projects. The teen-agers were selected from 28 applicants.

Retirement Plan For Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, proposed a constitutional amendment yesterday to set mandatofy retirement for all congressmen and federal judges at 72.

Passage of the amendment, which would have only a partial grandfather clause, would mean that 17 of Miller's Senate colleagues could not seek reelection and seven of them would have to retire after next year.

Miller, who turned 55 on June 6, would be allowed two more full terms and four years of another before he would have to retire under the terms of his bill.

Cash Reported Stolen At Cleaners

An undetermined amount of cash has been stolen from the One-Hour Martinizing cleaners in Corte Madera, police said yesterday.

Officers said the burglar apparently entered the store at 124 Corte Madera Avenue by removing several windows. The break-in occurred Saturday night.

Panel Will Discuss Mill Valley Measures

The six measures on Mill Valley's June 29 capital improvements bond issue will be discussed at a town meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at Park School.

Five speakers will be allowed two minutes each to present their arguments for passage of the $1.8 million bond measure. A question-and-answer session will follow.

Speakers and the items they will discuss are: Martha Fleischmann, sewer improvements ($450,000); Christian Dietrich, fire station ($240,000); Jerome C. Hauke, street improvements ($500,000); Jean Knapp, storm drainage ($300,000); and Robert Jenkins, park improvements ($90,000) and swimming pool ($250,000).

Several city department heads will attend to provide additional information. The meeting will be called to order by Mayor George E. Wickham and moderated by Eugene E. Crawford, chairman of the bond coordinating committee.

Voters in the June 29 special election will be able to approve some of the bond items and reject others. If all are approved, the city tax rate will increase approximately 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Demonstrators Miss Agnew

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—About 200 antiwar demonstrators jeered persons arriving for the annual Army Ball during the weekend but missed the guest of honor, Vice President Spiro Agnew.

The protesters demonstrated on one side of the Beverly Hilton Saturday night and Agnew entered on the other side.

Most of the guests appeared to pay no attention to the demonstrators who shouted obscenities and made a few unsuccessful attempts to block the driveway of the hotel. There were no arrests.

Traffic Patterns Hearing Delayed

A two-year-old plan for improving traffic flow in downtown San Rafael was taken off the shelf last night for a public hearing and then put back on the shelf for at least another month.

The San Rafael City Council heard from proponents and opponents of the plan before continuing its hearing until 7:30 p.m. July 12.

The plan calls for addtional one-way streets and less on-street parking places downtown.

It was submitted by D. Jackson Faustman, a Sacramento traffic consultant, in June 1969; met opposition at a hearing in July 1969, and has been shelved since.

Faustman suggests making Fifth Avenue one-way westbound and Fourth Street one-way eastbound between Irwin and G streets; A Street northbound and B Street southbound between Second Street and Fifth Avenue, and C Street northbound and D Street southbound between First Street and Fifth Avenue.

Also in the plan are proposals for a $250,000 project to route westbound Fifth Avenue traffic along a one-block S-curve at G Street to meet two-way traffic on Fourth Street, and a $75,000 project for widening Fourth Street from H Street to the intersection with Second Street.

The only part of Faustman's report recommended for immediate implementation by the city's traffic committee was the removal of parking from the south side of Third Street and the north side of Second Street, City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr. reported last night.

About 30 persons attended last night's hearing.

Opposition to one part of the plan was summed up by Councilman Harry A. Barbier, who asked, "Who are we taking care of here — the people of San Rafael or people rushing through town?"

Thomas R. O'Toole of Milani's Garage, 1117 Third Street, opposed removing parking from the one side of Third Street. Such a move, he said, would "kill the merchants on Third."

Walter E. Zurcher, chairman of the San Rafael Downtown Merchants Committee, supported the plan. His committee, as well as the board of directors of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, has approved the proposal for making Fourth Street one-way, he said.

Zurcher said his committee included 18 merchants, which Councilman Fred E. Jensen said wasn't enough.

Jensen suggested a poll of downtown merchants be taken by the city on the plan, and the council directed City Mgr. James H. McCown to arrange for such a poll.

San Rafael real estate man Robert A. Roumiguiere voiced the strongest support for the one-way plan, warning the council that San Rafael "could be a dead and decaying city" in only a few years unless shoppers —"who pay our bills" — can get in and out of town."

Hub Tie To ABAG Is Ended

The San Anselmo City Council last night voted to pull out of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The vote was 3-2 with Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson and councilman James F. Reed against.

The action was not final as it will be reconsidered at the time the council passes on the final budget for fiscal 1971-72.

The action was taken in an economy move in which the council was paring items from the budget.

Reed said that withdrawing was a step backwards. He said that he did not approve of many things in ABAG, but that he felt it was worth the $439 annual dues just to be there to voice the side of small cities.

Councilman Warren W. Perry said that when he has attended, he felt as though the meetings were rigged and dominated by the larger cities.

Reed countered that small cities have influenced some decisions in ABAG. He cited one example of the small cities' influence in getting ABAG to withhold its opposition to the Knox bill to form a regional government.

Anderson said that San Anselmo's withdrawing from ABAG would make it appear that the city did not support a regional governmental concept.

Reed argued that the city needed the approval of ABAG before it could get any state or federal grants.

Takes Three Hours To Slice $1,896

The San Anselmo City Council succeeded last night in cutting only $1,896 from a $1,718,292 budget for fiscal 1971-72 in a budget study which lasted more than three hours.

The proposed budget is up $244,951 from the current budget. It would require a tax rate of $2.53 per $100 assessed valuation, compared to this year's $2.35. Last night's cuts would trim the anticipated new rate by about half a cent as one cent brings in $3,100 according to City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel.

The largest item cut was $600 from the proposed $3,000 for extra court cases. The board saved $439 in annual dues by voting to withdraw from the Association of Bay Area Governments. It cut the appropriation for the chamber of commerce by $100, reducing it from $3,600 to $3,500 for next year.

The department accounts approved last night (with the proposed budget figure in parenthesis) were city council, $5,059 ($5,259); city administrator $16,460 ($16,510); city clerk $21,784 ($21,884); city attorney, $13,982 ($14,582); citizens committee on zoning and housing $236 ($543), and non-departmental, $21,908 ($22,447).

Department budgets approved without change and the amount proposed were finance officer, $15,643; city treasurer, $632; design review committee, $1,481, and planning commission, $38,865.

The council adjourned until 8 p.m. today to continue its study of the budget.

Iraqis In Peking

BEIRUT (UPI) — A high ranking 11-man Iraqi economic delegation flew to Peking today for a five-day official visit and talks with government leaders, Baghdad Radio said.

Recreation Fund Due Hearing

Terra Linda Recreation-Park District directors will consider adoption of a budget estimated at between $60,000 and $70,000 when they meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the recreation center.

Budget figures are uncertain because the board did not start out with a specific proposal. Instead, figures were discussed and added line by line.

This year's budget is $68,845, representing a $3,085 increase over last year's budget.

Cobbs: Risk Death For Beliefs

By MARY BURNS

"At this particular time in our history, unless we get more people who are committed and are willing to die for their commitment, we've had it," psychiatrist-author Price Cobbs said last night.

Cobbs told the Urban Training Institute of Golden Gate Baptist Seminary that a minister struggling to serve an urban culture should decide to die for what he says he believes.

Cobbs — examining the urban minister's responsibilities, his mandate and his commitment — said the institutions of America reflect the views and attitudes of the powerful rather than the needs of the poor. "Are you thinking of yourself as an articulator of the needs of the powerless!" he asked.

Cobbs, a San Francisco physician and coauthor of two books, "Black Rage" and "The Jesus Bag," with psychiatrist William Grier, told his all-white audience of the problems of growing up a black in this country.

The attitudes which would brand different people as inferior are ingrained in the American culture he said. "We tend to view those who are different as somehow imperfect versions." He said that the metaphors used by the leadership of the country in referring to the Vietnam War are essentially adolescent because "we believe that these people are not white and are somehow less than us."

"Much of what we say under the guise of ministering to people is really trying to get peopie to act more like us," Cobbs said.

He called American morality "essentially middle class" and said that middle class values help to formulate the existing disdain for welfare programs.

"The idea that we can't commit large sums of money to solving the problems of poverty is a myth," Cobbs said. The United States is "privately rich and publicly poor," he added.

Cobbs told the ministers and seminary students that rather than studying the black man they should examine what it means to grow up white in this culture, "not feeling that you are such a bad person but just examining how you have grown up."

He cited cases in his work of whites who found it impossible to engage in any experience that would make them feel like "anyone who is called 'different.'"

He called the black man "the victim," and said that ministers who serve an urban setting must imagine what it is like to be the "perennial institutionalized victim."

Cobbs challenged the "standards" set by institutions and persons, and imposed on others without regard to one's fallibility. "What are some of your entrance requirements for being in your church or even into your own intimacy?" Cobbs asked.

He often mentioned the late Martin Luther King, saying King "acted out the classic struggle of the American black man.

"From the beginning he was condemned to death. I believe he knew this and knew that he could do nothing about it. It was his nobility in the face of death that caught the attention of black people.

"As we viewed the life of King it made us think that if we were going to pull it off we would have to form convictions considering the possibility of death. And if we were going to choose to die we would have to die for something that would go beyond us."

Chicano Hits Educational System

By STEVE SWENSON

A self-proclaimed Chicano militant cussed, accused and upset a Marin County audience of elementary and secondary school teachers yesterday by telling it as he sees it in the Chicano community.

Gregorio Rios, poet and lecturer from San Jose, addressed the group of 250 teachers who are participating in a week-long seminar at Dominican College exploring the history, culture, education and future goals of the Chicano people.

"You people are guilty of oppressing us," Rios told the audience. He declared that an educational system which is white, Anglo-Saxon and Protestant oriented has stripped the Chicano of his culture and language.

He told the teachers that education in America is "nothing but bull xxxx to the Chicano and that is why so many drop out."

Rios then condemned American capitalists who, he said, tell Mexico to send their peasants here so America can carry out her economic plot to exploit the Chicano. "This country has exploited countries like no other country," Rios asserted.

"The capitalists make our people feel like prostitutes when they behave in a way that is acceptable to the Anglo," added Rios. "If that's the way I have to live, then I totally reject it."

He said the capitalists are representative of the meaninglessness of life and the meaningfulness of the dollar, and that they don't go into a poorer country To help the people but rather to help themselves.

One woman from the audience asked Rios if he wanted to discuss the Chicano problem with the teachers or was he a provocateur seeking to upset the audience. Rios answered, "I am a provocateur."

Rios added, "I have been disrespectful today, but I do respect you. I'm saying things I hope you will sincerely think about. I'm feeling for millions of my Chicano people."

Rios said that when the Chicano leaders do get some money they educate and radicalize their children by telling them that the Man (referring to police or the establishment) hates the Chicano.

He said the Chicanos should learn from the blacks to fight back, violence for violence. "We have to fight back as long as you people are racist, exploit us and keep the Chicanos in jail," Rios said. He added that whites get a slap on the hand for a marijuana possession while a Chicano might get 10 years. "Justice? Yeah. Just us," Rios said.

All we want is the opportunity to express ourselves as Chicanos and to live in a way that is relevant to us," Rios asserted. "We want to be treated as human beings and we want you to give us the respect we had to give you."

Rios said this is what "Chicanismo", the Chicano movement is all about. He told his listeners they can't be isolated in Marin County; they must contribute something to the movement if they feel it is right.

In a panel discussion which followed, Felix Ortiz, president of the Chicano Club at West Valley College, said he believed in freedom and thousands of Chicanos are going to fight for freedom and equality, not for white people, but for themselves.

Daniel Carrillo de los Reyes, moderator of the symposium, told his listeners — several of whom said they felt sick because of the negativism — that he respects them. "We have to say it like it is," Reyes said, "so we can go out and do something about it."

Tools Taken

Power tools valued at more than $300 were taken between 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. yesterday from a construction trailer belonging to Clearwater Hydromechanical Corp. of Burlingame, while it was parked at the west end of Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael police reported today.

Proposed Richardson Bay Path Runs Into Difficult Roadblock

Like a baby reluctant to be born, the embryonic Richardson Bay Pathway may have to be dragged kicking and screaming into reality, the Tiburon City Council was told last night.

City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker, who is attempting to wrap up details of design for paving and improving the path, said right-of-way for an important connecting link to the path is proving difficult to obtain.

So serious are roadblocks to obtaining the connection between the path and Del Mar School at Avenida Miraflores, said Foreaker, that bids for paving the path almost certainly will have to be advertised before the access trail is a surety.

The heaviest traffic on the walkway will funnel in at this point, said Foreaker.

The city engineer reported he is prevented from running the access path along either the east or west side of Pine Terrace by a reluctant property owner on one side and the California Division of Highways on the other.

The property owner is willing to grant a six-foot access easement, but fences must be built on both sides of the path, thus producing a tunnel effect and a very narrow path, he said.

On the other side of the small Pine Terrace Subdivision, he said, the division of highways needs a road shoulder to install a left turn lane at Avenida Miraflores. Tiburon had hoped to use the shoulder for the access path.

Councilmen M. Carlisle Becker and Anne L. Ellingwood both called the Avenida Miraflores-Tiburon Boulevard intersection one of the most dangerous in the city and urged against delay in the left turn channelization.

Foreaker said the channelization would be delayed for about a year if the highways division had to seek other land for it.

Miss Ellinwood cautioned against moving too fast on final details for the path lest federal funds be jeopardized but asked interim improvements to make the path immediately useable for bicycle and pedestrian traffic.

She suggested mowing a six-foot-wide path through the weeds along the trail, compacting the existing earth and sealing the surface with oil.

This treatment, she said, would hold through winter and allow permanent paving to be delayed until after the beginning of the new fiscal year.

With this delay, she said, the city has been assured by staff members of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that a 50 per cent contribution to pathway improvements is probable.

The Richardson Bay Pathway was conceived in December when the city bought the two-mile former railroad right-of-way for $100,000, but its development has been stymied by problems in funding and questions over materials to be used and improvements to be made.

A $50,000 appropriation to Tiburon for half the acquisition cost has been approved, and a HUD contribution to improvement of the path is virtually assured if construction is delayed until after July 1. Miss Ellinwood estimated improvements could run to $80,000, although Donald K. Loomis, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, thought $120,000 might be more likely.

Foreaker said he would present plans and specifications for the path at the council's June 28 meeting. Bids can be advertised the next week and opened either at the July 11 meeting or earlier in the month if the council wishes.

Mayor Denis T. Rice instructed Foreaker to look into interim paving of the path to make it useable until permanent paving is done. The city engineer estimated such interim work would cost about $5,000.

Damage At $3,000 In Vandalism

Three cases of vandalism with damage estimated at more than $3,000 occurred over the weekend, San Rafael police reported today.

Vandals did more than $2,000 damage between 5:30 p.m. Sunday and 11 a.m. yesterday to the unoccupied home of Robert Stearns at 110 Mountain View Drive, Francis McEnerney, vice president of Frank Howard Allen and Co., real estate firm, reported to police.

Dirt was poured into the fuel tanks, engines and radiators of a bulldozer and 1.5 yard loader, doing $1,000 damage, sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 7:30 a.m. yesterday, according to police reports. The equipment was parked on a hill in back of 4 Park Ridge Road, said owner Edward L. Dorset of San Geronimo.

Vandals broke 13 windows at Vallecito Junior High School at 50 Nova Albion Way, sometime Thursday or Friday, Principal Otto F. Geiger Jr., reported to police. No estimate was made on the damage.

Mill Valley Nod To Driving Range

An $85,000 golf driving range near the Mill Valley Small Craft Harbor, to be built by a private developer at no cost to the city, last night won endorsement from the city's parks and recreation commission.

Parks and Recreation Director Don L. Dimitratos said commissioners heard a proposal by developer Richard Misuraca and Malcolm Brown, professional at the municipal golf course.

Commissioners declared the driving range to be compatible with the harbor and voted to ask the city council to approve it in principle.

Misuraca said he would return with precise figures showing the amount of income which could be expected if the council approves the concept.

Review Of Budget Finished In Tiburon

The Tiburon City Council finished its review of the 1971-72 budget last night by approving $106,591 in departmental spending after adding $2,500 to the recommended spending program.

At the request of Mayor Denis T. Rice, councilmen added the $2,500 to the parks and recreation budget for an outside consultant to continue open space and park inventory.

Departmental budgets approved, with this year's figures, in parenthesis, are: parks and recreation,$1,010 ($2,805); public works, $70,783 ($63,550); retirement system, $10,424 ($9,652) and equipment replacement, $14,374 ($10,992).

The increasd parks and recreation fund will allow for establishment of a parks and recreation department for the first time in the city's seven-year history. No parks and recreation director will be hired this year, however.

Donald K. Loomis, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, asked the council to include $80,000 in the budget for park acquisition, but was turned down.

Councilmen told him they would consider such an appropriation when the budget is completed and surpluses are known.

Last night's action by the council, sitting as a finance committee, will require final council ratification on presentation of a final budget by the city staff.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

COMMISSION — Agreed to hold open one vacancy on the planning commission and two on the parks and recreation commission to fill with Strawberry and Bel Aire residents if annexation of the two areas is successful. Present commissioners would be asked to continue in office until the annexation election Sept. 14.

WIRE — Prohibited barbed wire and electrified fences on city property and rights-of-way, except for a single strand of barbed wire about five feet and transistorized electrical fences activated only between 10 p.m. and 5 a.m. The exceptions were a concession to property owners, who complained of deer eating their gardens.

CAMPING — Asked an ordinance prepared requiring sanitary facilities and a fire permit for campers or on private property. Rice said he favored prohibition of camping altogether.

LANE — Accepted St. Bernard Lane as a city street.

CLOSED — Went into closed session to discuss appointees to the city planning commission and housing committee. Councilmen Branwell D. Fanning and Albert H. Sennett were absent.

Good Condition After Crash

A Santa Rosa woman was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital following a two-car accident Sunday near Petaluma.

The woman, Beverly Pereyda, 27, received cuts of the right thigh when the car she was driving was hit broadside by another car that failed to stop for a stop sign at Stony Point and Pepper roads, California Highway Patrol said.

Treated for cuts at the hospital were her passenger, Marie Donelson, 24, of 802 Denman Road, Petaluma and the other driver, Amos Till, 61, of San Francisco.

Arabian Horse Show Scheduled

The Golden Gate Arabian Horse Association will present its 13th annual all-Arabian horse show and sale, Thursday through Sunday, at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa.

Proceeds will go to St. Vincent's School for Boys in Marinwood. There will be performances at 1 p.m. each day and at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Marinwood Rec Budget On Agenda

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission will hold a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Marinwood Community Center to discuss next year's budget.

William A. Gordon, recreation director, said the board hopes to keep the budget at this year's level, $105,000. The revenues come from a tax rate of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation, funds from the swimming pool, and other recreational activities and a reserve fund.

At last night's regular meeting, plans for July 4th activities were discussed. The commission is planning a variety of activities including swimming, tennis, pancake breakfast, watermelon feed, ice cream and a band.

Outdoor Education Program Available

Information on enrollment for a children's outdoor education workshop, with emphasis on ecology, field trips and art, is available through Roland C. Williams, 331 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur.

The Independent-Journal Friday reported details of the program could be obtained from Mark Collin, one of two Sonoma State College students presenting the workshops. Inquiries should be directed to Collin care of Williams, who recently moved to Larkspur from Mill Valley.

Chain Collision Hurts Santa Rosan's Back

George C. Gorham, 26, of Santa Rosa, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for back pains suffered when his auto was involved in a three-car chain reaction accident at 4:40 p.m. yesterday on Lakeville Highway, west of Casa Grande Road, Petaluma.

Police said cars driven by Harry Mortenson, 30, of Santa Rosa, and Rolan O. Williams, 58, of Folsom, also were involved.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

U.S. Troops Get Top Treatment; Vietnam Civilians Languish, Die

The Vietnamese people are the innocent victims of a most unpopular war. The number of civilian casualties during more than 20 years, is not known because these figures were not compiled. It has been estimated that during the Past decade, there were more than 1,000,000 casualties and 300,000 killed among civilians. Included in these figures are many children.

E. A. VASTYAN, B. D. of Hershey, Pa., wrote about the problem in a recent issue of Annals of Internal Medicine. American troops receive excellent care and the death rate is one per cent as compared with 4.8 per cent in World War II. Wounded servicemen reach combat hospital units within 40 minutes; some receive care within 5 minutes.

In contrast, civilian casualties have received miserable care. There has been some improvement but the physicians face an insurmountable task. Medical facilities for the natives are inadequate and poorly staffed. Many of the injured wait in the yards for weeks and months to be admitted to a hospital. In some places two and three are put in a bed.

IN 1967, THERE were only 1,000 Vietnamese physicians serving a population of 16 million. Seven hundred were in the military, 100 in Saigon, 100 doing other work (administrative and political.

The county had two medical schools but one was destroyed by enemy fire. During the last few years, other nations, including our own, have tried to help. The American Medical Association, for example, has supported 700 of its members who volunteered for a two months tour of duty.

CIVILIAN HEALTH problems are getting worse. Even in peace time Viet Nam has never been a healthy nation. Malaria, tuberculosis, parasitic diseases, typhoid, smallpox and trachoma are prevalent. Ten years ago life expectancy was 35 years and half the children died by age 5.

To all of this we can now add the more than 150,000 civilians who are amputees, paraplegics, or blind. There are 258,000 orphans and 131,000 war widows. We are committed to help their war efforts but is our military aid creating more devastation in terms of human misery?

FEVERLESS

M. writes: My sister's temperature never goes over 97, even when she is sick. Are there some people who never have fever?

REPLY

Yes, especially those who never develop ailments that induce fever. Let's not brag about your sister because she might become ill (we hope not) tomorrow with a 104 degree temperature.

NEED FOR FLUIDS

A reader writes: What causes dehydration after surgery?

REPLY

Sweating, loss of blood and other tissue fluids, and going for many hours without eating or drinking. This is one reason why intravenous feedings are given after an operation.

LIE DETECTOR

P. F. writes: If a person made false statements which he thought were true, would it show up on the lie detector?

REPLY

It wouldn't, if the person believed his statements to be true. The rate of breathing, blood pressure, and heart rate would remain the same.

DAILY ONION

N. S. writes: Will eating a raw onion every day make the face erupt?

REPLY

No, but the tear ducts may.

GETTING READY — Betty and Walter Van Gelder (in chairs) check the world atlas for facts about their new home, Afghanistan. The younger Van Gelders (left to right) Holly, Amy, Cory and Mark, seem more interested in whether there will be places for camping. The family moves to Afghanistan next month for a two year stint with the Peace Corps.

Family To Do Peace Corps Work

By MARY BURNS

Fourteen years in Marin County is hardly adequate preparation for living in Afghanistan. However, a Marinwood family plans to make the move in two weeks.

Walter B. and Betty Van Gelder and their children, Cory, 10, Holly 12, Amy, 14, and Mark, 16, will vkave June 25 for Philadelphia to join other Peace Corps volunteers for their flight to Kabul, Afghanistan.

The Van Gelders, who reside at 574 Kernberry Drive, are among a select group of families being sent to developing nations under a new Peace Corps program.

Van Gelder will teach architecture at the University of Kabul; Mrs. Van Gelder will teach English in the capital city and the children will attend an international school.

"Volunteering for work with the Peace Corps has been on our minds for about a year," Van Gelder explained. They received an invitation to Afghanistan a month ago.

"We joined because we believe in the work the Peace Corps is doing. Its approach is not material aid but people aid which is more meaningful. This program is attractive for a family because it gives the children a chance to see another culture and another people," Mrs. Van Gelder added.

This is only the second year that families have been accepted as volunteers. As countries requested more experienced personnel, the Peace Corps found it necessary to relax its stringent no-family policy. Families are sent to more urban areas of a country where adequate educational and medical services exist.

During their two-year assignment, the Van Gelders will receive a living allowance but no salary. Each month $200 will be put aside in a savings account to help them readjust to America. They will also receive a small vacation allowment.

Each member of the family is allowed only 80 pounds of luggage. They will take no vehicle and no household furnishings. A strict Peace Corps rule is that volunteers live on the level of the people with whom they are working.

The University of Kabul, the only university in the country, is just beginning its school of architecture. "New architecture in the country shows strong western influence," Van Gelder uaid. "Our hope is that by teaching architecture in the country, we can help the Afghans realize and develop their own native architecture adapted to their country."

The small country--it is only 14 miles long--has a climate similar to that of Denver, Colo. Its language, closely related to Persian, should provide a fitting challenge to the Van Gelders, who will have to learn to write backward from right to left.

The Van Gelders first three months in Afghanistan will be spent in school. They will study the language, history and culture of the country, and find a place to live. Mrs. Van Gelder will have a Peace Corps-trained man-servant (the rigid Moslem culture is completely male-dominated) to help her with cooking and shopping during these 12 weeks. Should he and the family gel, he will remain with them throughout their stay.

The family's meals of fresh vegetables, fruits, lamb and a little beef will be cooked on a bottle gas stove. Because of the high incidence of water contamination, all the family's water will have to be boiled.

The Van Gelders evidence more than the usual amount of excitement, some healthy fear and an idealistic desire to help a country struggling to develop its own character. "It is very important to us that we be there not as tourists but as involved persons," they say.

Van Gelder, 47, is not new to overseas life. He studied, as a Fkpbright scholar, at the University of Delft in Holland for one year. The Danbury, Conn., native received a bachelor's degree in architecture from Cornell University and a bachelor's in geology from Washington and Lee University. He is a member of the American Institute of Architects and the Sierra Club. He and his family are active in the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin County.

Betty Van Gelder, 42, a California resident for 39 years, is a former school teacher and a native of Holdridge, Neb. She graduated from the University of California at Berkeley and taught in the California public schools for several years. She was also on the board of the American Civil Liberties Union.

For 10 years Van Gelder was associated with Crawford and Banning, a San Rafael architectural firm. Recently he has been employed by the Coast Guard Architectural Office in San Francisco.

Armed Man Gets $1,500 Plus Jewels

A Kentfield woman was bound and gagged and robbed yesterday of about $1,500 in cash, as well as jewelry and antique silver, by an armed man who invaded her home.

Marin County sheriff's deputies said today that Arlene Grossenbacher, 27, of 30 Rosebank Avenue, opened her front door at about 9:45 a.m., answering a knock which she thought would be a dishwasher repair man.

Instead, she told deputies, she was met by a tall, blond-haired man, between 40 and 45 years old, armed with an automatic pistol.

He forced her back into the residence, taped her hands and feet and gagged her, before proceeding to pick up the cash — weekend receipts from a San Francisco restaurant owned by her husband — which was on a living room table.

The man also loaded jewelry and silver into pillow cases before leaving the house about 10:15 or 10:30 a.m., deputies said.

Value of the jewelry and silver had not been estimated today, deputies said.

Mrs. Grossenbacher worked the gag loose, hopped to a telephone and was able to summon help by dialing with a knife in her mouth.

Deputies described the robber as having thinning blond hair and a medium build, and wearing tan pants and a striped shirt. He was about six feet, two inches tall, Mrs. Grossenbacher said.

STARS ABOVE

The Little Dipper Needs Explanation

By SHERMAN WALKER

The Little Dipper (or more properly Ursa Minor or Smaller Bear) is not as well known to the general public as it deserves. It is moderately bright, and the star at the end of the handle of the dipper is the North Star, which makes it the cynosure of all eyes. That is more than just a figure of speech. Cynosura comes from a Greek word meaning "the dog's tail" and was once the name of The North Star which indicates that the Little Bear was once known as a dog.

This figure should not be confused with the Pleiades, often erroneously called the Little Dipper.

To locate the Little Dipper, face northward and look at the region of the sky that is above the North Star. The dipper extends from the North Star toward the overhead point.

The two stars at the outer edge of the dipper's bowl are about as bright as the North Star. They are called the Guardians of the Pole because they seem to march around it throughout the night.

The celestial north pole is the point where the extension of the axis of the earth would apparently touch the sky. The North Star is not exactly at that point but it misses it by about 1½ degrees.

The North Star is approaching closer to the true pole and will come within a three-fourths degree of it. After that, the star will apparently recede from the pole and we will have no real guide to that point for a time. This is not because the star moves, but because the axis of the earth changes its position.

Seven Receive Medals Of Honor From President

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon conferred the Medal of Honor on seven Vietnam combat veterans at a private White House ceremony today.

The nation's highest award for courage in battle was presented to six Army men and one marine.

The medal winners included Maj. Kern W. Dunagan, Tucson, Ariz.; CWO Michael J. Novosel, Ft. Bragg, N.C.; S. Sgt. Franklin D. Miller, Elizabeth City, N.C., whose mother, Mrs. Gloria M. Shipman now lives in Farmington, N.M.; Sgt. Richard Penry of Petaluma, Calif.; Sgt. Peter C. Lemon of National City, Mich.; Spec. 4 John P. Baca, a native of Providence, R.I., who lives in Costa Mesa, Calif., and Marine Pfc. Raymond M. Clausen Jr., Hammond, La.

Javits Calls Funds For Jobless Crucial

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said today any veto by President Nixon of proposed emergency employment legislation would be a "cruel blow" to the unemployed and the nation's economy.

Javits, speaking at the annual U.S. Conference of Mayors, said he hoped that in the "highest interest of the nation the President will not veto" such legislation but permit it to become law.

Javits referred to proposed Senate and House bills called the Emergency Employment Act of 1971.

The Senate bill would allocate $1.75 billion for job funding for a two-year period from date of passage through 1973, and the House bill a total of $4.95 billion during a five-year period, Javits said.

Javits said the Nixon administration opposes provisions of both bills and that this was a reversal of its policy in the Manpower Training Act of 1969.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., in an address to the conference, called Nixon's proposed revenue sharing a "three-headed cow."

"It looks interesting but usually doesn't produce much milk," Bayh said.

Critical Smog Level Is Hit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Smog in Los Angeles is not a "critical medical problem" and its residents suffer no more from respiratory ailments than those in other metropolitan areas, county air pollution chief Robert Chass said Monday.

Chass, opening witness at hearings of the county environmental control commission, conceded that many physicians regard smog as a medical problem and that "it may prove critical for some individuals already afflicted with various disabilities.

"But certainly the term critical is inappropriate when millions of people are living normal life spans and suffering from no greater incidence of respiratory disease than is observed in other metropolitan areas of the county," he said.

Novelist Christie Injured In Fall

OXFORD, England (UPI)—Dame Agatha Christie, 80-year-old crime novelist, broke her leg in a fall at her home, Winterbrook House, at the town of Wallingford and has been hospitalized in Oxford, friends said today.

A spokesman at the Nuffield Orthopaedic Center said the condition of the writer, the world's most translated author of crime stories, is "fair."

Dame Agatha is the wife of archeologist Sir Max Malowan.

She was created a Dame of the British Empire (DBE) in the New Year's honors list proclaimed by Queen Elizabeth in January.

CRLA Seeking Federal Grant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California Rural Legal Assistance officials have asked the federal anti-poverty agency for a 17-month operational grant.

CRLA, now operating under a temporary grant, was criticized by Gov. Ronald Reagan who vetoed federal funds and is the subject of an investigation by a federal commission.

CRLA Director Cruz Reynoso said Monday he asked the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity for the 17-month grant so his agency would not have to "fight for its life" next month and again at the end of the year.

"We feel that we've been superevaluated after 20 days of extensive and intensive commission hearings and we hope that OEO will abide by the commission's findings as it promised to do," Reynoso said.

Reed Budget On Agenda Tonight

A proposed $2,158,335 budget for 1971-72 will be considered by the Reed School District board at 8 p.m. today at Bel Aire School, Karen Way, Tiburon.

The budget compares to a $2,299,286 spending program for the current fiscal year and anticipates revenues of $2,205,550, according to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello.

The superintendent said no estimate of the Budget's effect on the tax rate, which stands at $3.53 this year, will be available until shortly before tomorrow's meeting.

The board also will consider a staffing proposal with a goal of one teacher per 25 pupils.

Marinwood Fire Budget Is Hiked

A preliminary budget for next year of $100,000 was approved last night by the Marinwood Fire Commission, according to Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield.

The proposed budget compares with this year's $85,000 budget. Bonfield said next year's budget will be discussed at a special budget meeting of the Marinwood Community Service District board Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Marinwood Community Center.

Bonfield said he expects no increase in the current tax rate of 61 cents per $100 assessed. He added the $15,000 increase in next year's budget stems from a greater population and an increase in total operating costs.

Also discussed at the commission meeting last night was a proposal by Bonfield and Ronald Marinoff, director on the board of the Upper Lucas Valley Homeowner's association, to form a volunteer planning committee for the hills between Marinwood and Upper Lucas Valley.

According to Bonfield, the committee would consist of volunteer residents of Marinwood who would join an already formed committee in Upper Lucas Valley to suggest plans for construction, roads and utilities in the hills. The suggestions would then be forwarded to the Marin County Planning Commission for its consideration.

The plan to form the volunteer planning committee will be taken up at the June 28th meeting of the services district board.

The commission voted to continue employing a College of Marin student whose salary will no longer be financed under the federal study program. Bonfield said the student will be funded by the commission if the district board agrees June 28.

Hub Driver Is Hurt In Wreck

A 27-year-old San Anselmo man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital following an automobile accident in San Francisco.

Michael Firneno of 127 Woodside Drive was admitted at 9:30 p.m. yesterday with multiple fractures of the left leg and cut left arm, chin and both knees, hospital officials said.

Discussion Set On Overlapping

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission last night agreed to a joint meeting with the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission to discuss the overlap in commission responsibilities.

Recreation director James Pekkain said the meeting has been set for July 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall. He said the commission would also discuss city beautification as a possible joint effort.

The commission also heard Pekkain report that he had formally filed a grant application for $315,000 from the state Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for the future Rohnert Regional Park.

A $10,000 Pact For Manual

The Novato Sanitary District last night awarded Jenks and Adamson of Palo Alto, consulting engineers, a $10,000 contract to prepare a maintenance and operation manual.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph explained the federal Environmental Protection Agency required such a manual as a condition of federal grants for the district's planned improvement projects.

The district is planning to sell $1.6 million in bonds to finance an outfall line and improvements to Ignacio and Novato treatment plants, with federal grants to provide about 80 per cent of the total cost.

Bids on the bonds will be opened at 10 a.m. July 27 at the Bank of American in San Francisco and are expected to be reviewed by the district directors that night, Joseph said.

Racial Problem Not An Issue

Novato Police Chief Allen V. Klemme said today the dispute between whites and black at Lion's Park, near Stafford Dam, Sunday, didn't stem from any racial problem.

Investigation is continuing the chief said, but so far it has revealed that rather than a racial problem, the incident was part of a continuing problem of youths harassing other people at the park.

The dispute arose after a black man charged that a white youth tried to run into him with a pickup truck. The chief said the incident had no racial significance.

Elimination Of Toliver Job Backed

The Sausalito School District—according to a special hearing officer—is justified in eliminating the jobs of 22 certificated employees—including special assistant James T. Toliver Jr. as part of sweeping budget reductions planned for next school year.

This was the ruling of hearing officer George R. Coan of the State Department of Administrative Procedures after three days of testimony in the cases of 10 persons who appealed the district's staff reductions. Coan's report was appealed the district's staff reductions. Coan's report was released yesterday by Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino who handles legal services for the Sausalito district.

After reviewing the appeals evidence heard in hearings in May and June, Coan concluded the district's financial and enrollment problems make the proposed reductions permissible under the state education code. The district has complied with the code's provisions in moving to eliminate special services such as counseling nursing, speech therapy and psychological services, the hearing officer said.

Affected by the ruling were Toliver, counselors Harvey Pearlman and David Olson, speech therapist Susan Besserman and teachers Miriam Kelly, Emmy Miller, Jane Pokorny, Helena Richardson, Judith Feinglass and Juliana Whitten, all of whom appealed the decision not to rehire them for 1971-72.

In March, the 10 were among 22 certificated employees notified by Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg that their positions were being eliminated because of a continuing decline in district enrollment.

In his findings, the hearing officer noted the district has serious financial problems and that its reserve funds are down from a previous total of $100,000 to a low of $20,000.

Coan said cost of educating a child in the Sausalito district is currently $1,950 a year, as compared to $869 per year in other Marin school districts. The pupil-teacher rating ranges from 18 to 1 in the lower grades to 13 to 1 in the upper grades, he said and the proposed staff reductions will bring the ratio to 22 and 24 to 1.

In addition, he said average daily attendance during the 1968-69 school year was 820.

No Budget Session

The Mill Valley City Council will not hold a budget session tonight as previously announced. The council instead will hold a closed session at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to direct its representatives in negotiations with city employees.

Western Weekend To Start Thursday

Novato's annual Western Weekend Country Fair, a four-day celebration with strong local flavor, will start Thursday evening.

Downtown store windows are painted with Western scenes and residents have donned Western wear in preparation for the event.

There won't be any parade this year, because of problems obtaining bands, but other traditional events, the buckaroo breakfast, waterball fight, tug of war, melodrama and beard contest will be held.

New events will include a horseshoe pitching contest, and free stage coach rides.

One of the attractions at the fairgrounds at the east end of Rowland Boulevard will be Allen's Pet Zoo, featuring Gentle Ben the television star, who also appeared in the film "Dr. Doolittle." The zoo also will contain a llama, a wallaby and a baby camel.

Among the entertainers will be the Generation Gap, a Marin county singing group, the Thompson Goodtime Music Group, Dick Queirolo, a Novato magican, the Mill Valley Puppeteers and rock bands Born Again Zorba, Salt Point and Ze-Lot.

Local organizations will man food and game booths at the fairgrounds and the Foley and Burk fun fair shows will operate carnival rides.

Western Weekend To Start Thursday

Novato's annual Western Weekend Country Fair, a four-day celebration with strong local flavor, will start Thursday evening.

Downtown store windows are painted with Western scenes and residents have donned Western wear in preparation for the event.

There won't be any parade this year, because of problems obtaining bands, but other traditional events, the buckaroo breakfast, waterball fight, tug of war, melodrama and beard contest will be held.

New events will include a horseshoe pitching contest, and free stage coach rides.

One of the attractions at the fairgrounds at the east end of Rowland Boulevard will be Allen's Pet Zoo, featuring Gentle Ben the television star, who also appeared in the film "Dr. Doolittle." The zoo also will contain a llama, a wallaby and a baby camel.

Among the entertainers will be the Generation Gap, a Marin county singing group, the Thompson Goodtime Music Group, Dick Queirolo, a Novato magican, the Mill Valley Puppeteers and rock bands Born Again Zorba, Salt Point and Ze-Lot.

Elimination Of Toliver Job Backed

The Sausalito School District—according to a special hearing officer—is justified in eliminating the jobs of 22 certificated employees—including special assistant James T. Toliver Jr. as part of sweeping budget reductions planned for next school year.

This was the ruling of hearing officer George R. Coan of the State Department of Administrative Procedures after three days of testimony in the cases of 10 persons who appealed the district's staff reductions. Coan's report was appealed the distrisct's staff reductions. Coan's report was released yesterday by Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino who handles legal services for the Sausalito district.

After reviewing the appeals evidence heard in hearings in May and June, Coan concluded the district's financial and enrollment problems make the proposed reductions permissible under the state education code. The district has complied with the code's provisions in moving to eliminate special services such as counseling nursing, speech therapy and psychological services, the hearing officer said.

Affected by the ruling were Toliver, counselors Harvey Pearlman and David Olson, speech therapist Susan Besserman and teachers Miriam Kelly, Emmy Miller, Jane Pokorny, Helena Richardson, Judith Feinglass and Juliana Whitten, all of whom appealed the decision not to rehire them for 1971-72.

In March, the 10 were among 22 certificated employees notified by Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg that their positions were being eliminated because of a continuing decline in district enrollment.

In his findings, the hearing officer noted the district has serious financial problems and that its reserve funds are down from a previous total of $100,000 to a low of $20,000.

Coan said cost of educating a child in the Sausalito district is currently $1,950 a year, as compared to $869 per year in other Marin school districts. The pupil-teacher rating ranges from 18 to 1 in the lower grades to 13 to 1 in the upper grades, he said and the proposed staff reductions will bring the ratio to 22 and 24 to 1.

In addition, he said average daily attendance during the 1968-69 school year was 820.

No Budget Session

The Mill Valley City Council will not hold a budget session tonight as previously announced. The council instead will hold a closed session at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to direct its representatives in negotiations with city employees.

Farm Bureau Seeks Trial Funding

The Marin County Farm Bureau, protesting the cost of the Angela Davis case to Marin County, is seeking statewide effort for state financing in such "exceptional cases."

Directors are seeking support from the State Farm Bureau and Marin County Bureau for legislation to have the state give financial support in cases such as the Manson trial in Los Angeles, the Corona case in Yuba City and the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee trial in Marin.

President Alfred L. Poncia said the bureau is strongly against having the expense of the trial, estimated at more than $500,000, being entirely borne by Marin County.

Since the trial is based on an event that arose from a "state funded procedure," processing of San Quentin prisoners, the state should accept the financial responsibility, Poncia said.

The bureau campaign is to have the state pay all or a share of such costs, he said.

Poncia urged residents and local organizations to petition the state to give financial support and said the bureau has sent letters to legislators urging legislation.

Directors last week also protested the role of John Cardinal Donnelly's ad hoc committee on agriculture mediating disputes between growers and the United Farm Workers organization since the committee "is opinionated", Poncia said.

Cardinal Connell is chairman of the American Bishops Conference in Detroit. Mich.

There is a petition opposing the committee's role at the bureau office in point Reyes Station for those who wish to sign it, Poncia said.

Cardinal Connell is chairvan of the American Bishops Conference in Detroit. Mich.

Farm Bureau Seeks Trial Funding

The Marin County Farm Bureau, protesting the cost of the Angela Davis case to Marin County, is seeking statewide effort for state financing in such "exceptional cases."

Directors are seeking support from the State Farm Bureau and Marin County Bureau for legislation to have the state give financial support in cases such as the Manson trial in Los Angeles, the Corona case in Yuba City and the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee trial in Marin.

President Alfred L. Poncia said the bureau is strongly against having the expense of the trial, estimated at more than $500,000, being entirely borne by Marin County.

Since the trial is based on an event that arose from a "state funded procedure," processing of San Quentin prisoners, the state should accept the financial responsibility, Poncia said.

The bureau campaign is to have the state pay all or a share of such costs, he said.

Poncia urged residents and local organizations to petition the state to give financial support and said the bureau has sent letters to legislators urging legislation.

Directors last week also protested the role of John Cardinal Donnelly's ad hoc committee on agriculture mediating disputes between growers and the United Farm Workers organization since the committee "is opinionated", Poncia said.

Cardinal Connell is chairman of the American Bishops Conference in Detroit. Mich.

There is a petition opposing the committee's role at the bureau office in point Reyes Station for those who wish to sign it, Poncia said.

JIM GILMARTIN

A Local Angle In NCAA Tennis

Ever in search of the almighty "local angle," I have come up with a beaut out of South Bend, Ind.

There today, Mike Machette of Belvedere will play former San Rafael resident Dick Stockton in a crucial match at the National Collegiate Athletic Association tennis championships. Machette is representing the favored University of Southern California Trojans while Stockton hails from Trinity, Tex.

ROOTERS FOR the San Francisco 49ers will be happy to hear the praise of Coach Dick Nolan for his newly-acquired running back, Vic Washington.

Friend of mine played golf with Nolan at the Harrah's Invitational Tournament at Lake Tahoe last week and brought home these quotes from the coach on his recent acquisition from the Canadian League:

"There's no question he has blinding speed. We're going to have to look at him, but he certainly can fly. I saw him three years ago in a Gray Cup game, when he took a pitchout around the weak side, put a tremendous fake on the linebacker, and went 60 yards for a score."

The Niners certainly could use a breakaway back and let's hope Washington fills the bill.

RICK DE MONT is only a 15-year-old junior at Terra Linda High School, but he has become the first Marin County swimmer to qualify for the United States Senior National Championships in Houston next August. Rick made the grade at the Senior Amateur Athletic Union meet at De Anza College in Cupertino over the weekend by swimming the 1,500-meter freestyle in 17 minutes, 6 seconds — almost 9 seconds faster than the national qualifying time.

Says his coach, Don Swartz of the Marin Aquatic Club: "Distance freestyle is Rick's specialty and though he'll probably be one of the youngest men competitors at Houston, we expect him to perform well."

JOE "KING" LEOPOLD, well-known East Bay boxing figure who died in San Rafael Sunday at age 72, made one famous mistake during an otherwise distinguished career as a timekeeper.

It came during the Jerry Quarry-Brian London heavyweight bout a few years back at the Oakland Arena when he sounded the bell a minute early. London was almost knocked out. Leopold told the referee his mistake and the round was continued. Quarry proceeded to knock out the Englishman.

Leopold, who was an outstanding fighter as a young man and a timekeeper for 38 years, died while changing a flat tire on his car.

TWO SAN RAFAEL golfers have become eligible for a free trip to Scotland and a $1,000 cash prize as a result of scoring holes-in-one recently.

Robert P. Kilgore of 407 Riviera Drive and Nancy Marvey of 25 Dellwood Street scored their aces at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club. Both have been entered in the Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Co. of Edinburgh, Scotland. The winner will be announced early next year.

Nicklaus Sharpens Up For U.S. Open

ij Sports

Tuesday, June 15, 1971 Independent-Journal. 31

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus may be proof that practice makes for near-perfection, but he can't convince Gary Player.

Nicklaus, who practices with passion when he sets his sights on a major golf championship, has been preparing since last Wednesday for the U. S. Open which begins in two days.

He says he was "just truly amazed" that none of the other 149 Open qualifers joined him last week at the Merion golf club.

Player, however, thinks the extra practice time means nothing.

"Some of the best golf is shot by players on courses they've never even seen," he said. "You can come here for three weeks and practice and if you're not playing well, it doesn't matter. I think it's the most overrated thing to spend weeks practicing for a tournament."

Obviously, both Nicklaus and Player have been successful in their different approaches to preparing for big tournaments. Both are among the favorites in the field that will tee off Thursday.

Nicklaus, the top money winner on the PGA tour this year, says he is "just starting to learn" Merion after four practice rounds.

"I couldn't have been more amazed that nobody else was here last week. I don't understand it," Nicklaus said.

"This is not the type of golf course that you can walk in and play one round on and win. You have to learn the greens and how the wind goes and learn the places to play and the places not to play.

"Every golf course has got a bunch of little idiosyncracies and particularly an older style golf course like this one. When you're playing one of these courses it's a different game."

Player said he used to prepare like Nicklaus does but now agrees with Lee Trevino's theory that tournament competition is the best practice.

"Look at all the great scores every week in tournaments, when some players just come to the course the day before the tournament starts," Player said.

"If Jack figures he needs a whole week to get ready, then that's what he should do. The year I won the Open (1965), I did this, but I've since changed my whole opinion about practicing for a championship. The big thing is how you're playing at the moment."

Player is playing well. He already has won two tournaments this year and was a near-winner in the last two.

"We put too much pressure on ourselves," he said. "You have to reat this as just another tournament. Then I'm sure you'd be more relaxed and play better."

Trevino, like Player beaten in a playoff for the Kemper Open title Sunday in Charlotte, N.C., believes too much practice can detract from tournament readiness.

"If you're hitting bad iron shots, for example, the time to straighten it out is in competition," he said. "You can always hit good shots in practice. In competition, that's when you know how you're hitting."

OUT COLD — San Francisco Giants outfielder Frank Johnson lies unconscious after being hit in the face by a ball during fielding practice before last night's game in Philadelphia. He remained unconscious for 10 minutes and then was taken to a hospital for observation. He was in satisfactory condition this morning. (UPI Telephoto)

Very Depressing Setback For S.F.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — 'Tis June, the month for romance, the end of school and the San Francisco Giants collapse.

San Francisco continued its retreat back toward the pack in the National League West Monday night by absorbing a 9-4 walloping to Philadelphia.

Monday's defeat was extra depressing. Los Angeles managed only three hits at New York but still won to cut the once seemingly insurmountable Giant lead to five games.

For another thing, San Francisco got some bad news about superstar Willie McCovey and saw another player take a ball in the face.

It was announced that McCovey's arthritic knees would be x-rayed Thursday at which time a decision will be made whether surgery would be needed. If the answer is yes to that one, McCovey could be out most of the season.

Giants manager Charlie Fox said that while McCovey is out a "newcomer" would take over at first. "We've had our eye on him for a long time. He has the spirit, and looks like he can pop one once in a while when it's needed most. Oh yes, his name is Mays." Willie Mays has been filling in for McCovey on occasion this season and has handled the position well.

The Giants got another tough break when Frank Johnson was struck in the face by a thrown ball in pregame drills. The 29-year-old Johnson was unconscious for several minutes and then taken for an overnight hospital stay. But first reports from there were encouraging and he should be back in action in a day or two.

As for the game, San Francisco managed only six hits off Rick Wise while the Phils carved up Gaylord Perry for six runs in the second inning to break a 1-1 tie and wrap things up early.

That meant that Perry and Juan Marichal, assertedly the aces of the Giants staff, have started six games in June without picking up a victory.

The Giants send Ron Bryant (5-3) forth tonight to try to help the team revive from its June swoon. Barry Lersch (4-5) will toe the slab for the Phils.

Pittsburgh Bucs Sign Novatan Tommy Thomas

Tommy Thomas, former star third baseman for Novato High School, has been signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates, the National League team announced yesterday.

Thomas, currently a centerfielder in his senior year at Washington State College, signed for what the Pirates reported was a moderate bonus after they selected him in the secondary phase of the major league draft last Wednesday. That draft was for players who had been drafted before but remained unsigned. Thomas was previously drafted by the California Angels.

After graduating from Novato, Thomas played American Legion ball and one season at Menlo College before transferring to Washington State. He stands 6-foot-3, weighs 180 pounds, and hits and throws righthanded. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thomas III, live in Novato.

The Pirates have assigned Thomas to their Niagara Falls, N.Y. farm club in the New York - Pennsylvania League.

Cal Angels Teammates Squabble; Gun Threat?

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)— Controversial American League batting champion Alex Johnson of the California Angels accused teammate Chico Ruiz Monday of pulling a gun on him in the team's clubhouse.

The report was vehemently denied by Ruiz, who said he doesn't own a gun, or even a cap pistol, and would never have done such a thing.

The incident, as related by Johnson, took place Sunday during the ninth inning of a game with the Washington Senators. Both Ruiz and Johnson had been pinchhitters in the game and no longer were available for duty.

"He brought a gun to the clubhouse," Johnson told UPI. "He had been talking all year that he was going to bring a .38 to the park and kill me. You can take it from me, he threatened me with a gun. He's crazy."

Asked if he reported the incident, Johnson said he told a security officer and left.

Sgt. Jerry Lemar of the Anaheim police detail stationed at the park said no report had been made to his units of such an incident.

The incident was not reported to club officials, General Manager Dick Walsh said, adding he was investigating the report.

"That's the most ridiculous story I have ever heard," said Ruiz. "I don't own a gun, not even a cap pistol. I was in the dugout until the last out was made, not in the clubhouse."

Both Ruiz and Johnston came to the Angels from the Cincinnati Reds, and utility player Ruiz admitted he and Johnson had not been on good terms for more than a year. He said they had a fist fight last year but it was in the open and resulted from profanity Ruiz claimed Johnson directed at him.

"I've had words with him like everyone else," Ruiz said. "But I couldn't do a thing like that."

Johnson has been up for trade by the Angels in recent weeks because of his inability to get along with teammates and for a lack of hustle. For the past 10 days Johnson has been used only as a pinchhitter, despite having won the league batting championship last year.

Cubs' Pitcher In Hospital

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Cubs' pitcher Ferguson Jenkins was admitted to Wesley Memorial Hospital late Monday night suffering from fever, headache and a generalized malaise, a team spokesman said today.

Team physician Dr. Jacob Suker said, "Our impression is it is acute viral syndrome. He has been placed in isolation pending further tests."

Jenkins, currently leading Cubs' pitchers with a 10-6 won-lost record, is the second of the team's four starters to be sidelined with virus infections. Milt Pappas has been undergong treatment for a similar ailment for the past two weeks and it is uncertain when he will be able to play.

Suker said there is no indication of a connection between Pappas' and Jenkins' ailments.

ILLEGAL BONUSES

Cleveland Stars Have No Comment

CLEVELAND (UPI)—"The decision of the commissioner has been made and there is nothing we can do about it."

That was the only statement issued by Gabe Paul, president and treasurer of the Cleveland Indians, Monday night after the Cleveland club was notified that a fine of $5,000 was levied upon it by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for signing bonus contracts with Ken Harrelson, Sam McDowell, Graig Nettles and Vada Pinson.

"I have no feelings about the fine," said McDowell, who hurled his sixth straight victory Sunday against the Milwaukee Brewers. "I have no statement to make until I talk to my lawyers."

McDowell, whose contract was supposed to include a bonus clause for every victory over 20 games, could have made up to $100,000 with a good year.

Harrelson, who has been benched in favor of rookie Chris Chambliss, denied he had a bonus clause while Nettles, whose contract allegedly had a clause about reaching base during the year, said, "No comment."

"I have no comment on the situation," said Pinson, who was a holdout early in spring training. "We'll just wait and see what happens.

"I figure this would happen so it is not so shocking. I'm just going to sleep on it tonight and we'll see what happens tomorrow."

Kuhn indicated that Cleveland's arrangement with the four players was invalid because they were set forth in side letters rather than in the official contracts.

The commissioner also stated that instead of the bonuses the players were to get, each player would be entitled to receive from the club at the end of the season whatever additional salary American League President Joe Cronin felt each merited.

Houston And New Orleans Make Another Big Trade

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Houston Oilers Tuesday traded two players, including starting tackle Glen Ray Hines, and gave up two future draft choices Monday in exchange for defensive tackle Mike Tilleman of the New Orleans Saints.

It was the second major trade between the two clubs since the end of the 1970 season and was announced by Oiler General Manager John W. Breen. Earlier the Oilers traded two linemen and a running back plus their 1970 second round draft choice for wide receiver Ken Burrough and defensive tackle Dave Rowe.

Tilleman, a 6-6, 280 pounder, has started for the Saints the last four seasons and was named their most valuable player in 1970. Tilleman, acquired from Minnesota in 1966, will be paired with Rowe, 6-7, 280.

Hines was the Oilers second round future choice in 1965 and was on the AFL all-star squad in 1968 and 1969. New Orleans also received linebacker Jess Lewis and the Oilers' second round draft choice in 1972 and third round pick in 1973.

Broyles Leads Coaches' Golf

BELLA VISTA, Ark. (UPI)— Host Frank Broyles fired a four-over-par 76 Monday to take the lead at the midway point of the Football Coaches Invitational golf tournament.

Broyles' rival on the football field, Texas Coach Darrell Royal, was a shot back with a 77.

Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma fired a 78 and Doug Dickey of Florida and Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy shot 81s.

The final 18 holes of the 7th annual tournament was to be shot over the par 7-2 Bella Vista Country Club Course Tuesday.

A Local Angle In NCAA Tennis

Ever in search of the almighty "local angle," I have come up with a beaut out of South Bend, Ind.

There today, Mike Machette of Belvedere will play former San Rafael resident Dick Stockton in a crucial match at the National Collegiate Athletic Association tennis championships. Machette is representing the favored University of Southern California Trojans while Stockton hails from Trinity, Tex.

ROOTERS FOR the San Francisco 49ers will be happy to hear the praise of Coach Dick Nolan for his newly-acquired running back, Vic Washington.

Friend of mine played golf with Nolan at the Harrah's Invitational Tournament at Lake Tahoe last week and brought home these quotes from the coach on his recent acquisition from the Canadian League:

"There's no question he has blinding speed. We're going to have to look at him, but he certainly can fly. I saw him three years ago in a Gray Cup game, when he took a pitchout around the weak side, put a tremendous fake on the linebacker, and went 60 yards for a score."

The Niners certainly could use a breakaway back and let's hope Washington fills the bill.

RICK DE MONT is only a 15-year-old junior at Terra Linda High School, but he has become the first Marin County swimmer to qualify for the United States Senior National Championships in Houston next August. Rick made the grade at the Senior Amateur Athletic Union meet at De Anza College in Cupertino over the weekend by swimming the 1,500-meter freestyle in 17 minutes, 6 seconds — almost 9 seconds faster than the national qualifying time.

Says his coach, Don Swartz of the Marin Aquatic Club: "Distance freestyle is Rick's specialty and though he'll probably be one of the youngest men competitors at Houston, we expect him to perform well."

JOE "KING" LEOPOLD, well-known East Bay boxing figure who died in San Rafael Sunday at age 72, made one famous mistake during an otherwise distinguished career as a timekeeper.

It came during the Jerry Quarry-Brian London heavyweight bout a few years back at the Oakland Arena when he sounded the bell a minute early. London was almost knocked out. Leopold told the referee his mistake and the round was continued. Quarry proceeded to knock out the Englishman.

Leopold, who was an outstanding fighter as a young man and a timekeeper for 38 years, died while changing a flat tire on his car.

TWO SAN RAFAEL golfers have become eligible for a free trip to Scotland and a $1,000 cash prize as a result of scoring holes-in-one recently.

Robert P. Kilgore of 407 Riviera Drive and Nancy Marvey of 25 Dellwood Street scored their aces at the Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club. Both have been entered in the Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes, a national competition sponsored by the Drambuie Co. of Edinburgh, Scotland. The winner will be announced early next year.

Nicklaus Sharpens Up For U.S. Open

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus may be proof that practice makes for near-perfection, but he can't convince Gary Player.

Nicklaus, who practices with passion when he sets his sights on a major golf championship, has been preparing since last Wednesday for the U. S. Open which begins in two days.

He says he was "just truly amazed" that none of the other 149 Open qualifers joined him last week at the Merion golf club.

Player, however, thinks the extra practice time means nothing.

"Some of the best golf is shot by players on courses they've never even seen," he said. "You can come here for three weeks and practice and if you're not playing well, it doesn't matter. I think it's the most overrated thing to spend weeks practicing for a tournament."

Obviously, both Nicklaus and Player have been successful in their different approaches to preparing for big tournaments. Both are among the favorites in the field that will tee off Thursday.

Nicklaus, the top money winner on the PGA tour this year, says he is "just starting to learn" Merion after four practice rounds.

"I couldn't have been more amazed that nobody else was here last week. I don't understand it," Nicklaus said.

"This is not the type of golf course that you can walk in and play one round on and win. You have to learn the greens and how the wind goes and learn the places to play and the places not to play.

"Every golf course has got a bunch of little idiosyncracies and particularly an older style golf course like this one. When you're playing one of these courses it's a different game."

Player said he used to prepare like Nicklaus does but now agrees with Lee Trevino's theory that tournament competition is the best practice.

"Look at all the great scores every week in tournaments, when some players just come to the course the day before the tournament starts," Player said.

"If Jack figures he needs a whole week to get ready, then that's what he should do. The year I won the Open (1965), I did this, but I've since changed my whole opinion about practicing for a championship. The big thing is how you're playing at the moment."

Player is playing well. He already has won two tournaments this year and was a near-winner in the last two.

"We put too much pressure on ourselves," he said. "You have to reat this as just another tournament. Then I'm sure you'd be more relaxed and play better."

Trevino, like Player beaten in a playoff for the Kemper Open title Sunday in Charlotte, N.C., believes too much practice can detract from tournament readiness.

"If you're hitting bad iron shots, for example, the time to straighten it out is in competition," he said. "You can always hit good shots in practice. In competition, that's when you know how you're hitting."

OUT COLD — San Francisco Giants outfielder Frank Johnson lies unconscious after being hit in the face by a ball during fielding practice before last night's game in Philadelphia. He remained unconscious for 10 minutes and then was taken to a hospital for observation. He was in satisfactory condition this morning. (UPI Telephoto)

Very Depressing Setback For S.F.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — 'Tis June, the month for romance, the end of school and the San Francisco Giants collapse.

San Francisco continued its retreat back toward the pack in the National League West Monday night by absorbing a 9-4 walloping to Philadelphia.

Monday's defeat was extra depressing. Los Angeles managed only three hits at New York but still won to cut the once seemingly insurmountable Giant lead to five games.

For another thing, San Francisco got some bad news about superstar Willie McCovey and saw another player take a ball in the face.

It was announced that McCovey's arthritic knees would be x-rayed Thursday at which time a decision will be made whether surgery would be needed. If the answer is yes to that one, McCovey could be out most of the season.

Giants manager Charlie Fox said that while McCovey is out a "newcomer" would take over at first. "We've had our eye on him for a long time. He has the spirit, and looks like he can pop one once in a while when it's needed most. Oh yes, his name is Mays." Willie Mays has been filling in for McCovey on occasion this season and has handled the position well.

The Giants got another tough break when Frank Johnson was struck in the face by a thrown ball in pregame drills. The 29-year-old Johnson was unconscious for several minutes and then taken for an overnight hospital stay. But first reports from there were encouraging and he should be back in action in a day or two.

As for the game, San Francisco managed only six hits off Rick Wise while the Phils carved up Gaylord Perry for six runs in the second inning to break a 1-1 tie and wrap things up early.

That meant that Perry and Juan Marichal, assertedly the aces of the Giants staff, have started six games in June without picking up a victory.

The Giants send Ron Bryant (5-3) forth tonight to try to help the team revive from its June swoon. Barry Lersch (4-5) will toe the slab for the Phils.

ILLEGAL BONUSES

Cleveland Stars Have No Comment

CLEVELAND (UPI)—"The decision of the commissioner has been made and there is nothing we can do about it."

That was the only statement issued by Gabe Paul, president and treasurer of the Cleveland Indians, Monday night after the Cleveland club was notified that a fine of $5,000 was levied upon it by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for signing bonus contracts with Ken Harrelson, Sam McDowell, Graig Nettles and Vada Pinson.

"I have no feelings about the fine," said McDowell, who hurled his sixth straight victory Sunday against the Milwaukee Brewers. "I have no statement to make until I talk to my lawyers."

McDowell, whose contract was supposed to include a bonus clause for every victory over 20 games, could have made up to $100,000 with a good year.

Harrelson, who has been benched in favor of rookie Chris Chambliss, denied he had a bonus clause while Nettles, whose contract allegedly had a clause about reaching base during the year, said, "No comment."

"I have no comment on the situation," said Pinson, who was a holdout early in spring training. "We'll just wait and see what happens.

"I figure this would happen so it is not so shocking. I'm just going to sleep on it tonight and we'll see what happens tomorrow."

Kuhn indicated that Cleveland's arrangement with the four players was invalid because they were set forth in side letters rather than in the official contracts.

The commissioner also stated that instead of the bonuses the players were to get, each player would be entitled to receive from the club at the end of the season whatever additional salary American League President Joe Cronin felt each merited.

Houston And New Orleans Make Another Big Trade

HOUSTON (UPI) —The Houston Oilers Tuesday traded two players, including starting tackle Glen Ray Hines, and gave up two future draft choices Monday in exchange for defensive tackle Mike Tilleman of the New Orleans Saints.

It was the second major trade between the two clubs since the end of the 1970 season and was announced by Oiler General Manager John W. Breen. Earlier the Oilers traded two linemen and a running back plus their 1970 second round draft choice for wide receiver Ken Burrough and defensive tackle Dave Rowe.

Tilleman, a 6-6, 280 pounder, has started for the Saints the last four seasons and was named their most valuable player in 1970. Tilleman, acquired from Minnesota in 1966, will be paired with Rowe, 6-7, 280.

Hines was the Oilers second round future choice in 1965 and was on the AFL all-star squad in 1968 and 1969. New Orleans also received linebacker Jess Lewis and the Oilers' second round draft choice in 1972 and third round pick in 1973.

Broyles Leads Coaches' Golf

BELLA VISTA, Ark. (UPI)—Host Frank Broyles fired a four-over-par 76 Monday to take the lead at the midway point of the Football Coaches Invitational golf tournament.

Broyles' rival on the football field, Texas Coach Darrell Royal, was a shot back with a 77.

Chuck Fairbanks of Oklahoma fired a 78 and Doug Dickey of Florida and Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy shot 81s.

The final 18 holes of the 7th annual tournament was to be shot over the par 7-2 Bella Vista Country Club Course Tuesday.

Cal Angels Teammates Squabble; Gun Threat?

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—Controversial American League batting champion Alex Johnson of the California Angels accused teammate Chico Ruiz Monday of pulling a gun on him in the team's clubhouse.

The report was vehemently denied by Ruiz, who said he doesn't own a gun, or even a cap pistol, and would never have done such a thing.

The incident, as related by Johnson, took place Sunday during the ninth inning of a game with the Washington Senators. Both Ruiz and Johnson had been pinchhitters in the game and no longer were available for duty.

"He brought a gun to the clubhouse," Johnson told UPI. "He had been talking all year that he was going to bring a .38 to the park and kill me. You can take it from me, he threatened me with a gun. He's crazy."

Asked if he reported the incident, Johnson said he told a security officer and left.

Sgt. Jerry Lemar of the Anaheim police detail stationed at the park said no report had been made to his units of such an incident.

The incident was not reported to club officials, General Manager Dick Walsh said, adding he was investigating the report.

"That's the most ridiculous story I have ever heard," said Ruiz. "I don't own a gun, not even a cap pistol. I was in the dugout until the last out was made, not in the clubhouse."

Both Ruiz and Johnston came to the Angels from the Cincinnati Reds, and utility player Ruiz admitted he and Johnson had not been on good terms for more than a year. He said they had a fist fight last year but it was in the open and resulted from profanity Ruiz claimed Johnson directed at him.

"I've had words with him like everyone else," Ruiz said. "But I couldn't do a thing like that."

Johnson has been up for trade by the Angels in recent weeks because of his inability to get along with teammates and for a lack of hustle. For the past 10 days Johnson has been used only as a pinchhitter, despite having won the league batting championship last year.

Cubs' Pitcher In Hospital

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Cubs' pitcher Ferguson Jenkins was admitted to Wesley Memorial Hospital late Monday night suffering from fever, headache and a generalized malaise, a team spokesman said today.

Team physician Dr. Jacob Suker said, "Our impression is it is acute viral syndrome. He has been placed in isolation pending further tests."

Jenkins, currently leading Cubs' pitchers with a 10-6 won-lost record, is the second of the team's four starters to be sidelined with virus infections. Milt Pappas has been undergong treatment for a similar ailment for the past two weeks and it is uncertain when he will be able to play.

Suker said there is no indication of a connection between Pappas' and Jenkins' ailments.

Pittsburgh Bucs Sign Novatan Tommy Thomas

Tommy Thomas, former star third baseman for Novato High School, has been signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates, the National League team announced yesterday.

Thomas, currently a centerfielder in his senior year at Washington State College, signed for what the Pirates reported was a moderate bonus after they selected him in the secondary phase of the major league draft last Wednesday. That draft was for players who had been drafted before but remained unsigned. Thomas was previously drafted by the California Angels.

After graduating from Novato, Thomas played American Legion ball and one season at Menlo College before transferring to Washington State. He stands 6-foot-3, weighs 180 pounds, and hits and throws righthanded. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thomas III, live in Novato.

The Pirates have assigned Thomas to their Niagara Falls, N.Y. farm club in the New York - Pennsylvania League.

Yastrzemski Leads All-Star Balloting

NEW YORK (UPI)—Carl Yastrzemski, although still batting under .300, continues to lead all American League players in the balloting to determine the starting All-Star team.

The Boston Red Sox outfielder, three times a league batting champion and in 1967 winner of the Triple Crown, drew 156,279 of the 275,000 ballots cast thus far, according to the official figures announced by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The All-Star game will be played in Detroit July 13.

Three members of the world champion Baltimore Orioles are among the leaders for the eight positions to be determined in the voting by the fans. Boog Powell leads at first base with 105,788 votes, Brooks Robinson leads at third with 110,286 and Frank Robinson, with 72,191 votes, has the inside track for the third outfield berth.

USC Still Has Shot At Title

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Tulsa's Golden Hurricane has moved into the favorite position in the 25th annual College World Series by getting through the first three rounds of play without a defeat. Tulsa, Southern California, Southern Illinois and Pan American were still in the double-elimination tournament, but one of the four—and possibly two—were to be sent packing tonight.

The loser of the Southern Illinois-Pan Am game will be knocked out and Southern California's Trojans could be ousted by losing to Tulsa.

Tulsa, behind the stout pitching of Steve Rogers, who picked up his second series victory and his 12th of the year, battered Southern Illinois with a 14-hit attack in a 9-4 win Monday night. Among the hits was a first-inning, two-run shot over the wall by Jerry Tabb.

Southern California sent Brigham Young University (BYU) home when the Trojans clipped the Utah school, 8-6. USC is defending the title they won one year ago.

The Trojans appeared en route to a rather easy victory until BYU scored four times in the eight inning to get within two runs.

Tim Coffin, a reliefer, got the victory although cuffed for four runs during BYU's late-game rally. Coffin took over mound duties for starter Eric Raich in the 5th.

The most exciting game Monday was Pan Am's 1-0 defeat of Harvard. Harvard lefthander Roz Brayton, who hasn't pitched much this year, did not allow a hit through the first five innings. But consecutive doubles in the sixth by Bo McNurlen and Jesse Banda produced the one run needed for victory.

Rec Softball

Home runs by Frank Dittle and Rick Galessi provided MacArthur's with a 6-1 victory over Native Sons, and Ralph Boccabella ripped three hits to lead United Parcel Service to a 13-2 win over Gallagher and Sturiale yesterday in San Rafael adult softball league games at Albert Park.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Dodgers Creep Up On Giants

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The San Francisco Giants, who at one time looked like they'd wrap up the National League West Division by Memorial Day, now may find themselves knocked out of first place by Independence Day.

The Giants lost for the 10th time in their last 13 outings Monday night, taking a 9-4 pasting from the Philadelphia Phillies, while the runnerup Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the New York Mets, 3-2, for their fourth consecutive triumph and their 13th success in 17 games.

As a result, San Francisco's once majestic lead, which soared at one stage to 11 games, has been reduced to a shaky five and the Giants are scheduled to meet the Dodgers five times early next month prior to the All-Star game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who hold a 2 1-2-game edge over New York in the East Division, failed to take advantage of the Mets' loss, dropping a 5-4 decision to the Houston Astros. Elsewhere, the Cincinnati Reds routed the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-2, the San Diego Padres nipped the Montreal Expos, 2-1, and the Chicago Cubs tripped the Atlanta Braves, 3-2.

Bobby Valentine hit a two-run double in the fourth inning to give the Dodgers their winning run against the Mets. Valentine's hit was only the third one off loser Tom Seaver, and it was the last safety Los Angeles collected in the game. Willie Davis' first-inning homer accounted for the other Dodger run.

Jim Brewer retired all seven batters he faced in relief to provide Don Sutton with his fifth triumph against six losses.

Pittsburgh, after rallying for two runs in the top of the ninth onDave Cash's two-run single, to tie the score, had its four-game winning streak ended when reliever Dave Giusti walked Joe Morgan on four pitches with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth. Fred Gladding (3-1) gained the victory for Houston.

Lee May drove in four runs, two with a first-inning homer and two more with a ninth-inning double, to lead the Cincinnati attack against St. Louis. It was the seventh consecutive loss for the Cardinals and their 11th in 14 games.

BOWLING

Bourdase Winner At Fresno

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Hometown favorite Ed Bourdase continued his domination of the $37,000 Fresno Open Bowling Tournament until the very end.

The 42-year-old righthander took his second PBA tourney Monday night, after easily holding the lead he grabbed when the 24-game match play segment started Sunday evening.

In Monday's opening block, Bourdase took six games and opened up a lead of 233 pins. He lost his first two matches of the second session, but had things cinched when he took the final game against runnerup Dave Davis of Miami, Fla., by a 247-198 count.

Don Carter of Tarzana, bowling's all-time superstar, continued his strong comeback showing in his second tourney after being sidelined 15 months with a knee injury. He had a 300-game Sunday, won 14 of his games and averaged almost 218. He was rewarded $1,500.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Royals Continue Red Hot Streak

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ah, the Kansas City Royals, those "faceless wonders" of the American League West just keep on winning. But at least in their latest victory, they've taken on a familiar look.

Bob Oliver and Lou Piniella, last year's Kansas City hitting stars, returned to the lineup Monday night and led the Royals to a 4-1 triumph over the New York Yankees for their sixth straight victory and 12 in the last 13 games.

Oliver, benched six days for weak hitting by manager Bob Lemon, cracked a two-run single in a four-run sixth inning while Piniella, just off the disabled list after a broken thumb, collected two hits in four trips to the plate.

In other American League games Monday Detroit edged Chicago 4-3, Minnesota topped Cleveland 3-1, Boston outlasted California 4-3 in 15 innings and Milwaukee and Baltimore were rained out. Oakland and Washington were not scheduled.

Yankees' starter Mike Kekich had the Royals stopped on a three-hit shutout going into the sixth inning when he was kayoed by consecutive singles from Paul Schaal, Amos Otis and Chuck Harrison. Piniella then greeted reliever Gary Waslewski with a bunt single to load the bases and Otis scored while the other runners moved up as Waslewski uncorked a wild pitch while facing Oliver. Oliver then followed with a sharp single up the middle to score Harrison and Piniella.

"I won't know how to conduct myself when we lose," Lemon said of the streak, "but I've had enough experience in the past and it'll all come back to me."

Oliver, who drove in 99 runs for the Royals last year compared to only 15 so far this season was grateful for the chance to participate again.

"It felt good to do something right for a change," the Royal first baseman said. "It's been a long time since I contributed something."

"You can never give up on a guy who got you 99 rbi's," Lemon said of Oliver. "If we're going to do it this year, we're going to have to get help from both Oliver and Piniella."

Mike Hedlund went the distance for the Royals to pick up his sixth victory in nine decisions.

A's Buy Hegan; Host Washington

OAKLAND (UPI) —Win or lose, nobody can accuse Oakland A's boss Charlie Finley of standing pat.

As Oakland got ready for tonight's invasion of the Washington Senators, the A's Monday bought first baseman Mike Hegan from Milwaukee.

To make room for the southpaw Hegan, .221-hitting son of a fine major league catcher, Oakland shuffled much traveled Ramon Webster back to Iowa of the American Association.

Oakland has seen its lead over Kansas City cut to 4 1-2 in the American League West, but not because the A's are in any kind of slump. The trouble for Oakland is that runner-up Kansas City has taken 12 of 13.

Oakland will send unbeaten Chuck Dobson (4-0) out tonight at the Coliseum to do battle with the Senators. The A's were idle Monday while peskey Kansas City won again.

The Trojans appeared en route to a rather easy victory until BYU scored four times in the eight inning to get within two runs.

Tim Coffin, a reliefer, got the victory although cuffed for four runs during BYU's late-game rally. Coffin took over mound duties for starter Eric Raich in the 5th.

The most exciting game Monday was Pan Am's 1-0 defeat of Harvard. Harvard lefthander Roz Brayton, who hasn't pitched much this year, did not allow a hit through the first five innings. But consecutive doubles in the sixth by Bo McNurlen and Jesse Banda produced the one run needed for victory.

Home runs by Frank Dittle and Rick Galessi provided MacArthur's with a 6-1 victory over Native Sons, and Ralph Boccabella ripped three hits to lead United Parcel Service to a 13-2 win over Gallagher and Sturiale yesterday in San Rafael adult softball league games at Albert Park.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Dodgers Creep Up On Giants

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The San Francisco Giants, who at one time looked like they'd wrap up the National League West Division by Memorial Day, now may find themselves knocked out of first place by Independence Day.

The Giants lost for the 10th time in their last 13 outings Monday night, taking a 9-4 pasting from the Philadelphia Phillies, while the runnerup Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the New York Mets, 3-2, for their fourth consecutive triumph and their 13th success in 17 games.

As a result, San Francisco's once majestic lead, which soared at one stage to 11 games, has been reduced to a shaky five and the Giants are scheduled to meet the Dodgers five times early next month prior to the All-Star game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who hold a 2 1-2-game edge over New York in the East Division, failed to take advantage of the Mets' loss, dropping a 5-4 decision to the Houston Astros. Elsewhere, the Cincinnati Reds routed the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-2, the San Diego Padres nipped the Montreal Expos, 2-1, and the Chicago Cubs tripped the Atlanta Braves, 3-2.

Bobby Valentine hit a two-run double in the fourth inning to give the Dodgers their winning run against the Mets. Valentine's hit was only the third one off loser Tom Seaver, and it was the last safety Los Angeles collected in the game. Willie Davis' first-inning homer accounted for the other Dodger run.

Jim Brewer retired all seven batters he faced in relief to provide Don Sutton with his fifth triumph against six losses.

Pittsburgh, after rallying for two runs in the top of the ninth onDave Cash's two-run single, to tie the score, had its four-game winning streak ended when reliever Dave Giusti walked Joe Morgan on four pitches with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the ninth. Fred Gladding (3-1) gained the victory for Houston.

Lee May drove in four runs, two with a first-inning homer and two more with a ninth-inning double, to lead the Cincinnati attack against St. Louis. It was the seventh consecutive loss for the Cardinals and their 11th in 14 games.

BOWLING

Bourdase Winner At Fresno

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Hometown favorite Ed Bourdase continued his domination of the $37,000 Fresno Open Bowling Tournament until the very end.

The 42-year-old righthander took his second PBA tourney Monday night, after easily holding the lead he grabbed when the 24-game match play segment started Sunday evening.

In Monday's opening block, Bourdase took six games and opened up a lead of 233 pins. He lost his first two matches of the second session, but had things cinched when he took the final game against runnerup Dave Davis of Miami, Fla., by a 247-198 count.

Don Carter of Tarzana, bowling's all-time superstar, continued his strong comeback showing in his second tourney after being sidelined 15 months with a knee injury. He had a 300-game Sunday, won 14 of his games and averaged almost 218. He was rewarded $1,500.

Sudakis Placed Among Disabled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The Los Angeles Dodgers placed catcher Bill Sudakis on the 21-day disabled list Monday and recalled catcher Joe Ferguson from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

Sudakis injured his right knee June 6 in a home plate collision with New York catcher Duffy Dyer. Ferguson, 24, has hit 10 home runs for Spokane, including three in the past week.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Royals Continue Red Hot Streak

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ah, the Kansas City Royals, those "faceless wonders" of the American League West just keep on winning. But at least in their latest victory, they've taken on a familiar look.

Bob Oliver and Lou Piniella, last year's Kansas City hitting stars, returned to the lineup Monday night and led the Royals to a 4-1 triumph over the New York Yankees for their sixth straight victory and 12 in the last 13 games.

Oliver, benched six days for weak hitting by manager Bob Lemon, cracked a two-run single in a four-run sixth inning while Piniella, just off the disabled list after a broken thumb, collected two hits in four trips to the plate.

In other American League games Monday Detroit edged Chicago 4-3, Minnesota topped Cleveland 3-1, Boston outlasted California 4-3 in 15 innings and Milwaukee and Baltimore were rained out. Oakland and Washington were not scheduled.

Yankees' starter Mike Kekich had the Royals stopped on a three-hit shutout going into the sixth inning when he was kayoed by consecutive singles from Paul Schaal, Amos Otis and Chuck Harrison. Piniella then greeted reliever Gary Waslewski with a bunt single to load the bases and Otis scored while the other runners moved up as Waslewski uncorked a wild pitch while facing Oliver. Oliver then followed with a sharp single up the middle to score Harrison and Piniella.

"I won't know how to conduct myself when we lose," Lemon said of the streak, "but I've had enough experience in the past and it'll all come back to me."

Oliver, who drove in 99 runs for the Royals last year compared to only 15 so far this season was grateful for the chance to participate again.

"It felt good to do something right for a change," the Royal first baseman said. "It's been a long time since I contributed something."

"You can never give up on a guy who got you 99 rbi's," Lemon said of Oliver. "If we're going to do it this year, we're going to have to get help from both Oliver and Piniella."

Mike Hedlund went the distance for the Royals to pick up his sixth victory in nine decisions.

A's Buy Hegan; Host Washington

OAKLAND (UPI) —Win or lose, nobody can accuse Oakland A's boss Charlie Finley of standing pat.

As Oakland got ready for tonight's invasion of the Washington Senators, the A's Monday bought first baseman Mike Hegan from Milwaukee.

To make room for the southpaw Hegan, .221-hitting son of a fine major league catcher, Oakland shuffled much traveled Ramon Webster back to Iowa of the American Association.

Oakland has seen its lead over Kansas City cut to 4 1-2 in the American League West, but not because the A's are in any kind of slump. The trouble for Oakland is that runner-up Kansas City has taken 12 of 13.

Oakland will send unbeaten Chuck Dobson (4-0) out tonight at the Coliseum to do battle with the Senators. The A's were idle Monday while peskey Kansas City won again.

FISH AND GAME

The Stripers Arrive; Trollers Hit Jackpot

By AL GIDDINGS

The stripers arrived this past week in a hurry, showing up at The Brothers Islands, the Richmond Bridge, the South Tower and off the shore rocks near the Golden Gate Bridge. Trolling on the evening outgoing tide at The Brothers, and trolling the Richmond Bridge morning and evenings were the best methods used. Live bait will work both places.

Frank Sue of Corte Madera nailed his first big fish off one of the rocks near the "Gate," using a bugeye from shore. It weighed 28 pounds 11 ounces. That was on last Friday. He saw about 25 other fish taken. Some of the good anglers had a ball releasing big ones! Did you ever release a 25-pounder? I saw one of the Fire House boys of Point Reyes, Pete Valconesi, do that up on the Smith River. A beauty of a 25 pound salmon taken legally (not snagged) on a fly and he released it! I don't think he's caught a fish since! Oh, maybe a shad or two! Incidentally, he didn't recover the $100 outfit (rod and reel - the works!) lost on his last outing last week at the Yuba. The river is now dropping so fishing for shad should be good there this week. You might land Pete's outfit?

Back to the stripers. On Saturday I checked about 20 anglers around the "Gate" rocks. Only three fish logged. Two anglers using a rubber raft got in the rip going around Lime Point and almost swamped. The current is fast there on the outgoing. Watch it! In fact, watch all that rock fishing with its winds and swells; a 10 foot swell suddenly hitting you on a rock can be extremely dangerous.

Get this: At 7:30 A.M., there were 55 anglers (lots of kids) fishing off the Fort Baker pier for jack smelt. They float their lines by using a balloon which also moves the bait just under the surface. They were catching smelt two at a time, there's no limit on jacksmelt. The kids love the action! Ask the military police about parking, so you won't get a ticket for being parked in the wrong spot. No fishing license needed off the public pier, but a license is needed for those anglers fishing the beaches.

TROUT PLANTS are scheduled this week in Rodeo Lagoon, Bon Tempe, Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs. You might make Channel 4 television one day. They tell me that Ed Hart will be over for a T.V. story and pictures. It'll be midweek, if things go right!

THE SAUSALITO Boat and Tackle Shop says, "Now that summer vacation is beginning, we want to remind everyone that kids (16 and under) go for half price on the Saturday and Sunday rock fishing trips."

The salmon boats out of Sausalito have been plagued by winds but Saturday over Radio KSFO I heard Hank Schramm, the party boat skipper of the Salmon Queen, call in to say that the sea was fairly flat, some fog and that there were 18 fish in the box! One was estimated to go 30 pounds. On Sunday, at 10:30 A.M. he called again to say he had 11 fish in the box, fishing the Pacifica area. The sea was reported as flat!

ENGINEER — Joe Huffaker, president of Huffaker Automotive Engineering of San Rafael, has hot entry in races at Laguna Seca this weekend.

San Rafael Duo At Laguna Seca

Joe Huffaker, president of Huffaker Automotive Engineering of San Rafael, has been preparing MG's for sports car racing since the 1950s, and possibly knows more about the tuning of these popular cars for competition than any other man in the United States.

Jon Woodner, also of San Rafael, handles the driving chores for Huffaker's cars, and is presently way out ahead of the field in competition for the Northern California Division of the Sports Car Club of America (SCCA) championship with an MG Midget.

Huffaker and Woodner will combine their talents this weekend in an attempt to win the Olympia Sprints, a major steppingstone toward the National Championships in the fall, at the Laguna Seca Speedway near Monterey.

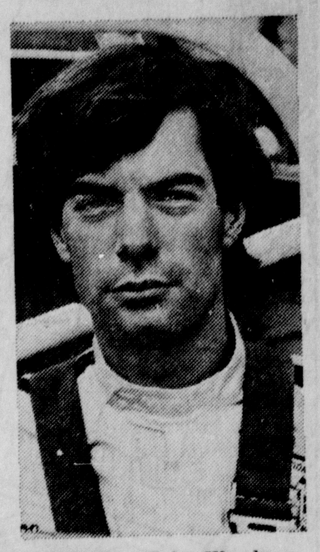
Woodner, in addition to driving the MG Midget, is attempting to take an unprecendented triple win by driving a Huffaker-prepared MGB and Formula car at Laguna Saturday, against some of the fastest competition from seven states.

Born in New York, Woodner moved to California to attend the University of California at Berkeley. Even before his college years, Woodner has had racing in his blood. He started on motorcycles, and in 1966 began racing sports cars in Cotati, mainly Alfa Romeos and Datsun factory cars. Since that time, Woodner has driven Classes A and B sedans, and all classes of Formula cars, including Huffaker's formula A machine which he'll be driving at Laguna this weekend.

The races this weekend should shape up to be a battle between Huffaker-Woodner, and two challengers from out of Northern California. The legendary organization "Group 44," from Falls Church, Va., is sending four drivers and cars, including an MGB and three Triumphs, to the Olympia Sprints. The quartet of drivers boasts nine national championships among them.

Both the Kastner-Brophy team and Group 44 are sponsored by British Leyleand motors of New Jersey.

Classes E and F Production cars will race Saturday, while the D and C cars go on Sunday. Practice sessions will be held Friday.



DRIVER — John Woodner of San Rafael will team up with auto racing builder Joe Huffaker in this weekend's Olympia Sprints at Laguna Seca.

FISH AND GAME

The Stripers Arrive; Trollers Hit Jackpot

By AL GIDDINGS

The stripers arrived this past week in a hurry, showing up at The Brothers Islands, the Richmond Bridge, the South Tower and off the shore rocks near the Golden Gate Bridge. Trolling on the evening outgoing tide at The Brothers, and trolling the Richmond Bridge morning and evenings were the best methods used. Live bait will work both places.

Frank Sue of Corte Madera nailed his first big fish off one of the rocks near the "Gate," using a bugeye from shore. It weighed 28 pounds 11 ounces. That was on last Friday. He saw about 25 other fish taken. Some of the good anglers had a ball releasing big ones! Did you ever release a 25-pounder? I saw one of the Fire House boys of Point Reyes, Pete Valconesi, do that up on the Smith River. A beauty of a 25 pound salmon taken legally (not snagged) on a fly and he released it! I don't think he's caught a fish since! Oh, maybe a shad or two! Incidentally, he didn't recover the $100 outfit (rod and reel - the works!) lost on his last outing last week at the Yuba. The river is now dropping so fishing for shad should be good there this week. You might land Pete's outfit?

Back to the stripers. On Saturday I checked about 20 anglers around the "Gate" rocks. Only three fish logged. Two anglers using a rubber raft got in the rip going around Lime Point and almost swamped. The current is fast there on the outgoing. Watch it! In fact, watch all that rock fishing with its winds and swells; a 10 foot swell suddenly hitting you on a rock can be extremely dangerous.

Get this: At 7:30 A.M., there were 55 anglers (lots of kids) fishing off the Fort Baker pier for jack smelt. They float their lines by using a balloon which also moves the bait just under the surface. They were catching smelt two at a time, there's no limit on jacksmelt. The kids love the action! Ask the military police about parking, so you won't get a ticket for being parked in the wrong spot. No fishing license needed off the public pier, but a license is needed for those anglers fishing the beaches.

TROUT PLANTS are scheduled this week in Rodeo Lagoon, Bon Tempe, Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs. You might make Channel 4 television one day. They tell me that Ed Hart will be over for a T.V. story and pictures. It'll be mid-week, if things go right!

THE SAUSALITO Boat and Tackle Shop says, "Now that summer vacation is beginning, we want to remind everyone that kids (16 and under) go for half price on the Saturday and Sunday rock fishing trips."

The salmon boats out of Sausalito have been plagued by winds but Saturday over Radio KSFO I heard Hank Schramm, the party boat skipper of the Salmon Queen, call in to say that the sea was fairly flat, some fog and that there were 18 fish in the box! One was estimated to go 30 pounds. On Sunday, at 10:30 A.M. he called again to say he had 11 fish in the box, fishing the Pacifica area. The sea was reported as flat!

ENGINEER — Joe Huffaker, president of Huffaker Automotive Engineering of San Rafael, has hot entry in races at Laguna Seca this weekend.

San Rafael Duo At Laguna Seca

Joe Huffaker, president of Huffaker Automotive Engineering of San Rafael, has been preparing MG's for sports car racing since the 1950s, and possibly knows more about the tuning of these popular cars for competition than any other man in the United States.

Jon Woodner, also of San Rafael, handles the driving chores for Huffaker's cars, and is presently way out ahead of the field in competition for the Northern California Division of the Sports Car Club of America (SCCA) championship with an MG Midget.

Huffaker and Woodner will combine their talents this weekend in an attempt to win the Olympia Sprints, a major steppingstone toward the National Championships in the fall, at the Laguna Seca Speedway near Monterey.

Woodner, in addition to driving the MG Midget, is attempting to take an unprecendented triple win by driving a Huffaker-prepared MGB and Formula car at Laguna Saturday, against some of the fastest competition from seven states.

Born in New York, Woodner moved to California to attend the University of California at Berkeley. Even before his college years, Woodner has had racing in his blood. He started on motorcycles, and in 1966 began racing sports cars in Cotati, mainly Alfa Romeos and Datsun factory cars. Since that time, Woodner has driven Classes A and B sedans, and all classes of Formula cars, including Huffaker's formula A machine which he'll be driving at Laguna this weekend.

The races this weekend should shape up to be a battle between Huffaker-Woodner, and two challengers from out of Northern California. The legendary organization "Group 44," from Falls Church, Va., is sending four drivers and cars, including an MGB and three Triumphs, to the Olympia Sprints. The quartet of drivers boasts nine national championships among them.

Both the Kastner-Brophy team and Group 44 are sponsored by British Leyleand motors of New Jersey.

Classes E and F Production cars will race Saturday, while the D and C cars go on Sunday. Practice sessions will be held Friday.

DRIVER — John Woodner of San Rafael will team up with auto racing builder Joe Huffaker in this weekend's Olympia Sprints at Laguna Seca.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

American sculpter Malvina Hoffman was born June 15, 1887.

On this day in history:

In 1752 Benjamin Franklin demonstrated the relationship between electricity and lightning by launching a kite during a storm in Philadelphia with an iron key suspended from the string.

In 1904 the excursion steamboat "General Slocum" burst into flames on the East River in Manhattan, taking the lives of 1,021 persons.

In 1963 Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky orbited the earth 81 times.

$100,000 Estimate On Capitol Repairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Capitol architect George M. White says the cost of reparing damage to the Capitol from the March 1 bombing probably will be $100,000—about half the original estimates.

White said actual outlays through Saturday were about $70,000 with further costs expected to be an estimated $30,000 more. In a letter to Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va.

Sequence of Honors Is Not Always The Best Of Leads

When it's up to you to make the opening lead, the chances are that you look for a sequence of honors. If you have a suit headed by K-Q-J, Q-J-10 or J-10-9, you look no further. You lead your top honor, sit back, and reflect that you have done all that mortal man can do. That's what West thought in today's hand.

SO LITTLE

West led the jack of diamonds and was pleased when dummy's queen was covered by the king. It takes so little to please some bridge players.

South won with the ace of diamonds and led a spade to force out the ace. East returned a trump, but it was too late. West could take the ace of hearts and lead another heart, but this left two trumps in the dummy.

Declarer won the second round of trumps, ruffed a spade in the dummy, got to his hand with the king of clubs and ruffed another spade in dummy. He returned with the ace of clubs to draw the missing trump and could then cash the king of spades and the last spade. He made his game contract, losing one spade, one heart and one diamond.

DELICATE CHOICE

Dummy's bidding indicated no enthusiasm for spades but considerable help for hearts. West should expect dummy to show up with a singleton spade and four hearts.

West should therefore open a trump in the hope of reducing dummy's ruffing power. West's only problem, a delicate choice, is whether to open the ace and then lead another heart or whether to lead a low heart to start with.

BEST CHANCE

West's best chance is to get three trumps out of the dummy, and he can do this only by opening a low trump. South wins and leads a spade to East's ace. East returns his remaining trump, and West takes the ace of hearts and leads a third heart. This limits dummy to one ruffing trick.

West gets a trick with the jack of spades, and declarer must still lose to two aces and to a high diamond.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ A 6 3

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three no-trump.

Your own nine points, added to partner's, tell you that the combined count is 25 to 27 points. This should be enough for game, particularly with the ten and nine of clubs to help develop tricks in that suit.

SO LITTLE

West led the jack of diamonds and was pleased when dummy's queen was covered by the king. It takes so little to please some bridge players.

South won with the ace of diamonds and led a spade to force out the ace. East returned a trump, but it was too late. West could take the ace of hearts and lead another heart, but this left two trumps in the dummy.

Declarer won the second round of trumps, ruffed a spade in the dummy, got to his hand with the king of clubs and ruffed another spade in dummy. He returned with the ace of clubs to draw the missing trump and could then cash the king of spades and the last spade. He made his game contract, losing one spade, one heart and one diamond.

DELICATE CHOICE

Dummy's bidding indicated no enthusiasm for spades but considerable help for hearts. West should expect dummy to show up with a singleton spade and four hearts.

West should therefore open a trump in the hope of reducing dummy's ruffing power. West's only problem, a delicate choice, is whether to open the ace and then lead another heart or whether to lead a low heart to start with.

BEST CHANCE

West's best chance is to get three trumps out of the dummy, and he can do this only by opening a low trump. South wins and leads a spade to East's ace. East returns his remaining trump, and West takes the ace of hearts and leads a third heart. This limits dummy to one ruffing trick.

West gets a trick with the jack of spades, and declarer must still lose to two aces and to a high diamond.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ A 6 3
♥ 5 2
♦ K 8 7 3
♣ Q 10 9 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three no-trump.

Your own nine points, added to partner's, tell you that the combined count is 25 to 27 points. This should be enough for game, particularly with the ten and nine of clubs to help develop tricks in that suit.

Michael Fogarty On Dean's List

In the list of students making the dean's list at the University of California at Santa Barbara, the Independent-Journal on Thursday omitted the name of Michael Thomas Fogarty of Greenbrae.

Interest Up On Government Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Interest rates on the government's short-term borrowing increased Monday to the highest point in more than six months in the regular weekly auction of treasury bills.

The average yield to investors on $2.1 billion of 91-day maturity bills was 4.989 per cent, up from last week's 4.510 per cent.

Moderate Turnover In Market

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were lower on moderate turnover near noon today.

The general feeling was that the market is reacting to expectations that a prime rate hike, announced Monday by a major Philadelphia bank, will soon spread. Oe Wall Street analyst, however, said he believed "the whole market action is technical."

Prices also backtracked on moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange. Losers topped winners by around 200 issues.

On the Big Board, most leading stock groups, including motors, steels, chemicals, rails, airlines, aircrafts and electronics, traded in narrowly irregular fashion.

Among the day's most active issues were United Utilities unchanged, Plessey also unchanged, Kentucky Fried Chicken down 3-8, and Marcor off 5-8.

Some bright spots, however, included Bausch & Lomb up around 3 1-8, Xerox 2, and IBM, American Research, Loews Corp. and Flying Tiger up around a point apiece.

Moderate Turnover In Market

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were lower on moderate turnover near noon today.

Among the day's most active issues were United Utilities unchanged, Plessey also unchanged, Kentucky Fried Chicken down 3-8, and Marcor off 5-8.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Carnation Firm's Record Enviable

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am interested in starting an investment program with security and long-term growth as goals. What stock would you suggest as a starter? — M.G.

A. Carnation Company, a conservative growth issue, would be an excellent starter for your portfolio. Shares, which trade on the A.S.E., have recently been split on a 3-for-2 basis. The dividend increase to an annual rate of $1.20 on the split shares, marks the 16th raise in as many years. In addition, small stock dividends were quite regularly distributed through the mid-1960s. Since 1965, three splits have been effected.

With the exception of 1963, sales have moved up annually and in 1970 passed the billion dollar mark. The sixteen year record for earnings has been one of uninterrupted growth, which in the last five years has been at a compound annual rate of 13.6 per cent. In the first quarter of the current year earnings gained 11 per cent to $1.04 a share on a 7.5 per cent gain in sales.

Financial position at the 1970 year end was strong; current assets were 2.45x current liabilities. Of the 11.6 million shares now outstanding, more than 50 per cent are owned by Honorary Chairman Stuart and family. In addition 55 institutional investors hold shares.

The Carnation name, has long been synonomous with evaporated milk. Although Carnation increased its share of this market in 1970, evaporated milk sales in the U.S. contribute only about 15 per cent to total volume and a lesser proportion of company earnings. International operations contribute about one-third of sales and income.

Rapid expansion of the more generously margined convenience and pet food lines as well as institutional feeding services have more than offset declines in fresh dairy product sales and profits. Carnation's can manufacturing operations not only supply virtually all the company's requirements but some 40 per cent of output is sold to others.

Shares, now in the low 80s, are trading at about 20x estimated 1971 earnings of $4.20 a share.

WARDS RIVERSIDE PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees Riverside passenger car tires (to the original purchaser) against (1) defects in material and workmanship and (2) road hazards as follows:

If the tire fails due to such defects, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire FREE during the first 20% of original tread life, and for a prorated charge based on tread wear received during the remainder of the tread life. If the tire fails due to road hazards (excluding repairable punctures) during the original tread life, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge based on tread wear received.

Prorated charge is based on the regular exchange price in effect at the retail store at which returned or the current catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case including F.E.T. Original tread life is to the top of the tread wear indicator.

For service under this guarantee return tire with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current regular price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven
40 month	$10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

A ruptured water oain on the Miracle Mile in San Rafael cools down eastbound traffic on Fourth Street. The break, which occurred at about 10:45 a.m. today set passing motorists fumbling in the downpour to turn on windshield wipers and roll up open windows. The cooling reprieve from today's 80-degree San Rafael temperatures lasted about half an hour. The oain was broken by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph workmen who hit the line while drilling a man hole. Other summery and rising temperatures reported in Marin at 11 a.m. were Novato, 86; San Anselmo, 81; Woodacre, 84; Mill Valley, 79 and Sausalito, 72 degrees.

Rogers Sees Report On Vietnam Serious

Says Publication Casts Some Confidence Doubts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today that publication by the New York Times of secret Johnson administration documents on Vietnam was a "very serious matter." He said it caused foreign countries to question whether they could safely deal with the United States on a confidential basis.

Rogers, attorney general during the latter part of the Eisenhower administration, said the publication was a clear violation of the law, "which provides that top secret and secret documents should not become public until they have been declassified."

Rogers told a news conference he did not think the disclosure of the information would have any effect on Hanoi, but added that publication of the hitherto secret papers "is going to cause such a great deal of trouble."

He explained that the State Department already had "many queries from other governments" as to how they could still deal with the United States with some assurance that confidential matters would not be disclosed.

Rogers said that so far as the substance of the information disclosed was concerned, "I believe we should reserve our judgment," particularly when those who prepared the Pentagon memorandum acknowledge that "they did not have all the information" available.

Rogers said specifically that the analysts, who offered "a good deal of narration," worked from documents available in the Pentagon and "they did not have the White House documents ... these are selected documents."

In view of all this, he said, "I am not going to get involved in passing judgment on those events."

The secretary rejected the suggestion that his attitude on the documents was contrary to the right of the public to know what its government is doing.

"The public is entitled to know a good deal," he said, "but we have laws that are designed to protect the interests of the United States."

On other matters, Rogers said:

—Hanoi is using American prisoners of war "for ransom purposes" and to play on the emotions of relatives of the unfortunate men. While expressing sympathy for the prisoners and their families, Rogers said, "We can't abandon our national objectives in order to pay ransom."

—The nation during the fiscal year ending June 30 will have spent approximately $350 million on the war in Laos, exclusive of the cost of bombing attacks by U.S. aircraft based outside that country. While this figure has not been made public before, Congressmen were well aware of individual cost items which added up to that figure.

—Public opinion polls showing that the American people don't trust the government with respect to Indochina reflect factors for which the Nixon administration is not responsible. There is a widespread "feeling of frustration" and an inclination on the part of the public to feel it has been "misled in the past."

A Copy Of Document Uncovered

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration finally has found a copy of the secret Pentagon study made during the Johnson administration, covering the history of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The State Department said it discovered the 40-volume work Monday afternoon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers was promptly given access to it.

Existence of the report was disclosed Sunday by The New York Times but the White House and other offices of the Nixon administration claimed they had never heard of it.

Among other things, the report said the Johnson administration had decided before the 1964 election to launch large-scale bombing raids on North Vietnam. The actual attacks began early in 1965 as the war started to escalate.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., President Lyndon B. Johnson's opponent in the 1964 election, said the report was no surprise to him since he heard about the buildup of the war about 10 days before the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

"See, I was being called trigger happy, war monger, bomb happy and all the time Johnson was saying he'd never send American boys and I knew damn well he would," Goldwater told UPI Monday.

Goldwater said he came to know of the war's escalation from a telephone call from a commander who told him "that he had received shipping orders and his men were to be properly equipped to go overseas and he wanted me to know about it." He said he did not disclose the information since he felt bound by an oath to "respect secrecy" and he doubted anyone would believe him anyway.

On Aug. 29, 1964, Johnson said:

"I have had advice to load our planes with bombs and to drop them on certain areas that I think would enlarge the war and escalate the war and result in our committing a good many American boys to fighting a war that I think ought to be fought by the boys of Asia to help protect their own land."

Mitchell Seeking Times Injunction

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Attorney General John N. Mitchell said today the Justine Department will seek an injunction later in the day to stop the New York Times from publishing top secret documents because this could "result in irreparable injury to the national defense."

Mitchell said the Department will seek a temporary restraining order to block publication of the Defense Department study of the Vietnam War pending a hearing on the request for an injunction. The action will be filed in U.S. District Court in New York City.

Mitchell made the announcement in a news release which said an affidavit, attached to the complaint, stated that publication of excerpts from the Vietnam study "has prejudiced the defense interests of the United States" and that publication of additional excerpts would further prejudice U.S. interests "and result in irreparable injury to the national defense."

The affidavit was signed by Fred Buzhardt, general council of the Defense Department.

The complaint charges that the newspaper and a long series of its officials and reporters obtained "without lawful authority and at a time and place and in a manner unknown" to the government certain documents consisting of 47 volumes entitled "History of U.S. Decision Making Process on Vietnam Policy."

In addition, the newspeper anquired a copy of "one volume Command and Control Study of the Gulf of Tonkin incident," the complaint said. All the material is labeled top secret.

In a front page story in today's edition, the Times said it would not voluntarily halt pubcation, "believing that it is in the interest of this country to be informed of the material contained in this series of articles."

Earlier, Mitchell had asked the Times in a telegram to halt the publications, saying this was directly prohibited by provisions of the Espionage Act.

Named defendants in addition to The New York Times Company in today's injunction were: Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, resident and publisher; executive vice presidents Harding F. Bancroft and Ivan Veit; vice presidents Francis A. Cox, James C. Goodale, Sidney Gruson, Walter Mattson, John McCabe, John Mortimer and James Reston.

Also, John B. Oakes, editorial page director; A. M. Rosenthal, managing editor; Daniel Schwarz, Sunday editor; Clifton Daniel and Tom Wicker, associate editors, and reporters Neil Sheehan, Hedrick Smith, E. W. Kenworthy, Fox Butterfield, and foreign desk editors Gerald Gold, Allan M. Siegal and Samuel Apt.

The department said that according to Executive Order 10501, "top secret information is that material of which the defense aspect is paramount and the unauthorized disclosure of which could result in exceptionally grave damage to the nation such as leading to a definite break in diplomatic relations affecting the defense of the United States, an armed attack against the United States or its allies, a war, or the compromise of military or defense plans, or intelligence operations."

It was the second time that the Nixon administration has tried to stop a newspaper from publishing documents. Mitchell attempted unsuccessfully to get the Times, the Washington Post and other papers to refrain from publishing approximatety 1,000 documents stolen from the FBI office at Media, Pa. No injunction or other court action was taken, however.

The action against the Times

Report On Health Merger Accepted

Marin County Supervisors today accepted a report recommending merger of all county health services into a single department. The board agreed to talk about the merger's mechanics and budgeting at budget hearings Monday.

Supervisors questioned what would happen if one of the officials involved — the county medical director who also is coroner — should not win reelection as coroner. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney was asked to provide advice, after County Administrator Alan Bruce said he thought the supervisors could make the coroner office appointive.

The merger report submitted by the executive board and a task force of the Marin County Comprehensive Health Planning Council, calls for combining functions now provided by County Medical Director Donovan O. Cooke, Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht, Mental Health Program Chief John S. Guerrant and County Service Officer James V. Burdick. The single department's head would be the medical director, with the other three officials serving as lieutenants each responsible for a segment.

The question still unsettled by the task force is whether as chief of the community health segment of the new department, Dr. Albrecht would retain administrative responsibility or could act "as a professional, like a doctor calling on a hospital's staff for services," according to spokesman James F. Reed.

Reed was chairman of the health council's task force that drafted the merger plan. He said today the committee wants more time to prepare recommendations on "the box below the health officer in the organization chart."

Reed urged the task force plan's adoption as a "highly flexible structure" but warned that if administrative problems occurred "you may have to go for a more rigidly structured organization."

New Presidential Car Being Built

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Secret Service has announced that Ford Motor Co. is building a new $200,000 armor-plated, bulletproof presidential limousine to replace the one in which President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

The White House has a continuing program under which it gets one new limousine every four years and keeps the car for eight years. The last car went to President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968 and it will remain in service until 1976.

Rioting In Albuquerque, Much Arson

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Youthful militants smashed storefront windows, overturned cars and hurled rocks and flaming bottles at National Guard troops Monday in the city's second day of civil strife.

Scattered fires were set early today but the National Guard ended its patrol of the city's streets before dawn.

"Everything has been pretty quiet since about 3 a.m.," Police Lt. Frank Becerra said. Until then, there had been "a small fire here and a small fire there — nothing serious."

Fire officials said 61 fires were set in the city since the trouble began Sunday evening. Police said 46 persons have been injured, including 13 hit by gunfire.

Some sniper fire was directed toward National Guard troops Monday when guardsmen dispersed a crowd of jeering, rock-throwing youths from two city parks. No one was hit by the gunfire.

The outbreak was less extensive than the previous day when 1,500 whites, blacks and Mexican-Americans marched on police headquarters demanding the release of minors arrested for drinking in a crowded city park. The demonstrators also charged police brutality.

The second day's trouble began after Lt. Gov. Robert Mondragon tried to talk to the militants.

"I know we have police brutality in Albuquerque," Mondragon told 400 militants assembled at Roosevelt Park. "Police brutality is not alleged —it is factual."

Mondragon, Gov. Bruce King and Attorney General David Norvell met with Mexican-American militants known as the Black Berets and the League of United Latin American Citizens to discuss the possible involvement of "outside elements" in the disturbances.

Mondragon also told the

Angela Denied Bail; Proceedings Halted

By MARY LEYDECKER

A visiting judge in Marin Superior Court today refused to release Angela Davis on bail, saying that she was not legally eligible for bail on the three capital charges she faces.

Although Miss Davis came into court at the Hall of Justice full of smiles and wearing a new print dress, she received the news from Judge Richard E. Arnason without a trace of emotion.

The judge repeatedly said that if he had found Miss Davis legally eligible for bail, he would have followed a probation officer's suggestion and set bail at $100,000.

The judge's legal reference was apparently to a section of the California Penal Code which says that a person charged with a capital offense may not be released on bail "when the proof of his guilt is evident or the presumption of it great."

One of Miss Davis's attorney's Alan Brotsky, said after court "that's what he was ruling on but he didn't have the guts to say so."

Miss Davis, who has been held in Marin County Jail since last December, is charged along with San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out last August at the Civic Center.

Her chief attorney Howard Moore Jr. said after court today that the judge's bail denial was indication to him that the judge would not dismiss the indictment against her for lack of evidence.

The bail denial brought shouts of "Free Angela" and "Power to the People" from Miss Davis's supporters in the courtroom and one cry of "the people want to know what the legal issue is."

Judge Arnason, a Contra Costa County jurist, said that he had done a "great deal of soul-searching" before making his decision.

"As I understand the law, the defendant is not eligible for bail," he said. "If I had found her eligible, based upon her background and the probation officer's report, I would have granted bail."

Chief Deputy Probation Officer James B. Soetaert had reported that he did not think Miss Davis would flee if released on bail. "There is in my estimation, a commitment on Miss Davis's part to her family, attorneys and supporters..." he said.

"She is looked upon by a great number of people in this country as a leader for social reforms," Soetaert said, adding that any flight would be a "great disappointment to her family, supporters and attorneys."

He also said in the report that a Marin attorney who lives a few minutes' drive from the Civic Center had offered her a home if she had been freed on bail.

The denial of bail left Miss Davis today in jail with a case still bogged down by her codefendant's legal maneuvers.

The judge ruled today that he will not hear anything further in the case until either a federal court or a higher state court settles the issues of Magee's

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Narrow Victory

ROME (UPI) —A strong swing to the right by Italian voters touched off noisy neo-Fascist celebrations today and rocked a government already beset by dissensions, violence and economic trouble.

The neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI) scored surging advances in Sicily, Rome and other places Monday in regional, provincial and city elections involving seven million voters, one-fifth of the Italian electorate.

Premier Emilio Colombo's center-left coalition narrowly retained control of all major administrations involved. But margins in some places were dangerously slim.

Heavy losses by Colombo's own Christian Democrats and gains by their smaller coalition partners—Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans—added to animosities already rampant in the half-hearted government alliance.

Housing Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration, in a new refinement of its announced policy against forcing economic integration in the nation's suburbs, has decided that communities which exclude the poor will have to pay for the privilege.

George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), said Monday communities which have neither low cost housing nor firm plans for providing it will be turned down if they ask for federal money to help pay for urban renewal, sewer and water or other community development projects.

Bishop Resigns; Hits Dogma

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The auxiliary bishop of Providence has chosen to leave a Roman Catholic hierarchy whose structure, he feels, has not changed since the Council of Trent in the 16th Century.

Kelly

Most Rev. Bernard M. Kelly submitted his resignation Monday and said it would take effect immediately. He is the second bishop to have resigned recently and is believed the highest ranking prelate in America to have left the active ministry.

Kelly was asked at a news conference about probability of his getting married. He replied that he "had no plans to do so at the present time" but that the "possibility" existed in the future.

He said his resignation was due primarily to "an abiding sense of frustration" resulting from his inability to comprehend or conform to attitudes and policies of the U.S. hierarchy which, he said, continued to abide by the policies of the Council of Trent.

The Council of Trent which lasted for 18 years established Catholic policy on matters of faith, morals, divine law and inner church problems such as clerical discipline.

Missouri Joins

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Missouri's approval of the proposed constitutional amendment to give 18 year olds the right to vote in all elections brings to 33 the number of states ratifying.

It could be the last such ratification this year.

The amendment needs approval by 38 states to become part of the Constitution. There still is a possibility three more states could approve the proposal this year, but that was not certain. Approval some time in 1972, however, is regarded as a certainty.

The Supreme Court already has affirmed the 18-year-old voting age in federal elections, and the amendment is designed to extend that to state and local contests.

In both Illinois and Wisconsin the state senate has passed on the matter and it awaits House action.

In Ohio, the Senate Elections Committee has approved ratification and the matter is now before the Rules Comittee which likely will schedule it for floor action soon.

Switch Costly

DANANG, Vietnam (UPI)—A 21-year-old soldier was busted to private and fined $146 Monday for letting his civilian brother come to Vietnam in his place.

An Army spokesman said Glenn Storer of Yarmouth, Maine, was busted from Spec. 4 in administrative punishment meted out by his unit, the 196th Brigade of the Americal Division.

The spokesman said Storer will pay the fine in two monthly installments of $73.

Asks Rate Agency

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rep. Wright Patman, a longtime opponent of banking interests, called Monday for a new federal agency that would regulate interest rates.

Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee, told a seminar here that banking agencies operated under some "of the worst regulations that the nation has ever seen."

The Texas Democrat said the federal authority he proposed "should not only absorb the regulatory functions of three current banking agencies, but also those of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which has jurisdiction over savings and loan associations."

He recommended that the agency operate under the President in the interest of consumers.

Dies Penniless

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Jean Lussier, a one-time circus stunt man who risked his life 43 years ago for "fame and fortune" by plunging over the Horseshoe Falls in a rubber ball and emerging with only a scratch, died here Monday.

He was nearly penniless.

Lussier, 79, suffered a heart attack Sunday at his apartment in the Spallino Towers, one and a half miles away from the falls, where he made history July 4, 1928.

Thinking Process Vs. Drug Culture

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Students attempting to resume college after a "dropout" period are finding it "difficult if not impossible" because of the effects of marijuana and drugs, reports the chief psychiatrist at the University of California in Berkeley.

Testifying before the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, Dr. D. Harvey Powelson said Monday even after a year of rehabilitation, the student who has come back from the drug scene "finds that he cannot think clearly and that, in ways he finds difficult to describe, his thinking has changed."

Powelson said that for such persons to study or do almost anything "requires a gigantic effort" because they have "lost their will some place." place."

"The irony here is that they have now achieved the freedom from compulsion which they sought—they need an external director. They are ripe for a demagogue," Powelson said.

Several other witnesses before the federal commission testified the most harmful thing about marijuana is that it is illegal.

Dr. David Smith, director of the Haight-Ashbury Clinic, said marijuna "has a lower potential for chronic abuse than does alcohol." He said one in 20 alcohol users abuses it, but only one in 100 marijuana users is an abuser.

Smith said that many of the 100,00 drug users visiting the Haight-Ashbury during the past four years also had psychological problems, But he said "rarely in our experience is marijuana the cause of such psychopathology.",

He said, in fact, marijuana sometimes helped straighten out mixed up youngsters. He cited a 15-year-old boy who was hostile and had an "identity" problem until he became a marijuana user, found a place in the drug subculture of his high school, and began doing better in class.

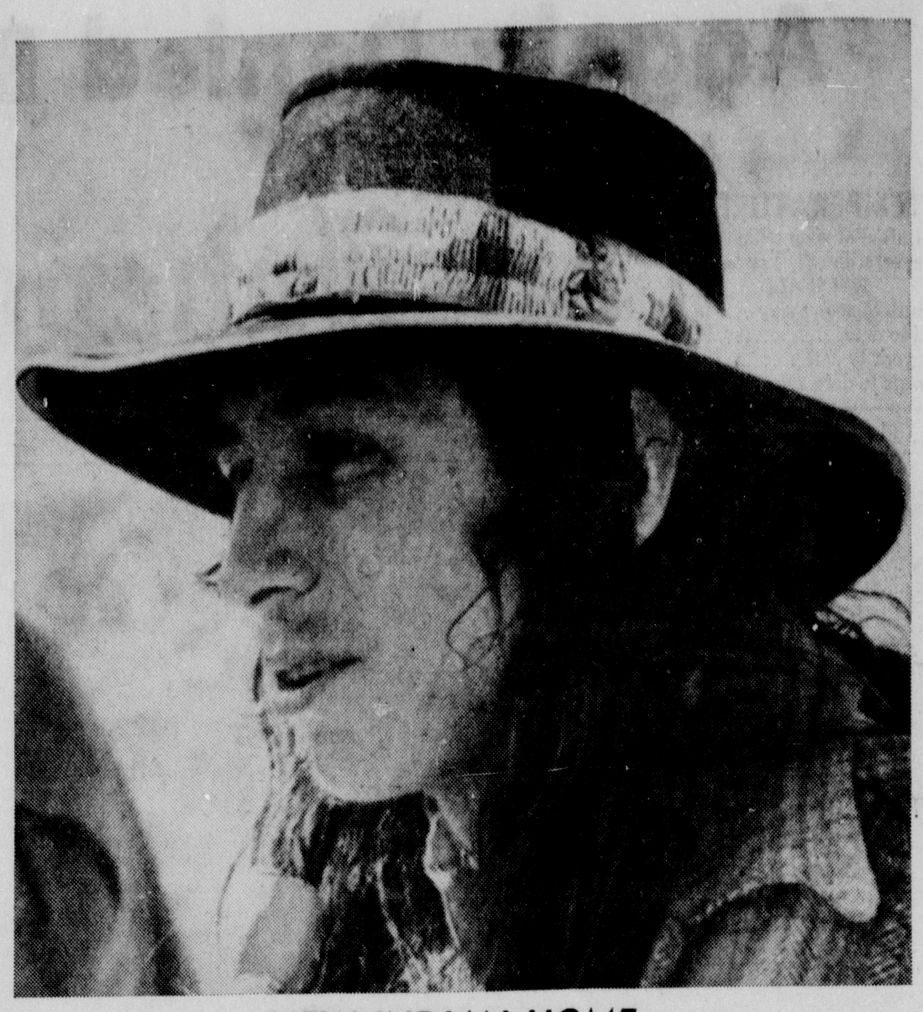
Dr. Joel Fort, who heads a special problems center in San Francisco, scolded the commission for "making a major event out of the discussion of marijuana—while the world burns." He said there were "far more important things" to be studying.

"Why is it that so many people cannot go to a wedding or any social event without drugs, legal or illegal?" Forte asked.

"Many parents are concerned about their children's drugs use and many children are concerned about their parents' drug use," said Forte. The answers cannot be found by dwelling on drugs but by getting at "the roots of alienation and discontent" in the nation, he said.

Forte advocated "decriminalization" of the private use of marijuana, "legalization of treatment" for heroin addicts, and a ban on "all advertisement and promotion of drugs such as alcohol and tobacco" because it has "institutionalized the drug-ridden society."

The 13-member commission was set up by Congress last year to make a study of marijuana and drugs. It held an earlier hearing in Washington and will hold further sessions in Chicago later this year, as well as visiting a number of college campuses.,



NEW INDIAN HOME

John Trudell, leader of a party of some 50 Indians who are now occupying an 87-acre abandoned Nike missile site about five miles east of Richmond, sits in the sun at the site. The occupation came yesterday, three days after the Indians were ousted from their Alcatraz Island occupation by the government. Trudell and his followers walked up to the base early yesterday and told two surprised private security guards, "we're taking over." No immediate action has been taken against the intruders, officials have announced.

Clifford Audience Slated On Viet Prisoner Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Nixon administration, despite its initial remarks discounting Clark Clifford's plan for securing the release of American prisoners of war, has decided to discuss the matter with the former defense secretary —just in case.

The decision, according to informed sources, stems from belated recognition that the administration by simply dismissing Clifford's plan out of hand was leaving itself open to charges that it had failed to explore every possibility of securing the release of U.S. servicemen held by Hanoi and the Viet Cong.

Administration officials disclosed that Deputy Assistant Secretary of State William Sullivan late last week had two telephone talks with Clifford. They said a meeting between Clifford and Sullivan, who currently is the State Department's resident expert on Vietnam, has been set for Wednesday. Other officials may attend.

Clifford last Tuesday said he had "reason to believe" that if the United States would announce it was withdrawing all U.S. military personnel from Vietnam by Dec. 31, the Communists would release all American prisoners of war within 30 days of such an announcement.

Two Southern Senate Hawks Switch On Viet Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Two southerners, both long-time backers of the U.S. effort in Vietnam, reversed their positions today and called for total U.S. withdrawal from the war.

Sens. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., and B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., issued unequivocal calls for the withdrawal of all American forces.

Jordan said Monday he would vote for the Vietnam Disengagement Act tomorrow. The legislation would require an end to U.S. combat in Indochina by Dec. 31.

Talmadge said he could not vote for the measure on constitutional grounds. But, in a speech prepared for delivery today, he denounced the war as a drain on U.S. manpower and resources and implored President Nixon "from the floor of this Senate to negotiate a release of our prisoners and announce a policy of complete and total disengagement to begin now, and to terminate one year from today."

"The American people," Talmadge said, "are weary to the bone and fed up with this ill-conceived conflict. It has placed a dangerous drain on a precious reservoir which we once thought bottomless —the unity of spirit and purpose which has made this nation great.

Jordan said he would vote for the antiwar measure, which he opposed last year, because it was obvious that a negotiated settlement was nowhere near.

"The war has drained away our national strength in every conceivable way," he said.

How to get the most from your life insurance

It's a three step suggestion and, as it should, it starts with you. When you purchased life insurance, you no doubt had in mind definite jobs for it to do for your family if you die; for you if you live. But time brings many changes . . . and it makes good sense for you to review your objectives and to check whether your life insurance currently meets them.

There are two other people who can help. The first is your wife. Your life insurance is designed for her and the family and it's wise to have her know your plans. The more she understands your objectives, the more she will be able to help you keep them up-to-date, and the better she'll be able to use this priceless protection that is being paid for through her careful budgeting.

The second is the Man from Manufacturers. Through him, the flexibility of your policies will come to life. His experienced, practical recommendations add up to an invaluable source of service for you now and for your family later.

Tanker Skippers Suspended For Oil Spill Crash

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The skippers involved in the Jan. 18 collision of two oil tankers which spilled 800,000 gallons of oil in San Francisco bay both have had their licenses suspended.

Capt. Harry H. Parnell, 46, of the inbound Arizona, Monday was handed a one-month's suspension of his masters license. The Coast Guard lifted the license of Capt. Morris E. English, 59, for three months.

Thousands of birds perished from the thick oil which was swept onto shorelines as far as 50 miles north and south of the Golden Gate.

The vessels collided just west of the bridge in a dense fog. The ships were locked together until they anchored near Angel Island, where most of the oil escaped from the Oregon Standard.

Testimony at the Coast Guard investigation indicated both ships were out of their normal lanes.

Ex-Inmate Escapes Quentin Time Again

Tommy Lee Walker, 26, who spent most of the last 10 years behind bars, escaped being returned to prison yesterday.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court placed Walker — who pleaded guilty in April to a charge of battery against a prison guard — on probation for three years and sentenced him to six months in Marin County Jail.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman had urged a prison sentence for Walker, who was released from San Quentin in November.

Judge McGuire's decision brought smiles and even tears from a few of a crowd of Walker's supporters who had accompanied him to the Hall of Justice yesterday.

Most of the supporters were College of Marin students with whom Walker has become friendly since his San Quentin release and enrollment at the college where he is taking three courses.

Walker was committed at 15 to the California Youth Authority in 1960 for purse-snatching in Los Angeles County. He was released a year later, but was sent back to the CYA two months after his release for holding up bus drivers.

Scuffles between Walker and several prison guards kept him in penal institutions until last year.

Even after his release the battery charges remained pending.

A trial on the charges he struck two guards at San Quentin in August 1969 ended in a hung jury last October when the jury could not reach a unanimous verdict.

A second trial became unnecessary in April when Walker pleaded guilty to one of two counts of battery on a guard, and a second count was dismissed.

In recommending that Walker be returned to prison yesterday, Herman told Judge McGuire that there was not a prisoner in San Quentin who wouldn't agree to add 90 days to his sentence for the chance to beat up his most disliked guard.

Jesse W. Johnson, deputy probation officers, had recommended a two-year probation period and a 90-day jail sentence for Walker.

Herman said that the guard whom Walker struck suffered a broken nose and was unconscious for three days. The guard finally had to resign his position, Herman said.

"A 90-jail sentence would be a miscarriage of justice," Herman said.

But McGuire said, "I think Mr. Walker ought to be given an opportunity to become a member of the community." The judge told Walker that if it hadn't been for people in the community "who've gone to bat for you, it would have been easier for the court to cop out and sentence you to state prison."

In giving Walker the six-month jail sentence, McGuire also rejected the recommendation of Walker's attorney, Robert R. Birkie of San Rafael, that he be given only probation.

"He has a fear of prison, a fear of being locked up like no man I've ever talked to," Birkie said.

Bond Issue Ruling Draws Alioto Fire

SAN FRancisco (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto called today for a state constitutional amendment to overturn the U. S. Supreme Court ruling upholding the two-thirds vote majority required for local bond issue approval.

The U. S. Supreme Court, citing its controlling West Virginia decision of June 7, ruled Monday that California had the right to require two-thirds approval for bond issues.

The court's decision voids an estimated $1 billion worth of bonds in the state. Alioto, in a statement issued here called the ruling "very unfortunate."

He said it would make it "difficult, if not impossible," for many cities to get future general obligation bonds approved for schools, parks and recreation, sewer and water facilities.

Alioto himself was in Phile delphia attending the U. S. conference of mayors.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in its ruling Monday, set aside a State Supreme Court decision striking down the two-thirds requirement.

The high court overruled the California court's contention that the two thirds requirement violated the "one-man, one-vote" doctrine.

Monday's ruling came in three cases — one from California, Idaho and Missouri.

The California case concerned park improvements in San Francisco and school construction at the Hunters Point Redevelopment project.

The controlling decision of June 7 involved a West Virginia law requiring a 60 per cent yes vote for all local bond and tax increase issues.

Cafeteria's Wine Plea Is Approved

Four of five Marin County supervisors agreed today with an old saying that "a day without wine is like a day without sunshine" and voted to allow the Civic Center cafeteria operators to apply for a state Alcoholic Beverage Control permit to serve beer and wine in the building during lunch hours.

The wine saying was presented to the board in anonymous notes, written in Italian.

Public opposition was voiced by Beth Taylor, operator of the Taverna Yiasou restaurant a block from the Civic Center. She argued that the county supervisors would be subsidizing the cafeteria in competition with private enterprise. She decried serving alcohol in the same building as the courts and county jail. "The idea is appalling. It doesn't honor the courts or the county," she said.

"I'm not going to vote for this," declared Chairman Louis H. Baar, "I don't think this is the place to have it."

He was alone in his stand.

Supervisor Michael Wornum lashed at "treating 1,200 county employees as irresponsible citizens" by denying them a glass of wine. "It's rank hypocrisy to pretend people in government don't drink. We do at every luncheon," he declared.

The supervisors' 4-1 vote leaves cafeteria operators Donald A. Giovannoni and Camille Bamatter free to apply to the ABC — which then may set hearings on the protests that may arise.

youths at Roosevelt Park an investigation into charges of police brutality would begin today. But the militants were not satisfied.

They hooted and jeered and moved downtown, where they smashed plate glass storefronts of 25 businesses, overturned cars, and hurled Molotov cocktails at National Guardsmen who tired to disperse them.

Youths then moved to a park adjacent to the University of New Mexico. State policemen dispersed them at this point with tear gas and shotgun blasts. About 200 Guardsmen were sent to the campus to aid the 150 police.

A spokesman for the Chicano Youth Association blamed the rioting on city, state and federal officials who he said were insensitive to the needs of Albuquerque Mexican- Americans.

"City commissioners who give promises for the future to the problems of today are the causes," said Jose Armas.

Fire Chief Ray Kuhn said 61 fires were set during the two days. He estimated damage at $3 million.

Nikita Votes, Says He's Fine

MOSCOW (UPI)—"I feel fine," Nikita S. Khrushchev said. The former Soviet premier had little else to say Sunday when he came to Moscow to vote in parliamentary elections.

It was his first public appearance in two years.

"I'm a pensioner. What do pensioners do?" the 77-year-old Khrushchev said when asked what he was doing now.

Khrushchev, his wife Nina Petrovna on his arm, voted at a public school near the Canadian embassy in central Moscow. Then they returned to their suburban villa.

Hunger Can't Wait For Check Recovery

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—When a mail truck was robbed of 200 welfare checks, the state economic security department set up a plan to issue federal food stamps on credit to those whose checks were stolen.

Duplicate checks would have taken about two weeks to reach the recipients. State Welfare Commissioner Merritt Deitz said "many of the recipients would have been starving before then."

petilions asking that the case be transferred to a federal court.

Judge Arnason said that he does not believe the Marin court has jurisdiction in the case until either a federal court remands it back to Marin or a higher state court orders him to proceed.

This left the case off calendar until such an order is received.

Judge Arnason yesterday refused to split Miss Davis's case from Magee's after saying that he was seriously considering such a move.

After both Miss Davis's lawyers and Magee's attorney as well as prosecuting attorney Albert W. Harris Jr. objected to a severance, the judge announced his decision.

"If all parties resist a severance, I'm not going off on my own," Arnason said.

In a day which resembled an intricate legal ballet, none of the attorneys would come out and ask that the two cases be severed.

It had been reported that Miss Davis's lawyers privately wanted her case split from Magee's, but the Independent-Journal erred yesterday in saying that they had actually asked in chambers last week for such a move.

According to a transcript of the conversation, after the judge suggested a severance they told him they would have to think over the matter.

Yesterday, one of her attorneys, Sheldon Otis, said that a severance would be "premature" and asked that the cases "joined by the prosecution" remain together.

"We're glad to go ahead on a unified front," Ernest L. Graves, Magee's court-appointed attorney added.

By the end of the arguments, Harris had been backed into a corner and said "our main concern is that the cases get moving." Although he had earlier opposed a severance, he said later "we would probably not resist a severance."

Belfast Army Barracks Hit

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Extremist bombers attacked a temporary British army barracks in Belfast Monday night but hurled their explosives into an empty room, an army spokesman said.

Three men tossed a duffel bag with explosives through a window of an abandoned factory in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area now serving as a barracks for 30 Royal Greenjacket soldiers.

The blast wrecked the room but no soldiers were inside, the spokesman said.

Very Long Wait

SENDAI, Japan (UPI)—In 1923, private first class Takeo Senda was serving in the Japanese Imperial Army on Sakhalin Island off Siberia. A pistol being cleaned by a comrade discharged, sending a bullet into Senda's left knee. This spring the Sendai District Court finally ruled that Senda, now 70 years old, was entitled to a government disability pension for the injury suffered 48 years ago.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Testimony Is His Downfall

Five customers who regularly had lunch at Sam's cafe came down with hepatitis within a few days of each other. The restaurant's cook also came down with the disease.

The cook sued Sam's cafe. He said the facilities in the restaurant were not clean. He claimed Sam violated the health and sanitary rules from time to time. But the cook lost his suit. Medical testimony was his undoing.

The doctors called by Sam testified that there was little chance that the cook got hepatitis from handling food at the restaurant. They put the odds at no more than 10 per cent.

In fact, the usual case of hepatitis is caused by person to person contact and not from a common source outbreak such as food and water. "Food borne outbreaks" are very rare said the doctor. Besides the incubation period for infectious hepatitis was much longer than five days. The judge concluded that the cook must have gotten his hepatitis some other way.

Expert testimony on the crucial issue in the case can be quite persuasive. Experts can give their opinions. Ordinarily a witness can only testify to facts, not give opinions.

The experts may be any kind of person who has a special skill or knowledge that is helpful in deciding an issue. The "expert" must qualify as an expert before he testifies and gives an opinion. But the judge or jury may disregard an opinion if it does not appeal to their "reason."

All people are experts in some ways. For example, when we see certain people often, we come to know what is special about them, like the sound of their footsteps or their voices. Based on this, the lay witness can testify and give an opinion.

Also from knowing a person well, a lay witness may testify about this person's sanity. He may know whether the person always acts a certain way or whether his behavior was irregular.

Moreover, every one has some competency to give an opinion as to speed, distance, size or sounds. Age of others, values of property, even handwriting, in some cases, are all matters to which one can testify.

First Police Union Step By Tiburon

Tiburon took the first step last night toward joining police forces with Belvedere by approving a $2,500 consolidation study by an East Bay police chief.

City councilmen, who voted 3-0 to approve a contract for the six-week study, also put out a feeler for a $500 contribution from Belvedere.

Both Councilmen Anne L. Ellinwood and M. Carlisle Becker said they had received assurances from two Belvedere councilmen that their city stands ready to contribute.

Miss Ellinwood wanted the Tiburon city staff to write Belvedere asking $500, but Mayor Denis T. Rice said he felt no specific amount should be mentioned.

Edward S. Kreins, former Sausalito police chief and now chief in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County, will conduct the study and complete it by Aug. 1. City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said he already had begun work.

The study will look into how Tiburon might set up its own police force — the city now contracts with the Marin County sheriff's department — and also how a combined force would work.

The investigation also will explore how a joint force would be administered: one city contracting with the other for police service, a combined department or a third party providing the service for both cities.

In addition, the study will include advantages and disadvantages of consolidation and when such a plan could go into effect if approved.

Hearing On New Charge Is Sought

The Sausalito District Teachers Association has charged the principal of Martin Luther King School with incompetence and unethical conduct and has asked the school district board for a closed hearing to discuss the charges, Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg reported.

The black principal, Henry Hopkins, was hired by the district last August to replace Principal Sidney F. Walton Jr. fired by the former school board in May.

The association, which represents most of the district's 53 certificated employees, last night asked the board for a closed session at the board's regular meeting on June 28. Lindberg said the trustees asked him to obtain specific details on the charges and recommend what procedures the board should follow in the matter.

The charges, against Principal Henry Hopkins, were formulated at a meeting of the teachers association on Friday, Association President James T. Toliver Jr. said.

Honeymoon Site A Guarded Secret

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Tricia and Edward Cox, who managed to say out of the public eye during their two-year courtship, are just as elusive on their honeymoon.

Their honeymoon spot is a closely guarded secret among the few at the White House, including the President and Mrs. Nixon, who are privy to the information.

Out of fear of "leaks," most secret servicemen were kept in the dark, too, except for Tricia's agents who discreetly went along on the trip.

Board Asks Toliver Case Court Test

The Sausalito School District board last night voted to go ahead with dismissal proceedings against Special Assistant James T. Toliver Jr. and directed its counsel to file charges in Marin Superior Court.

Trustee Jerry L. Whitcomb cast the only dissenting vote and board Chairman Nathaniel Johnson was absent.

Toliver's attorney, A. Leonard Bjorklund, had requested a hearing on the charges which the district has leveled against his client in an effort to fire him for cause. The charges in the notification which Toliver received in May included "incompetence, disruptive behavior and failure to follow administrative directives and suggestions."

Last night, under the terms of the education code, the school board had the option of either rescinding its May 13 action to fire the special assistant or proceeding with a Superior Court hearing on the charges.

Toliver, who has been with the district four years, has vowed to fight the move to dismiss him.

U.S.-Soviet Navy Eyeballing Told

MOSCOW (UPI)—U.S. warships and planes in the Mediterranean shadowed a Soviet cruiser carrying Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Andrei A. Grechko last weekend, the government newspaper Izvestia said Monday night.

Grechko was visiting the Soviet squadron in the Mediterranean. Izvestia said the U.S. destroyer Ricketts came so close to the Soviet cruiser Dzerzhinsky, with Grechko aboard, that the Soviet captain radioed his U.S. counterpart.

Changing Date

Peacock Gap Homeowners Association directors agreed, last night, to change their regular meeting days from the second Monday of each month to the second Tuesday of the month. The group also suspended meetings of the association until September.

Looks Ahead To Another '100 Years'

A woman who played hooky from school to watch an Indian hang at the Old Courthouse in San Rafael celebrated her 100th birthday recently at the Rafael Convalescent Hospital in San Rafael.

Mary F. Spellman was born May 27, 1871 in San Francisco, but lived all of life — "except for the first 18 months," — in Marin County.

As a young girl, she was adopted by her uncle and aunt, Richard and Catherine Bullis and grew up on a ranch on what is now Peacock Gap. She rode a horse to school every day and graduated from the old B Street School.

Active in county politics, Mrs. Spellman served on several grand juries in San Rafael. She was a charter member of the Marin County Historical Society and has often helped historians recreate a picture of Marin County during the last century.

When she reached her 100th birthday, Mrs. Spellman told the friends and relatives who had gathered to help her celebrate that she might live another 100 years.

TIMES

followed publication of another article after Mitchell sent his telegram.

Mitchell said the information contained in the series had top secret classification and further public action would harm the defense interest of the United States.

The government said Monday the report — which quotes from secret strategy meetings, diplomatic cable and military directives — contains highly sensitive information even though it deals with the period before 1968.

A Justice Department spokesman said Harding Bancroft, asked what the government position would be if publication continued.

"The department would seek to enforce all applicable statutes and would seek an injunction to prevent further publication of the information," said Assistant Attorney General Robert Mardian, in charge of the Internal Security Division. The department did not say when such action would be taken.

The Times said it would "oppose any request for an injunction for the same reason that led us to publish the articles in the first place. We would of course abide by the final decision of the court."

The Pentagon study, which runs 40 volumes and took a year to complete, details U.S. involvement in Indochina from the Truman administration to the Johnson administration. It details a deeper and deeper commitment in Vietnam through the years and states that several policy decisions did not correspond with official public statements.

The Times said today the government said the publication of the study violated provisions of the Espionage Law, Title 18, United States Code, Section 793 which carries a $10,000 fine and-or 10 years in prison for conviction.

The newspaper said it believed it was the first time a publication had been involved in that particular legal code.

A Farm Family's Note To Hunters

ALICE, N.D. (UPI)—A farm family near Alice, N.D. has come up with a cure for hunters who insist on killing their tame ducks and geese. It gives hunters a few laughs but leaves no doubt as to intent.

Next to what looks like the grave of a fallen hunter, complete with cross topped by the hunter's hat, is the message: "Here lie the remains of the last hunter who shot one of Mrs. D. Hahn's tame ducks."

5 Viets Killed In Khe Sanh Attack

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist artillerymen bombarded a South Vietnamese outpost near the abandoned U. S. base at Khe Sanh in an attack that killed five Saigon government troops and wounded 15 others, military spokesmen said today. The Viet Cong killed four Americans and wounded eight in an ambush near Saigon.

A communique from Phnom Penh said a terrorist threw a grenade at a truckload of U. S. GIs but it missed them and injured two Cambodians.

Allied spokesmen also reported heavy fighting near the South Vietnamese Artillery Base 5 in the Central Highlands. They reported 68 Communists killed in Monday clashes.

The Communists fired more than 200 rounds of 82mm mortar Monday afternoon and evening eight miles east of Khe Sanh. Five South Vietnamese Marines were killed and 15 wounded in the shelling. The North Vietnamese were reported to have moved more than 10,000 men into the mountainous region in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

U. S. B52 bombers flew four missions over the area in the 24 hours ended at noon today, command spokesmen said. The B52s have dropped nearly 1.5 million pounds of bombs over the area since Saturday in the heaviest concentration of B52 raids in South Vietnam since the Laotian operation in Feburary and March.

At the port of Qui Nhon on South Vietnam's northern coast, an explosion rocked the U. S. merchant ship "American Hawk" early today. The 492-foot 12,900-ton vessel was carrying military supplies but no munitions or oil, a military spokesman said. The ship, owned by the New American Foreign Steamship Co. of New York, was listing 10 degrees to port. One longshoreman was injured.

U. S. spokesmen said the cause of the explosion was apparently a mine planted on the ship's hull by Communist frogmen.

The ambush of the American GIs was 45 miles northeast of Saigon on Monday.

Military spokesmen said Communist units halted a U.S. armored patrol with a mine Monday then opened fire with rifles, machine guns and rocket grenades, killing four Americans and wounding eight.

The Americans called in artillery and helicopter gunships and killed nine of the attackers in the fighting 45 miles northeast of Saigon near Xuan Loc.

A communique said the patrol of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Air Cavalry Division was on a mission in a heavily wooded area when the Communists attacked.

In Phnom Penh, two terrorists on a motorbike threw a grenade at a truckload of American GIs on a downtown street. Police said it missed the Americans but wounded a Cambodian soldier and a taxi driver who was passing by.

O'Neill perpetual trophy for doing the most for law enforcement during the past year. Split Vote Passage Of Fairfax Sign Law

Fairfax City Council last night adopted a new sign ordinance that will outlaw more than 90 per cent of the city's business signs.

The council voted 3-2 to adopt the ordinance which had been in the making for the last two years. Dissenting were Councilmen Lee Nelder and Robert R. Souza. No representatives of the business community spoke.

The new regulation, effective July 15, was adopted after the council reviewed a survey by Robert E. Crowe, city administrator, listing 59 businesses with signs that would be in violation.

One business, Celoni's Liquor Store and Cocktail Lounge on Broadway, will have seven separate violations under the new ordinance which allows present businesses up to two years to change their signs to conform with new standards or apply for a variance from the city's design review board.

Crowe said that generally the business people were unanimous in supporting a sign ordinance that would clean up some of the proliferation of signing and prohibit additional undesirable signs.

In opposing adoption of the ordinance, Souza said, "We're going to have some real problems with enforcement — we've got 90 to 95 per cent of the businesses nonconforming. It's going to become more political than architectural."

Nelder said the ordinance was basically a copy of the one adopted in Mill Valley in 1966 and suggested residents and members of the council go to Mill Valley before adopting the same ordinance in Fairfax.

"If that's the way you want Fairfax to look — it's no use kidding ourselves. Personally, I think it's a mess," he said. "I feel it'll take more away from the town than add to it."

Charles L. A. Eckles, chairman of the design review board, urged the council to adopt the new regulation as a beginning.

The Fairfax City Council Also:

HONORED — Paid special tribute to retiring Fire Capt. Frank E. Harrison, who served as a volunteer for more than 20 years and as a full-time regular fireman for more than 20 years.

TAXI RATE HIKE — Set a public hearing for July 12 on proposed rate increases by Yellow Cab Co. of San Rafael. Proposed rates are, with existing rates in parenthesis, 70 cents for the first one-sixth mile (70 cents for first two-fifth mile); 10 cents for each additional one-sixth mile (10 cents for each additional one-fifth mile).

SALES TAX — Voted to support a constitutional amendment to redistribute sales tax on the basis of population. The request for support came from the City of Woodlake, Tulare County.

SPACE SHUTTLE — Voted to support a request from the City of Sacramento that work on the Space Shuttle Main Engine be done in Northern California.

Former Philippine President Dies

MANILA, (UPI) — Former Philippine President Carlos P. Garcia, who was elected president of the newly formed constitutional convention last Friday, died yesterday of a heart attack at his residence in nearby Quezon City. He was 74.

Garcia was the Philippine republic's fourth president, serving from 1957 to 1961.

Banker Firm On Lockheed Loan Prop

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The airlines and banks which stand to lose the most if Lockheed goes broke say the firm's rescue would be an almost riskless venture for the U. S. government —but they won't commit another dime without a government guarantee of repayment.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., tried but failed to shake them from that position at Monday's hearing by the Senate Banking Committee into the Nixon administration bill for government backing of $250 million in bank loans for the financially troubled aviation and defense giant.

He said the banks have a "certainty of loss" vs. a "likelihood of profit" if they increase their ante; but C. J. Medberry, board chairman of the Bank of America, the nation's biggest bank, insisted that "prudent banking practice" rules out any more loans without government backing.

Today the committee was hearing from opponents of the administration's proposal, including A. Ernest Fitzgerald, the former Pentagon auditor who first brought to public attention the Lockheed cost overruns which added about $2.6 billion to the government's price for the C5A military transport.

Also called was Sen. Lowell Weiker, R-Conn., who says he would aid a filibuster if that is what it takes to block action on the Lockheed bill.

Medberry said the bankers had "come to a threshhold beyond which they will not go" without a government guarantee.

Dayan Says Mideast War Renewal May Be Imminent

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned Monday "the resumption of war may be imminent" in the Middle East.

Dayan, who has been taking a public soft-line attitude in recent months, changed his tone sharply in a speech to Hebrew University students in Jerusalem. His words apparently were prompted by the Arab guerrilla attack against an Israeli-bound oil tanker in the Red Sea Friday.

"The winds blowing in the Arab capitals tend more towards the resumption of the war than putting an end to it," he said. "Therefore the resumption of war may be imminent."

He said Israel was more interested in making peace than war, but if a new conflict came Israeli troops could reach the Arab capitals of Cairo, Amman and Damascus.

Dayan said "we for our part will look after our interests." He did not say exactly what measures were being taken.

Petaluma Council Passes On Plans For New Park

Preliminary plans for the development of La Tercera Park were approved last night by the Petaluma City Council.

Landscape architect Donald Campbell, a member of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association, displayed the plan for the 2.7-acre neighborhood park adjacent to La Tercera School and the Valley Little League Diamond.

The park will include separate play areas for pre-school and elementary-aged children, picnic area, horseshoe court and an open space area for free play on the north side. Campbell said off-site parking for 30 cars has been included along with the planting of evergreen trees to block the prevailing west wind.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer said he hoped a contract could be awarded soon so that contouring work may proceed and the park completed by fall. Members of the homeowners association have pledged to provide free construction labor and a Petaluma civic organization is reportedly considering the donation of funds to buy play equipment.

The Petaluma City Council also:

BUDGET — Set budget study sessions for Thursday at 7 p.m. and for June 23 at 9 a.m., a session expected to last all day.

HEALTH FEE — Asked City Atty. Edouard E. Robert to investigate what action can be taken against two firms which have not paid the required $20 fee for inspection by the Sonoma County Health Department. Robert H. Reed, sanitarian, said Tony's Bar and Monticello's School Store had not paid the required fee.

SEWAGE — Asked Robert to study new rulings set by the Regional Water Quality Control Board requiring additional monitoring of effluent going into the Petaluma River. City Engineer David A. Young said the expanded program would require $3,600 in new equipment and an annual outlay of $1,200 for laboratory expenses. The council asked Robert to see what legal action the board could take against the city if it chose not to comply.

CARD ROOMS — Adopted an ordinance which would allow card rooms to be located in establishments were liquor is served, but would prohibit liquor to be served to card players.

Wall Not Yet Built Draws Citizen Fire

Fairfax City Council last night took a look at a wall in the city — nicknamed "the Berlin Wall" — and voted 3-2 to do something about it.

The council decided to question Standard Oil about the wall the Chevron station is rebuilding at the intersection of Broadway, Sir Francis Drake and Bank Street. Opposing the move were Councilman Francis J. O'Connell and Mayor Cornelis Van Vliet who said they would worry about the wall after it was built.

Although the item was not included on the council's agenda, the matter was brought before it by Louis Vacarro, a resident who said he had to look at the "ugly wall" every day.

John Price, another audience member, said the wall made the building look like "a concentration camp." He told the council, "They ought to have dogs outside patrolling it."

Councilman Frank J. Egger said the wall is "right up against the city right-of-way." He said he was afraid a car might run into the building because it was so close to the road. The wall, part of the station being rebuilt, is about 16 feet high.

Advisory Board Expansion On Top

A proposal to extend the jurisdiction of Sausalito's Community Appearances Advisory Board to give the board additional review power over commercial, industrial and multiple dwelling buildings will be considered by the Sausalito City Council at 8 p.m. Today in City Hall.

At its last meeting, the council agreed the advisory board should have no jurisdiction over new construction or remodeling of single-family homes.

SON OF A GIANT HAS LONG WAY TO GO

Only six days old and already weighing 250 pounds, this 6-foot tall baby giraffe is the son of one of the largest giraffes in captivity. The father, Jeep, is 17 feet tall and weighs 2,500 pounds. But the mother, Janie, shown here with the baby, is only 14 feet tall and weighs about a ton. The giraffes live at the St. Louis Zoo in Forest Park, Mo.

Skipper Of Tanker Reports Close Fire

TEL AVIV (UPI)—The captain of the Israeli-chartered Coral Sea said Tuesday four men in a speedboat fired a broadside of bazooka rockets at the laden 68,000-ton oil tanker in the Bab el Mandeb Strait last Friday.

Capt. Marcus Mouskus, a Greek with more than 14 years service in the Israeli merchant marine, said two other boats accompanied the attackers but gave no other details.

The Coral Sea came under attack as it passed through the strait connecting the Arabian Sea and the Red Sea. Nine rockets hit the tanker and started fires, but no casualties were reported. (The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said in Beirut the four PFLP guerrillas who carried out the attack have been detained by North Yemeni authorities. A spokesman said the guerrilla boat was pursued by naval vessels "of unkown identity, but believed to be Ethiopian" immediately after the attack and forced to make a landing in the Republic of (North) Yemen, north of its major port of Hodeida. The PFLP called on North Yemen to release the guerrillas "according to its national obligations."

The tanker reached the Israeli-occupied Red Sea fortress of Sharm el Sheikh Monday night and is due to reach Eilat Wednesday or Thursday.

Man Is Booked In Embezzling

A 42-year-old Berkeley man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of embezzling a leased auto, after police found the vehicle parked in front of his former Sausalito home, a month after it was scheduled to be returned to the rental agency.

Officers said Frank Hathaway Winston Jr. was arrested about 6:35 p.m. in front of 619 Spring Street where the car had been parked for two weeks.

A check revealed the car had been rented from Budget Rent-A-Car in South San Francisco and was to have been returned to the agency by May 7.

Winston was Freed on $2,400 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Driver Injured At Overpass

A 63-year-old San Francisco woman was injured yesterday at 12:15 p.m. when her car spun into the center divider of Highway 101 in Greenbrae and struck a pedestrian overpass.

Frances B. Gibson was treated at Marin General Hospital for a chip fracture on the spine and a bruised left leg.

California Highway Patrol officers said she told them her car was forced to swerve when another vehicle cut in front of her.

Laird Aide New Army Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon Tuesday named Robert F. Froehlke, an assistant defense secretary and close personal friend of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, to be secretary of the Army.

Froehlke will succeed Stanley R. Resor, who resigned recently to return to private business after holding the job for six stormy years.

Froehlke, 48, is a World War II veteran who rose to the rank of captain during service in Europe.

He joined the Defense Department Jan. 29, 1969, shortly after the Nixon administration came into office, as assistant defense secretary for administration.

Laird gave him responsibility for all Defense Department intelligence activities and made him chairman of the defense investigative review council.

Froehlke graduated from the University of Wisconsin Law School and practiced law in Madison for 11 years before returning to the university to join its faculty in 1950.

In 1951, he joined the Century Insurance Co., in Stevens Point, Wis., and become a top level executive.

Froehlke has been a close friend of Laird's for many years. He was reported in line for the job since Resor announced his decision May 21 to step down.

Pair Pleads Innocent To Marijuana Related Charges

Gregory Moore Shields, 22, and Michael Moore Shields, 23, both of San Rafael, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of cultivating marijuana and maintaining a place for selling and using narcotics.

A preliminary hearing was set for July 13.

The cases of two codefendants were continued yesterday.

Clayton Stephen Anderson, 22, of San Rafael, is to return to court June 29 to plead to charges of selling amphetamine, cocaine, and mescaline; two counts of selling marijuana; cultivating marijuana, and maintaining a place for selling and using narcotics.

Kenneth Wilkes Bright, 22, also of San Rafael, is to plead Monday to charges of selling marijuana, mescaline and amphetamine; two counts of selling cocaine, cultivating marijuana, and maintaining a place for selling and using narcotics.

The four were arrested June 4 when Marin Drug Abuse agents went to their home with a warrant.

An article in the Independent-Journal June 5 erred in reporting that the group was alleged to have possessed heroin. Bright's name was also misspelled in that article.

Leeway Granted To Diablo Traingle Plan

The Novato Planning Commission last night reaffirmed its backing of planned residential zoning for the Diablo Triangle, but left the door open for some commercial development.

Commissioners recommended revision of the planned residential zoning ordinance to permit limited commercial uses.

The Novato City Council referred the zoning matter back to the commission last week after indicating it would consider commercial use for two parcels at Diablo Avenue and South Novato Boulevard.

The city's downtown plan calls for multiple family development in the undeveloped area of the triangle, bounded by South Novato Boulevard, Diablo Avenue and Center Road.

The commission also: recommended rezoning two parcels, 725 and 727 Orange Avenue from single family to multiple family as requested by John E. Sorum; recommended rezoning four lots at the southeast corner of Vallejo Avenue and Seventh Street from single family to multiple family as requested by Margie A. Yates, and granted Novato Parents Nursery School indefinite extension of its use permit to operate a school at the United Methodist Church, 1473 South Novato Boulevard.

Lane was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for groin pain and dizziness. Kidder was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall.

Tentative Tax Rate Looks Rosier

After a series of split votes, the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday whittled enough funds from the 1971-72 budget to equal 5.8 cents off the tentative county tax rate.

At the day's end, according to Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, the tentative rate stood at $3.117 per $100 assessed valuation — as compared with the present $2.565. The budget hearings opened with a tentative rate of $3.175.

To make the trims, the supervisors deleted $251,022 that had been requested for relocating and expanding offices in the Hall of Justice, $43,525 proposed for plans for a $500,000 county garage and repair facility at the Civic Center and revised proposals for landscaping the Civic Center and Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

The landscaping priorities may be revised again. Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said he wanted to present a new package proposal later during the budget talks.

Hopes of the Marin Civic Ballet Association to lease an acre of county land east of the Civic Center to build a $300,000 office and studio building for its headquarters were unveiled for the first time.

Max Thelen Jr. explained that the association hopes to arrange a foundation grant to finance the building. He asked the supervisors to budget for utilities to the easterly portion of the 85-acre Civic Center property, where it has long been planned to place several cultural activity buildings.

Board Chairman Louis H. Baar said he believed it would be at least a year before the ballet group could be sure of enough funds. He suggested Thelen and the association work toward a future budget.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. suggested a compromise use for part of the $165,000 in the proposed budget for landscaping around the Hall of Justice and the auditorium. He asked that $85,000 be held in reserve for preparing the ballet center site. It could be used for other landscaping work if the ballet group does not raise the building money, he said.

The vote on Arrigoni's proposal was 3-to-2, with Baptiste declaring he wanted the money used for landscaping the Civic Center lagoon area and Baar simply voting no.

The board spent more than two hours arguing whether to complete landscaping of the auditorium parking lot and develop the county fairgrounds between the auditorium and the lagoon.

Supervisor Michael Wornum finally moved to budget a total of $150,000 "with the direction that the least amount possible will be spent on the (auditorium) parking lot and the rest (on the fair site) toward the lagoon."

Again it was a 3-2 vote, with Baar objecting "how much money are we going to spend on landscaping this year?" and Arrigoni reminding the board "You're talking about two and a-half cents on the tax rate."

According to Mitchell, $70,000 is raised by each additional cent on the tax rate.

Despite recommendations by County Administrator Alan Bruce, the board sharply refused to spend a quarter-million dollars on completing vavant rooms on the top floor of the Hall of Justice so the probation, public defender, district attorney and other offices could be expanded or relocated.

The departments have been in the Hall of Justice less than two years, and already are seeking more space at a cost of $20 to $25 a square foot, the board pointed out.

During yesterday's hearings, the board acted on several requests by outside agencies for funds.

The supervisors unanimously vetoed a request from the City of Mill Valley for $25,000 to help remove the Miller Avenue slide. They approved $42,500 of the $44,986 requested by the Marin City Community Services District.

The board postponed action on a Sausalito School District request for in-lieu tax payment to compensate for Marin City pupils using the district and on the Shoreline School District's request for $82,000 to make up for loss of tax base due to the Point Reyes National Seashore.

Supervisor John F. McInniss recalled that last year the board gave the county schools office "clear-cut fiscal responsibility" at its own request. He suggested asking the Marin County Board of Education to raise the funds without adding to the county government's general fund tax rate.

SCHOOL LESSON PAYS OFF IN LIFE SAVING

Thanks to the quick thinking of his brother, 3-year-old Douglas Lorenger survived a near drowning yesterday in the pool at his home.

Douglas was lying at the bottom of the pool when his brother, Randy, 13, saw him and dove in. He pulled Douglas out of the pool and began giving him artificial respiration — a technique he had learned in school, but had never used.

San Anselmo Fire Department arrived at 7:30 p.m. with resuscitators and rushed the still-unconscious boy to Marin General Hospital.

The boy was revived at the hospital after several minutes and spent the night in his own bed. Both boys are children of Mr. and Mrs. Peirre E. Lorenger of 60 Green Valley Court, San Anselmo.

Petaluman's Leg Lost In Crash

A 21-year-old Petluma man lost a leg and three other persons were injured as a result of an accident at 10 p.m. yesterday on Old Adobe Road, south of Lynch Road, Petaluma.

Hillcrest hospital officials said the right leg of Edward Howard Elliott, 91 Thompson Lane, was amputated below the knee. He was reported in satisfactory condition today.

The California Highway Patrol said Elliott was standing in front of a parked car when struck by a southbound car driven by James Baffunno, 68, of 149 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo. Officers said Elliott had been attempting to start a second parked car with jumper cables.

Baffunno, whose car also hit one of the parked autos, was treated at the hospital for a cut nose, and his passenger, Gladys I. Rich, 56, of Sonoma, was treated for cuts of the arms and legs and transferred in good condition to Sonoma Valley Hospital.

A second pedestrian, Robert Grimes, 24, of 1941 Old Adobe Road, was treated for cuts of the face and arms, suffered when he was struck by one of the parked cars.

Tiburon Spokesman: Hilarita Density Cut

A weekend preview of the planned 112-unit apartment project at Tiburon's Hilarita site drew about 50 persons and saw both optimism and concern expressed over the development.

E. G. (Ned) Weed, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association, sponsor of the apartment development, said about 12 residents of the present World War II housing attended the Saturday session. A few were concerned over whether they would be allowed to live at the new apartments.

Weed said they were told the new apartments will accommodate all of the project's current residents who qualify for low and moderate cost housing, although he did not know how many persons this amounted to.

Also present were two longtime critics of the project, City Planning Commissioner Allan N. Littman and Herbert G. Wenig, owner of property adjacent to the eight-acre site.

Weed said the men, who last year opposed the new project partly on the basis of its relatively high density, were told that the development's "effective density" has been reduced by cutting down on the number of three and four-bedroom units in favor of smaller ones.

"Effective density" takes into account the size of units, demands on city services, number of cars that will be generated by the development and amount of land covered. Actual density is based on the number of units per acre only.

Weed, however, was unable to supply precise figures on the density decrease.

He said several discussion groups operated Saturday, including one to handle complaints, another to discuss architectural specifications, still another to present provisions for handling drainage and sewage, and one to describe financing available for the project.

Despite the reservations expressed, Weed said the overall atmosphere was "positive and optimistic."

In ceremonies during the five-hour session, Weed said, a certificate of appreciation was presented to Donald O. Stutsman, former executive director of the Marin County Housing Authority, for his work on the project.

Marin Planners Approve Strawberry Housing Plan

A master plan for a 334-unit apartment development on the ridge east of Highway 101 in Strawberry was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The 24-acre parcel is owned by Sea-Port Development Co., which asked for an average density of 14 units per acre, including 127 two-bedroom apartments.

The Marin County Planning Commission also:

NOVATO — Rezoned 26.69 acres on Hicks Valley Road east of Stafford Lake from A-2 to minimum one-acre lots. The so-called G. J. Garlick property had been overlooked in earlier rezoning of the entire area.

LOT — Upheld neighbors' appeals against a variance granted G. C. Kott to legalize a substandard building lot at 363 Pinehill Road, Tennessee Valley.

KENTFIELD — Denied applicant David Cunningham's appeal against denial of a variance for a substandard building lot at 130 Wolfe Grade Road, Kentfield.

COAST — Continued to June 28 a decision on architect Bruce Beebe's appeal against conditions on a six-lot land division one-half mile south of Blake's Landing on Shoreline Highway.

LUCAS VALLEY — Voted to rezone the Melvin Swig 21-acre parcel west of Mount Shasta Drive to limited agricultural with three-acre minimum lot size, but was unable to get the four votes necessary to act on the Marinwood Community Service District's appeal against the land division granted to Swig by the planning director.

INDUSTRIAL PARK — Postponed action to June 28 on a master plan for the Del Pantano Industrial Park near Gnoss Field north of Novato.

DAY CARE CENTERS — Set a public hearing for July 12 to consider changing the definition of home occupation to include home care for the mentally retarded.

LOT SIZE — Set a public hearing for July 12 to consider amending the county ordinance to increase maximum permissible lot size from 40 to 60 acres.

'Acid Test' For Antifreeze Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said today the "acid test" commercial for Prestone antifreeze is deceptive and has been banned under an agreement with the manufacturer.

Another FTC false advertising case is pending against a second major antifreeze, Zerex, made by DuPont.

The FTC said it was provisionally accepting a consent order under which Prestone's manufacturer, Union Carbide Corp., New York, is banned from using deceptive demonstrations to promote any consumer product.

In the "acid test" commercial, two strips of metal —one dipped in Prestone, the other in "ordinary antifreeze" —are immersed in acid. The "ordinary antifreeze" strip is destroyed. The one dipped in Prestone is not.

The FTC said neither the acid, the metal, the antifreeze mixture nor the corrosive effect have anything to do with what happens in the car's cooling system.

Vandals Break Into Nike Site

Vandals broke into an abandoned United States Army Nike site Thursday and caused $60,000 in property damage, police reported yesterday.

A metal trailer, on the Black Canyon site in San Rafael, containing electronic micro-wave equipment had been entered, police said, and extensive vandalism occurred.

The Nike site has been abandoned for several months, and, according to police, has been the site for numerous incidences of vandalism. No arrest has been made in the case.

Mill Valley Car Crash Injures 3

Three members of a Mill Valley family have been treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for injuries suffered in a three-car crash on East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley.

Treated at the hospital Saturday for cuts and bruises were Carol M. Roecks, 41, of 278 Summit Avenue, and her daughter, Sandra L., 14. A second daughter, Althea M., 19, sustained a mild concussion.

Mill Valley police said the pileup occurred Saturday at 6:08 p.m. when a car driven east on East Blithedale Avenue by Jack D. Williams, 50, of 52 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Ross, stopped to make a left turn at Meadow Road.

Williams's car was struck from behind by a vehicle operated by Dean Reis, 17, of 9 Juno Road, Tiburon, police said. The impact pushed the Williams car into the path of the Roecks vehicle, which was westbound on East Blithedale Avenue.

Mamie Gets Standing Ovation In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower was escorted to the House podium for Monday's Flag Day ceremony, she didn't expect to make a speech; but Speaker Carl Albert eased her to the microphone.

"I am so very proud to be an American," she said, tears welling in her eyes. "I'm so very, very proud of the House." Members, their guests and tourists jammed in the galleries gave her a standing ovation.

Motorcyclist, 19, Injured In Spill

A 19-year-old Novato youth who fell while riding his motorcycle in a field near Indian Valley Golf Course was treated yesterday at Novato General Hospital for multiple scrapes and bruises.

The California Highway Patrol said Michael A. Tournahu, of 1217 Fourth Street, fell about 3:30 p.m. on the field off Novato Boulevard east of the entrance to the golf course.

MOLOTOV COCKTAIL THROWN AT GUARDSMEN

Three militants in Albuquerque, N.M., were caught in the act of lighting and throwing a firebomb yesterday at advancing National Guard troops who were called up to quell two days of rioting, burning and looting in the city. A photographer took the picture on the left just after the crouched youth had lit the molotov cocktail. A split second later, another photo (right) caught the act of throwing the firebomb. Officials said the 61 fires were started during the disorders, 46 persons were injured and almost 400 persons were arrested. By 3 a.m. this morning the unrest appeared to have subsided. Welfare Chief Cites Deficit Vs. Reform

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature was told today Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed $676.6 million budget for welfare would have to be increased by $109 million if no legislative or administrative "reforms" were adopted.

State Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson, testifying for the second consecutive day on the governor's spending plan and defeated welfare bills, made the estimate at a hearing of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The governor originally earmarked $676.6 million in state funds for operation of welfare during the next fiscal year and later proposed his welfare revision plan.

Under yuestioning, Carleson said if none of Reagan's proposed legislative and administrative regulatory changes were adopted, $169 million would have to be added to the budget.

But he said he now had the authority to reduce that figure by a "conservative" $60 million by implementing regulations which would tighten eligibility for welfare aid. This would leave a balance of $109 million.

Carleson made the estimates under questioning from Ways and Means chairman William Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, who demanded a "hard, fast (budget) figure we can live with evermore."

Later, Republican Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, accused the administration of publicly "touting" a savings of $684 million through adoption of the governor's welfare program.

Bagley asserted someone in the administration was supplying that figure to "citizen committees" he said are being organized to support Reagan's plan. But Bagley said the projected savings actually was closer to $169 million.

"It's unfair and perhaps grossly unfair for the department to tout this figure to rump citizen committees," he said. "Please write them again and say we're only going to save $169 million."

Carleson insisted that $684 million could be saved if the legislature and federal government "get behind this welfare reform program." He added, "We still stick to that figure. It is very firm."

The director also testified on the governor's program Monday during an often-tumultuous six-hour hearing called to examine its fiscal impact along with that of a Democratic-sponsored welfare plan.

That hearing was abruptly recessed by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, after a dispute arose over alleged withholding of information.

Personal property and equipment valued at $1,891 was taken between 2:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. Saturday from five boats moored at Loch Lomond Marina at 175 Loch Lomond Drive, San Rafael, police reported yesterday.

The boat owners and their losses are: Judson Weil of San Francisco, $343; Howard M. Arneson of 6 Locksly Lane, San Rafael, $773; Robert B. Bottini of 45 Bellevue Avenue, San Rafael, $45; William J. Treber of 12 Montego Key, Novato, $485 and Charles G. Rosenbaum of 10 Morgan Lane, San Rafael, $245.

Infant No. 7 Dies; Two Fight For Life

SYDNEY (UPI)—The seventh of the nine infants born Sunday to the wife of a wholesale meat salesman died today, leaving only one boy and one girl alive, doctors at the Sydney Royal Women's Hospital reported.

The latest death was that of Geraldine Brodrick's firstborn, a girl. Attending doctors had held the greatest hope of her survival until her condition suddenly deteriorated. She died at 11:15 a.m. (1:15 a.m. EDT), less than 55 hours after delivery.

Mrs. Brodrick, 29, the mother of two other girls by Caeserian section, gave natural birth to five boys and four girls in what medical experts say was a world record number for one pregnancy. Doctors said delivery was almost three months premature. She had taken pills to promote natural childbirth before her pregnancy. Doctors had told her the drug could increase fertility as a side effect.

Two of the infants were stillborn and three others died less than 24 hours after delivery. A sixth baby, a girl, died during the early hours today.

The only surviving boy was six inches long and weighed 12 ounces at birth, the smallest of the nine. His surviving sister was a one-pounder and less than eight inches long.

The hospital's official report of the seventh death confirmed what had been reported hours earlier by friends close to the Brodrick family. Authorities at the hospital have restricted newsmen from the premises and keep them informed only through bulletins posted on the hospital's front door.

Dr. John Grenwell, the medical suprintendent, earlier said Mrs. Brodrick was continuing to make progress in her recovery. No change in her condition was reported.

Petaluma's Third Fire Unit Opens

Petaluma's third fire station went into operation today with a simple dedication and flag-raising ceremony at 8 a.m.

Mayor Helen Putnam and members of the city council led the short ceremony. Two pieces of equipment and four firefighters will be on duty at the station on South McDowell Boulevard at Berrydale Drive.

Only landscaping remains to be done and Northbay Federal Savings and Loan Association of Petaluma will assist in that by planting several large birch trees at the firehouse grounds tomorrow at 11:30 a.m.

The tree planting ceremony will kick off a campaign by the bank to improve living conditions in the North Bay. It plans to spearhead a tree planting campaign in the Petaluma area and to encourage residents, businesses and organizations to join in the effort.

Car Stolen

A 1966 Mercury valued at $875 belonging to L.J. Dervin Used Cars at 545 Fourth Street, was taken between Saturday and yesterday from where it was parked on Fourth Street in front of the car lot, San Rafael police reported today.

Tribunal Curbs Labor Dept. Powers On Policing Of Unions

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court, ruling on a California case, has curbed the Labor Department's power to reform the internal operations of unions on the basis of complaints by members.

In a 6-2 decision Monday, the court held the department was barred from bringing a civil action against a union about a matter which was not included specifically in a member's complaint under the 1959 LaborManagement Reporting and Disclosure Act.

Justice Thurgood Marshall wrote the majority opinion.

In another 5-4 decision, the court held in an Idaho case that a union member could not sue in a state court on grounds the union had him fired from his job for non-payment of dues. Justice John M. Harlan ruled for the majority that the issue was one for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), exclusively under past Supreme Court cases.

The case relating to the Labor Department's police power stemmed from a complaint by Nicholas Hantzis, an unsuccessful candidate for president of Local 6799 of the United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO) in Ontario, Calif.

Hantzis first protested to the union about the fairness of a June 12, 1967, election on the ground that union facilities were used to prepare campaign literature for the incumbent president, Kenneth Rose, who won.

Unable to obtain satisfaction, he went to the department, at the same time adding a challenge to a rule restricting candidacy for local offine to members who have attended at least half the local union meetings during a 5-year period preceding the nominations.

The department sued on both counts in federal district court in Los Angeles.

Marshall said Hantzis knew about the attendance rule when he made his protests to the union local and international.

He said it would be "to weaken union self-government" to let the department go ahead with a lawsuit when the union had not considered the matter. He said the court did not reach the question of whether the rule itself is reasonable.

The Idaho case concerned a lawsuit by Wilson P. Lockridge, who lost his job as a Greyhound bus driver in 1959 on demand of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach employes.

State court awarded him a judgment of $32,678 on the ground that the discharge was a violation of the collective bargaining agreement under which the employes worked.

Failing Weather Hampers Search for Downed Jet

HONOLULU (UPI)—Deteriorating weather today hampered a search near remote Palmyra Island where an Air Force C135 jet research plane crashed into the ocean with 24 men aboard.

Debris, possibly from the big four-engine transport, was seen in the search area Monday but could not be identified from the air.

Two ships, the destroyer USS Richard Edwards and the British merchant vessel Amalric, steamed toward the scene to investigate the debris described as "white material."

A U. S. Navy search official said Monday night rain squalls were intensifying and cutting down visibility in the area. Search planes which had been circling above the debris were called home for the night.

There seemed to be little chance anyone survived the crash but a Navy search official at Pearl Harbor said:

"The mere fact that we're continuing the search indicates we haven't lost hope that there may be some survivors. Until the ships arrive to give us surface capabilities we really can't speculate on the odds of finding survivors."

The big jet was carrying 12 military men and 12 civilians when it disappeared Sunday on a 2,300-mile flight from American Samoa to Hawaii.

The C135 was based at Wright Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio.

Italian Airline Firm On Fare

NEW YORK (UPI)—Alitalia Airlines contends it will continue to sell youth tickets to Rome for a bargain $199 despite a Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) decision against the low fare.

"We must continue to apply this tariff on orders from our government pending resolution of this dilemma through proper channels or in the courts," Guido Vittori, general manager of Alitalia in the United States said Monday. The airline is owned and operated by the Italian government.

Alitalia applied to the CAB last week to put the new fare into effect on one day's notice. But Alitalia said the CAB decided Friday the bargain fare for passengers aged 12 to 26 could not be put into effect for at least 30 days.

Miracle Coating Replaces House Paint for 15 Years

Los Angeles, Calif.

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 15 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos KENITEX.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used KENITEX texture Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

Over 1,000,000 KENITEX applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 10,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied KENITEX to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor — at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Homes and Guided Missiles
Unique among KENITEX applications is the use on guided missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. KENITEX obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Shot From a Gun
KENITEX is guaranteed for 15 years against chipping, flaking or peeling . . . it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually, "Shot from a Gun" KENITEX fuses to the sidewalls in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

Free Estimates
Local applications of this remarkable coating are made by the Golden Gate Bldr's Inc. licensed and approved applicators. Cost is surprisingly low — convenient terms can be arranged. Home owners can obtain free estimates without obligations, by calling 776-4453 or mail coupon herewith:

Water Controllers Pass Tough Bay Sewage Plan

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

OAKLAND — More than $88 million in new sewerage facilities must be built in Marin and Southern Sonoma under a tough plan adopted unanimously yesterday by the Regional Water Quality Control board.

Boat owners also will be socked by the new plan, which immediately bans all discharge into San Francisco Bay of sewage wastes from vessels. Enforcement of the ban, however, was at least a year away, the board's staff said.

The "interim water quality management plan" was required by the federal government to maintain local sewerage agencies' eligibility for grants. These grants and state money can cover up to 80 per cent of capital costs of local sewerage projects. But local agencies were warned they still would have to build required facilities even if they had to pay for them on their own without grants.

The plan fixed deadlines and estimated costs for the nine-county region at almost $850 million during the next five fiscal years. Of this amount, some $600 million would be to pipe treated wastes to deep bay waters for better dilution than possible in shallow waters close to shore.

The rest of the money would be for improved treatment and to start reclaiming wastewater for reuse.

The cost estimates were bound to be too low, however, since they were based on 1971 costs and did not allow for inflation. The heaviest costs under the plan were projected toward the end of the five-year period.

The plan warned that cease and desist orders will be imposed on dischargers who fail to comply with its requirements. State law provides for $6,000-a-day fines and bans on all new construction for violating such orders.

Virtually all of the projects listed in the plan are being studied by local sewerage agencies, but the plan's deadlines for construction were far ahead of any being considered by the agencies.

The preliminary draft of the plan, reported in detail on April 13 by the Independent-Journal, proposed the ban on vessel discharge only in Tomales Bay, Bolinas Lagoon and Drakes and Limantour esteros. The regional board, however, last month suggested extending the ban to the entire bay system.

The ban would apply to vessel wastes "regardless of the degree of treatment," a provision that conflicts with pending federal regulations. These regulations set standards for marine sanitation devices effective on all new boats in two years and on existing boats in five years.

Federal law,however, provides that states may seek waivers from the Environmental Protection Agency to impose total bans on vessel discharge. The regional board's executive officer, Fred H. Dierker, said he would seek such a waiver so the ban could be imposed on bay boaters.

He said a ban was the only feasible solution to pollution from vessels. There were too many to police, he said, adding that marine sanitation devices usually have proven ineffective, nreliable and poorly maintained.

The plan also will require dischargers to remove pesticides and all poisonous wastes such as mercury, lead and cadmium.

Dierker cautioned that meeting the plan's goals "will require increasingly higher levels of treatment." The ultimate aim, he stressed, was "maximum reclamation."

The plan's year-by-year project list, somewhat changed from the original in April, included the following for next fiscal year: Inverness area of the North Marin County Water District, $40,000 to build sewerage system; City of Petaluma, $4,970,000 for pump station, force mains and oxidation ponds; Marin Bay plant of San Rafael Sanitation District, $82,500 to extend discharge pipe in bay; Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, $400,000 for interim improvements; Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District, $175,000 for interim improvements; Tiburon Sanitary District, $250,000 for interim improvements; City of Mill Valley, $250,000 for interim improvements; Richardson Bay Sanitary District, $250,000 for interim improvements; Ross Valley Sanitary District, $1 million for interim improvements and treatment of wet weather flows; and San Rafael Sanitation District, $818,000 for pump station and interceptor.

Listed for construction starting in fiscal 1972-73 were: San Rafael Sanitation District, Ross Valley Sanitary District and San Quentin Prison, $20 million for interceptor to Point San Quentin and a deepwater outfall to the bay or ocean; and Richardson Bay dischargers, $10.2 million for treatment plant and ocean outfall at Tennessee Cove.

None was scheduled the following year, but $50 million in 1975-76 was earmarked for a huge interceptor pipe to discharge Southern Sonoma and North Marin sewage at Point San Pedro, Point San Quentin or the ocean.

The regional board's interim plan must be followed by July, 1973, with a specific program to enforce all its restrictions.

Lightning Hits Apollo 15 Tower, Damages Units

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— Engineers checked the Apollo 15 moonship today to make certain it was not harmed by a nearby lightning strike Monday night that apparently knocked out two power units on the rocket's umbilical tower.

The 446-foot umbilical tower next to the Apollo 15 moon rocket was struck three times by lightning, but the booster and its spacecraft apparently escaped damage.

The electrical surge, however, knocked out five pieces of ground equipment used to support the moonship during testing and launch. The damage was considered minor and engineers expected to complete the repairs today.

The lightning strikes interrupted the Apollo 15 flight readiness test, but project officials hoped to resume the exercise today with astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin participating.

Vanishing Bay Marshlands Put Under Army Corps Jurisdiction

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The vanishing marshlands of San Francisco Bay have a new protector, the Army Corps of Engineers.

Prodded by the Sierra Club, the corps has reversed its historical stand that its jurisdiction did not include marshlands even though they were subject to tidal action.

This stand permitted more than 50,000 acres of marshland to be diked on the bay in earlier times without a permit from the corps.

The corps, however, stressed that its new decision was not retroactive, thus would not affect previous actions that allowed such extensive diking. The corps termed the new permit procedures a "clarification" of its previous stand.

The previous stand was based on protection of navigation, but new federal laws in 1969 and 1970 expanded the corps' jurisdiction to include far broader environmental uses. These new powers were upheld in a court test of a Florida case last year.

Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer for the corps, said it now was concerned also with protecting "ecology, fish and wildlife, recreation, water quality and recreation — the total aspect of the well-being of the public."

The new permit procedures also extended the corps' jurisdiction upstream beyond low bridges that block navigation up sloughs and tributaries.

Notice of the new procedures declared the corps' jurisdiction "shall extend to the line on shore reached by the plane of the mean of the higher high water." This is the average of the two daily high tides.

The notice meant that the corps' protection will backstop that of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Any developer receiving a permit to fill marshland from the commission then would have to get one also from the corps.

Silent Alarm To Be Studied

The San Anselmo School District board, meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Red Hill School, will consider purchase and installation of a silent alarm system for Red Hill School.

The alarm system, to be tied into the city's police station, will be purchased with matching school district insurance company funds. Cost is estimated at $600.

Red Hill School during the past year has been the scene of repeated burglaries and vandalism.

The board also is expected to consider reactivating its committee on district goals to review goal setting procedures.

Officer Stops Car, Shot Dead During Struggle

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)— One of two policemen who stopped a car for speeding late Monday was shot in the chest and killed.

Mike Ratikin, 25, a four-year police veteran, was killed by a shot fired from the car he and his partner, Charles Sheldon, stopped shortly before midnight.

Police spokesman Bruce Shaw said seven persons were in the car. One tried to run away and struggled with the two policemen. Three shots were fired from the car, Shaw said. One hit Ratikin.

Sheldon returned fire and wounded one of the passengers in the leg. The others escaped on foot. The one wounded and two others were later captured.

'Wrong Guy' Claims New Lawyer For Corona

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)— The new attorney hired by the family of accused mass murderer Juan V. Corona believes police have "the wrong guy."

"As far as I'm concerned, the man is innocent," said attorney Richard Hawk, a private criminal lawyer who has defended Mexican-Americans in the past.

Corona's family abruptly dismissed their defense attorney Monday in a surprise courtroom move and named Hawk to represent the defendant.

The Mexican-born Corona, suspected of slaying 25 transient farm workers, was present for the 10-minute court action, along with his wife, mother, a sister and brother Pedro who made the decision to replace public defender Roy Van Den Heuvel with Hawk.

"I only learned late yesterday I was being replaced and I have nothing more to say," said Van Den Heuvel.

"I was recommended to the family by people I represented in the past," Hawk said. "I've tried a lot of cases with Mexican-American people."

Mexican-American friends of the defendant, said Hawk, are collecting money for his legal case. He said he did not know how much had been collected.

Judge Denies Dismissal Of Racial Action

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A federal judge refused Monday to dismiss a suit charging officers at Vandenberg Air Force Base with racial discrimination against members of the Malcolm X Association.

The suit, filed by the American Civil Liberties Union, contended the group, composed mostly of black airmen, was denied use of meeting facilities or fund raising privileges on the Southern California base.

In a motion to dismiss the suit, the government argued that the court did not have jurisdiction in the case because the government cannot be sued for violations of constitutional rights without its consent.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren J. Ferguson denied the motion, saying his court had jurisdiction where there was alleged racial discrimination by any government agency.

Nuclear Weapon To Be Fired Tomorrow

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (UPI)— The Atomic Energy Commission will detonate a low yield nuclear weapon tomorrow — the first underground test since radiation leaked from a blast six months ago at the Nevada Test site.

The commission said Monday the latest test would have a punch of less than 20 kilotons, or 20,000 tons of TNT. The device will be triggered at the end of a thousand foot shaft at 7 a.m. EDT, weather permitting.

UNABLE TO find a teaching job, musician Thelma Gates turned to composing about a year ago, and today an album by singer Lou Rawls with her song, "How Thoughtless I've Become," is being released. In all she has written 15 songs, at the piano in her Sausalito home. The wife of Dr. Charles Klieman uses her maiden name because, "if I used my married name who back in Brooklyn knows from Thelma Klieman? I want they should know it's me — Thelma Gates — when I become famous." (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

SAUSALITO COMPOSER

Moxey For Fame's Sake

Marin Women

By JOAN LISETOR

Anybody back in Brooklyn remember Thelma Gates?

She was the little blonde girl who played the piano.

Well, she's Mrs. Charles Klieman now, and she lives in Sausalito. But if you hear a song on a new LP record by Lou Rawls, "How Thoughtless I've Become," with words and lyrics by Thelma Gates, it's the same Thelma.

AS SHE says, "If I used my married name who back in Brooklyn knows from Thelma Klieman? I want they should know it's me — Thelma Gates — when I become famous."

When Thelma and her husband, a resident in surgery at Mount Zion Hospital in San Francisco, and their son Mike, who will be 2 years old tomorrow, moved to Sausalito from the East last year, she looked for a teaching job. There were none, so she turned to composing, which she says is the best thing that ever happened to her.

"I'll be a success because I've got moxey," she says.

She describes her moxey.

"What was I, a novice with three songs, and I read Lou Rawls was appearing at the Fairmont, so I called him up. He answered the phone, 'hello dere,' and I said, 'You don't know me, but I have your next three hits'."

THE SINGER told her to come right over; she did, and he loved her songs, she says.

"It was so exciting. I went down to MGM while he was recording," she says. "It all happened so fast because the timing was right. He needed a new song with a new sound, and he has his own publishing company."

That was so simple she tried it again when Robert Goulet came to town and again with singer Leslie Gore. Both have heard her music and are interested but things are still tentative.

"If they will listen, they'll love it," she says about her music, but many efforts to reach other performers have failed.

"My husband comes home and says, 'Well, who did you call today?' And the other day I said, 'Barbara Streisand.' Who is she but a girl who went to high school in Brooklyn? But I couldn't get through to her, just her agent," she says.

HER MUSIC she describes as "Not commercial, a new sound, ballads that are somewhere between Burt Bacharach and Jimmy Webb." Ideas, she explains, come from personal experiences — new places or emotional feelings.

"I left my son with a new sitter one day, and I came home and sat down at the piano. I didn't feel right about where I had left him, and I kept thinking about that. Then came the inspiration for a song, I call it 'I'm Waitin' without a 'g' because I'm from Brooklyn, but if Robert Goulet records it it'll be 'I'm Waiting'. To hear it you'd never know it was about my son, but it was how I felt about leaving him."

The personality that usually bubbles is reflective when she discusses her own childhood.

"My father was an artist. He led a creative life," she says. "If you opened the refrigerator to get something to eat you found a hammer and nails he used to make his frames. That's what he thought a refrigerator was for, his supplies — not food."

Thelma's mother died when she was nine years old and her brother was 18, so it was just she and her father, she says.

"MY FATHER was my friend. He'd say I just want you to be happy, do what you want, but he never told me what to do," she says.

"A child needs to be told what to do. To my father material things never mattered. He would have like to have gone to the South Seas and been left alone to do his painting. Material things never mattered to him, but I needed roots."

Thelma says she loves California.

"California people are not hostile, and they smile," she says. "I found it very difficult to make the adjustment to the quiet of Sausalito. In New York there is something to do every minute, and moving here left a void after a life of diversions. That is why I turned to composing. I couldn't compose in New York with all the diversions."

Thelma attended schools on Manhattan — Music and Arts High School, Julliard School of Music, New York University and Columbia University. She has bachelor's and master's degrees in music from NYU and was working on a doctorate at Columbia but quit because she couldn't stand the structured teaching.

She says she is a good teacher, if a bit eccentric.

"ON AN INTERVIEW I'd tell the principal, 'I'll do a good job if you allow me leeway and remember I'm a little insane,'" she says.

She says she is careful not to influence her young son and won't push him into music.

"My husband sometimes takes out his stethoscope and tries to get Mike to play with it; I seat him at the piano and say 'play.' We try not to influence," she says laughing, "but do you know what one of his first words was? 'Guitar.' "

Her husband is typical of the public, when it comes to music, she says.

He knows what he likes, but he doesn't know why, she explains, so she tries out new material on him.

"He gives me encouragement. He says I am the world's foremost leading composer, but no one else knows it," Thelma says.

She has two fetishes, she says — scales and food.

"THE NICEST gift I have ever gotten was from Charles. He gave me a doctor's scale," say Thelma, a Libra. "Maybe it's an obsession but I know what scales are accurate in every town I've ever been in, and that includes Europe and Israel."

She made two trips abroad as a group leader for high school and college-age students when she was a teacher and another trip to Austria and Switzerland with her husband.

This fall the Kliemans are going back to New York on an eating trip.

"We have every night planned by where we are going to eat because that is something we just can't find here — a good restaurant," she says.

She names a few restaurants in the Bay Area that she has enjoyed, and says there are a few they have not tried yet, but if you want good food, you've got to go East.

Well, you can take the girl out of New York, but you can't take New York out of the girl.

Now do you remember Thelma Gates?

New Leader For Humane Auxiliary

Mrs. Simon Erlanger of Ross, who has been a member for 23 years, is the new president of the Humane Society of Marin Auxiliary.

She has previously been the auxiliary's treasurer, thrift shop chairman and secretary. She is also a member of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

Now a widow, Mrs. Erlanger was born in Modesto and she attended Notre Dame School in Santa Clara and Presentation in Berkeley. She has been a Marin resident "on and off" for 50 years. Aside from her auxiliary and hospital work she enjoys oil painting.

Mrs. Erlanger says that the auxiliary's purpose is to provide financial help for the Humane Society of Marin, and its main activity is to run its thrift shop at 360 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo. Volunteers staff the shop and also donate merchandise to it. All shop proceeds go to the Humane Society.

Anyone interested in animal welfare and in working in or donating to the shop may join the auxiliary, she says.

Other new auxiliary officers are Mmes. William Miles, vice president; Richard Keating, secretary; Daisy White, treasurer; and Gus Corbin, corresponding secretary.

Ex-Stewardesses Give $500 To Home

Marin Chapter of Clipped Wings, former United Air Lines stewardesses, has donated $500 to Marin House in Larkspur, a home for six moderately retarded women between the ages of 18 and 30.

The funds were used to purchase a refrigerator and a ping pong table. Clipped Wings also donated $100 to Forest Meadows Development Center in San Rafael.

ANTIQUE COLLECTOR

Her Life Was Changed By A Little Music Box

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—From model to music box collector and authority represents quite a contrast, but Vicki Glasgow managed to go from one to the other by simple means — the antiques bug bit her. Also, bitten: her husband, Robert, a certified public accountant.

It all started 10 years ago when the couple, hitting the antiques circuit in New England, came upon an eight-inch-tall music box they liked the sound of. It turned out to be a Regina, made by a firm established in the 1890's in Rahway, N.J. Eventually, they found a 15-inch Regina from the firm which became the leading American music box maker.

Then they began reading up on music box history, joined the Musical Box Society (it has about 1,000 members in the United States), and for Mrs. Glasgow a whole new career began.

Today, Mrs. Glasgow runs an antique music box shop at the Antiques Center of America, Inc., a complex of 110 shops and displays in the heart of Manhattan.

On her last shopping trip to Europe, Mrs. Glasgow lucked into a collection of "about 50" music boxes and their relatives that an English widow was selling. It, added to what she and her husband already owned and friends lent, became one of the most fascinating and earfilling special exhibits in the center's one year of operation. The exhibit, open to the public free and on view through July, features some 150 music boxes of all sizes, shapes, ages, tuneful variety, and price. One prize box is a whole "symphony" with bells, drums, organ et al able to play 10 selections from the likes of Wagner and Bizet.

John Lennon of the Beatles dropped in and bought a roller organ (with wooden cylinder and bellows) for $195. A Dallas collector (not identified) paid $2,200 for an Eroica Symphonion, whose triple discs play simultaneously. Tall as a grandfather's clock, it is considered one of the finest of music-boxes, the work of Paul Lochmann, a Leipzig engineer.

THE EARLIEST music boxes, developed in the late 18th century, were the cylinder type, making music with "teeth" or tines of a "comb" vibrating against pins on a cylinder.

Then came the disc type in the 1880's, first developed in Germany and the sensation of the home music field during the 1890-1910 era, says the society publication on music box history. Interchangeable metal discs, via a star wheel mechanism, played a tuned musical comb similar to that in the cylinder box.

Some of Mrs. Glasgow's boxes are not for sale, although with the addition of the English purchase she's not sure where they'll all go in the couple's Scarsdale, N.Y. home. As it is, she said, every room has some boxes and "we have music just with the flick of a switch anywhere in the house."

Mrs. Glasgow was born Vicki Wilson, daughter of a sportswear buyer for a Long Island store. As a child, she modeled at the store, and then as she grew into a tall girl with a model's slim, long-legged figure, she worked in showrooms of New York's dress and fur houses.

THE EARLY antiquing she and her husband did was in the field of Currier & Ives, daguerreotypes, old types, old tools and the like. Then that small music box discovered in New Hampshire changed their whole pattern.

What next for the collecting pair? More music boxes of course "as we upgrade our collection," she said. "Now we're getting into clocks too. Bob loves anything mechanical."

Most Popular Month

June is still the most popular month for weddings, according to the U.S. Bureau of Vital Statistics. August runs a close second, and September and December are nearly equally third. The fewest weddings are held in the months of January and February.

Some Summer Rules For Avoiding Accidents

This is the time of year when children climb trees, ride bicycles, roller skate and go hiking. They spend more of their time in the street, backyard or in the playground, sliding, swiming, running and climbing, all activities that involve a certain amount of hazard, the Health Insurance Institute reports.

While parents can do little about some of the dangers, they can eliminate the causes of preventable accidents, the institute says.

Teaching children good safety habits should begin early, even though teaching young children takes a great deal of time. According to government statistics some 19 million youngsters under 15 have injurious accidents annually, and almost 15,000 are fatal.

Basic safety rules include cautioning a child never to ride two on a bicycle built for one, and never hitch a ride on the back of a truck or bus.

Teach him to put away his bicycle and toys in out-of-reach spots where he and his playmates can't trip over them.

A temporary fence in the yard where children under 4 years old are playing will keep them out of the street and away from its dangers, out of neighborhood backyard pools, out of the reach of stray dogs and from becoming lost and frightened.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Just Tell Him The 'Helpful' Neighbors Take Sleeping Pills

DEAR HELEN:
I'm 19, and able to take care of myself. But my parents still alert our neighbors when they leave me alone for a weekend. And our neighbors are very burglar-conscious! So I'm out one perfectly good boy friend, unless you can tell me a way I can apologize.

I met this new guy at college. He's a stereo and hi-fi nut, as I am, so he said he'd bring over some of his portable equipment, plus records, Friday night. We had a great time listening to the good sounds, and talking, and it was almost 2 a.m. when he gathered up his stuff and left.

Then's when it happened! Our neighbors, seeing a man load what they thought was "stolen goods" into his car "in the middle of the night," rushed out with shouts of "stop thief!" and stuck a shotgun in his face, while the women hopped around saying the police were on their way.

Sure enough, they were. It took half an hour of explaining to get the embarrassed fellow off the hook, as by that time a crowd had gathered and everyone was telling a different story, plus trying to be in on the capture.

I haven't heard from him since. What can I say that will bring him around again? — NEIGHBORED OUT

DEAR N.O.:
If you two can't joke about this by now, then maybe you'd never make music together. A humorous card of "apology" should be sufficient — especially if you add, "Our neighbors now take sleeping pills." — H.

DEAR HELEN:
I go to school with bruises, and when my friend asks how I got them I can't tell her, because it's my mother.

I get the knocks for what my brothers do. They won't obey, and she takes it out on Me. Almost every day I get a beating, I guess because she thinks that's the only way she can make my brothers behave. It doesn't work very well.

How can I get adopted out? If I don't soon, I'll run away. — HURTING

DEAR HURTING:
Let the school nurse see your bruises. If your mother's beatings are this severe, she needs psychiatric help, and YOU need a foster home. The nurse will contact the proper agencies. — H.

DEAR HELEN:
In my spare time I do volunteer work in a mental institution. I've noticed that what these sick people need more than anything else is love. Many of them get very little from their families, who leave them to rust away, not even visiting or writing except perhaps once a year.

Not long ago a girl asked what she could do, without planned entertainment this summer. She could find lots of very rewarding things to do at State Hospitals, where she could help take the place of families that don't come around any more. — TRUE FEELINGS

DEAR HELEN:
Is it true the Black Panthers invented the saying, "Right on!"? — CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS:
That's what Huey P. Newton says. — H.

A variety of child disorders can be identified at an early stage from fingernail clippings, scientists at the University of Alabama report in a recent issue of "Medical Lab."

According to Dr. George Cassady, professor of pediatrics at the University's School of Medicine, clippings taken from newborn infants for analysis may someday replace tissue biopsies.

Learning how healthy a baby is as early aspossible is crucial to treating whatever disorders he may have, Dr. Cassady explains.

Larkspur Will Not Delay Employees' Pay Increases

The Larkspur City Council last night decided that delaying employee pay raises two months wasn't worth the $4,000 it would save.

"The idea of saving $8,000 intrigued me," said Councilman William G. Fleckles, "but $4,000 is just nickeling and diming."

Fleckles's comments referred to the council's vote last week to grant employees a 5 per cent pay boost but delay paying it until September. Only Councilman Benton A. Sifford Jr. opposed the delay.

Fleckles said last night that when he voted last week he was not sure of the amount to be saved but figured it would be about $8,000.

However, since learning the two-month delay would only add $4,000 to city coffers he could see no reason for delay, Fleckles added to nods of agreement from other councilmen.

On a motion by Councilman Neil R. Brixon, the council voted unanimously to approve pay raises beginning July.

Following last night's budget wrap-up session, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst denied reports that the council's action resulted from employee interest in collective bargaining.

On other budget matters before the council, Bathurst disclosed that Dane Coleman, Greenbrae civil engineer, was the planner he could hire to revamp the city's master plan for $4,500, far less than the $12,500 discussed in previous council meetins as the minimum needed for the job.

"Because of his knowledge of the area and the people we can save a few dollars," Bathurst said.

Last week the city manager told the council it could cut $8,000 from $12,500 set aside for revisions to the general plan, but refused to say in public how the savings could be achieved, instead urging a closed session. At the objection of an Independent-Journal reporter to such a closed session, the matter was continued.

As discussions began last night, it became apparent that at least three councilmen didn't share Bathurst's feelings of good fortune at getting Coleman at cut-rate prices.

Even before Coleman's name became public, Sifford objected to Bathurst's proposal. "I'm sure he could accomplish what we have in mind," he said, "but I have an objection to the individual he (Bathurst) is considering because of a conflict of interest."

Minutes later, after other councilmen had forwarded guarded opinions, it became clear they were speaking of Coleman — planner for the Tiscornia Estate property in and adjacent to Larkspur. (Tiscornia property comprises half the undeveloped land in Larkspur.)

Councilmen Fleckles and Alfred J. Malvino agreed with Sifford while Brixon maintained he could see no harm in hiring the planner.

"I have no objection to the gentleman you are proposing," Brixon told Bathurst, adding that planners are like attorneys — one case one week and another case the next.

"The interests of a (private) client may be different than the interests of a city," Sifford responded.

Bathurst said the Tiscornia plan, which Coleman is currently working on, will be before the city's planning commission within 90 days thus freeing the planner of any conflict of interest if he accepted the city's work.

After the meeting Bathurst said the Tiscornia plan will propose development of the property adjacent to Corte Madera Creek between Doherty Drive and Bon Air Road. The property is currently zoned for light density commercial use.)

Following further discussion of the master plan budget, the council approved retaining the $12,500 amount for planning.

It also reaffirmed its earlier position of establishing a screening procedure for selection of a planner as urged by the Larkspur Town Meeting.

In other action, the council approved amendments to the business license ordinance which will add $7,000 in revenue to next year's proposed budget now totaling $1,018,439. Increases in zoning and building fees are expected to raise another $1,000.

As of last night, the council had cut $10,000 from the proposed budget. Those cuts included $9,000 for councilmen's salaries and $1,000 proposed for pay hikes to two top administrators.

If the budget is approved as it stands, Larkspur property owners can expect a tax rate of about $1.945 per $100 assessed valuation — 5 cents above this year's rate.

To be considered at a later date is an incentive program for employees. If approved it would add another 2.5 per cent to some employees, pay raises.

Homes Damaged

John Leroy Novak of 50 Rica Vista, Novato, owner of Summit Building Co., reported to Novato police yesterday that vandals damaged 11 homes under construction along Marjory Court during the past month, resulting in damage to glass and piping totaling $400.

Car Spaces Win Over Landscaping

The Mill Valley Planning Commission, faced last night with a choice between two precise development plans for a 186-unit apartment project, chose the plan with more parking and less landscaping.

Planning Director Tom W. Newton said Mape Industries, which plans the apartments on Shelter Ridge above Highway 101, submitted two plans, one including the required 234 parking spaces and the other with 204 spaces.

Newton said a Mape spokesman told commissioners the firm could do more extensive landscaping with the 204-space plan, but the planning director said the "amount of landscaping gained was very little, really very minimal."

On this basis, he said, commissioners opted for the 234-space plan and denied a variance from parking requirements sought by Mape.

In other business, the commission continued to July 12 consideration of a four-lot split at Lomita Drive and East Blithedale Avenue.

Sutter Hill Development Co. has requested the subdivision to permit construction of a supermarket, drugstore and bank on 4.86 acres.

Mission Inn Is Abruptly Closed Due To Losses

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—The 95-year-old Mission Inn, where a young lawyer named Richard Nixon was married in 1940 and where four other U.S. presidents visited, closed Monday because of financial problems.

"I didn't know it was coming until last night," said George Parrish, manager of the inn. "They (owner representatives) just checked in and said we had to close down today."

A majority of the ownership is held by San Francisco hotelman Ben Swig, who has tried for years to keep the inn, a national monument, open in the face of continued losses.

"He (Swig) offered it to the city for $1 last week, and I suppose anybody could buy it for $1 at this point. The trouble is it loses about $20,000 a month.

Cosmonauts On 'Walking Binge

MOSCOW (UPI)—The legs suffer most duing prolonged weightlessness Soviet space scientists say, so they want the cosmonauts to walk and walk and walk.

The Salyut orbital station has a "miniature stadium" so the three Soyuz 11 cosmonauts, aboard for the past nine days, can have adequate exercise, the government newspaper Izvestia said Monday night.

"There is a miniature stadium on Salyut in order to give the cosmonauts good exercise for their muscles," Izvestia said.

"There are exercise devices of rubber and spring. Barbells are useless in space. There is a treadmill on which to walk or run as they grasp rubber grips anchored to the floor."

Sausalito Officer Denies Quota Arrests

By C. P. McCARTHY

A young Sausalito police officer — testifying today in the drunken driving trial of William M. Bennett of Kentfield — denied that the Sausalito Police Department operates on a quota system for arrests.

The officer, Blake Hoffman, 22, today completed four hours on the witness stand following selection yesterday of a Marin Municipal Court Jury of five men and seven women.

Bennett, 52, a member of the state Board of Equalization, was arrested by Hoffman April 25 in Sausalito.

The quota system charge was made last week in an article in the weekly Pacific Sun. Hoffman denied it today under cross-examination by Bennett's attorney, William O. Weissich of San Rafael. Weissich suggested the system required Sausalito officers to make one misdemeanor arrest a day and five felony arrests a month.

Bennett, who suffered facial injuries between the time he was arrested and the time he was brought to Marin County Jail, has claimed that he was struck by Hoffman and that Hoffman deliberately slammed on the brakes of his patrol car while taking Bennett to jail, throwing Bennett's face into a screen in the car.

Hoffman testified yesterday that he saw Bennett's car take a wide turn onto Second Street, crossing over a double line. The car returned to its own lane, Hoffman said, but then crossed about four feet over the line again.

The car, which bore license plates of an official state car, also had its high beam lights on, Hoffman said.

When he confronted Bennett in the parking lot of the Valhalla Innn Hoffman said, he noticed a "strong odor of alcoholic beverages" about Bennett.

Two other Sausalito officers arrived at the parking lot, Hoffman said, and a roadside sobriety test was given Bennett by one of the other officers.

Hoffman indicated Bennett failed the test, but when he attempted to take Bennett to county jail for booking, "an emotional scene" between Bennett and his wife developed in the parking lot, Hoffman said.

It was to prevent another such scene, Hoffman said, that instead of taking Bennett directly to the jail entrance of the Hall of Justice, he pulled his patrol car over to the side of Civic Center Drive near the lagoon.

Bennett charged after his arrest that Hoffman had pulled off to the side of the road, shut off his engine and lights, and was getting out of the car, when Mrs. Bennett and two friends — who had followed the patrol car — pulled up behind it.

Under cross-examination by Bennett's attorney, Weissich, Hoffman said the procedure of pulling off the road prior to taking subjects to the jail was "not unusual" for him.

He said he did it "to advise subjects of certain things to be sure when they arrive at jail there won't be a violent encounter."

Hoffman told Weissich he was not sure his motor and lights were on when the car was stopped near the lagoon, but he "believed" they were.

Earlier on the way to the jail, Hoffman said, he stopped in the vicinity of Zack's Restaurant, to meet another police officer to pick up some equipment.

He denied stopping there, getting out of the car and punching Bennett in the mouth, as Bennett has charged.

Hoffman said Bennett called him "an arrogant punk" and various obscenities, and made comments that "I was too young and that I wore my hat in a funny position."

Bennett refused to take chemical sobriety tests at the jail, Hoffman said, and later — when Bennett was taken to Marin General Hospital for treatment of his facial injuries — he refused to have his wounds washed until he was photographed, the officer said.

Photos of Bennett, with scrapes and cuts on his forehead, nose and lips, taken at the hospital and three days later, were shown to the jury yesterday.

Marin Alerted To Sonic Booms

Hamilton Air Force Base today advised Marin residents may hear sonic booms this evening or early tomorrow in connection with training exercises in the Western United States and Canada.

F-106 Delta Darts from the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron will join aircraft from the North American Air Defense Command and the Strategic Air Command in the exercises.

They will be on missions to intercept bombers simulating attack and some may achieve supersonic speed and residents may hear their sonic booms, the base information office reported.

Elderly Woman Is Found Dead

An elderly San Anselmo woman was found dead in her home yesterday after neighbors reported that she had not been seen for several days.

The body of Geraldine G. Salaun was found about noon in her apartment at 84 Madrone Avenue by the building manager.

Coroner Keith C. Craig said the woman appeared to have been dead about five days. He attributed death to natural causes.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Chapel of the Hills in San Rafael.

Minister Faces Prison For Pot As A Sacrament

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A minister today faced a sentence of from 10 years to life for using marijuana as a sacrament.

Rev. Wilber L. Minzey contended that marijuana was part of his Shiva religion.

Superior Judge S. Lee Vavuris in passing sentence Monday accused Minzey and his attorney of sacrilege in mentioning drug advocate Dr. Timothy Leary and Christ in the same breath.

Rev. Minzey was convicted last month of passing out marijuana to a gathering of his followers in Golden Gate Park. He was already on probation from other pot charges.

Antiwar VFW Post Suspended

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—A Veterans of Foreign Wars post here has been suspended from the national organization, perhaps because of antiwar activities, its commander says.

Mel Cohen, commander of West Madison Memorial Post 10203, said Monday his post received a 60-day suspension because of its antiwar resolutions and other peace activities.

"But we really don't know," Cohen said. "We haven't received any notification of charges yet."

Ara L. Fish, commander of the state VFW, said the suspension was his decision and was approved by VFW commander-in-chief H.R. Rainwater. Fish refused to describe charges against the post.

Pair Receives Minor Injuries In Two Wrecks

Two persons received minor injuries in two separate accidents yesterday in San Rafael, police reported.

Lynn Christine Auer, 24, of 2 Oak Avenue, San Rafael was to see her own doctor for injuries received at 2:59 p.m. in a two car collision at C and First Streets, police reported. The Auer car, southbound on C Street, collided with one driven east on First Street by Byrel Addelaide Hosford, 75, of 8 La Crescenta Way, San Rafael, according to police.

Charles Allan Saul, 18, of 123 Canal Street, San Rafael, received scrapes to his lower left leg and left elbow when his motorcycle collided at 1:30 a.m. yesterday with a car at Racquet Club Drive and Longwood Drive, police reported. Driver of the car was Lori Ann Lucia of 74 Meadow Road, Mill Valley, according to police reports.

Self-Education Comes To Public Schools

Among late "education innovations" is something known as "On Location."

The name appears to derive from the movie industry, in which a crew is "on location" if it is filming a sequence away from the studio. Where the idea derived from, we have no notion.

Tamalpais High School District has "On Location," and there have been some glowing reports of its success there. Also, there have been some not so glowing — it depends on whom you ask.

The same thing has been proposed for San Rafael High School District by a group of teachers and students.

WHEN A STUDENT is enrolled in "On Location," he is freed from the usual classroom routine. He goes out into the community on special projects, ostensibly supervised by the teacher.

Naturally, this has a great appeal to the students. Today's high school students are (we are told) much more mature and responsible than those of past generations — who, with similar carte blanche, doubtless would have spent many of their days fishing, shooting pool, or engaged in other nonproductive activities. Nevertheless, youth has not changed so much that it will fail to take advantage of the absence of routine and discipline. It wouldn't be youth if it had.

Supposing, however, that all the "On Location" projects are beneficial, that the high schoolers really buckle down to them, that the teacher really supervises them (quite a chore for him!). In other words, suppose that all goes as perfectly as the proponents of "On Location" describe it.

What, then, has the student gained by this new freedom?

SCHOOL (OR WHAT substitutes for school) has been made more interesting for him. He has been permitted to spend the days doing things he wants to do — which may be things of considerable educational value. He has not become bored; he has not been subject to discipline. He has been set free.

But what has he missed? He must have missed something, or else school is absolutely meaningless.

He has missed not only discipline, but also the disciplines.

THE CHOICE OF SUBJECTS for basic studies did not come about by accident. It is the result of centuries of trial and error. One's own language, mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, history, government — these are things of which some knowledge has been found essential for members of a civilized society. To make sure that all acquire some modicum of these disciplines, they have been structured into school curricula.

"On Location" abolished this structure. It puts the student in the position of the person who must educate himself without the classroom. The teacher becomes not a teacher in the usual sense, but a sort of overseer of an assortment of different projects in different places.

THERE HAVE BEEN many examples of men who educated themselves. But there have been many more examples of those who tried hard to do so but failed because they lacked knowledge and means to organize their education, as it is organized by the schools.

Discarding the structure that has been built up over the centuries is a doubtful business. School board members would do well to ask some very searching questions before permitting the young people with whose education they are charged to skip the classroom and go "On Location."

"Congratulations on exercising your constitutional rights under our great democracy!"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Moral Issue In Abortion Decision

The polemic from Frances S. Grew disputing Mrs. DePizzol's position on abortion contains the incredible statement that the abortion decision is medical, not moral. Granted, once this decision is made, it will be effectuated medically but to say the the decision is without enormous moral factors is simply to deny that any life at all exists before birth.

Abortion, whether one's conscience approves or not, is in fact denying life to a viable human being after its life has begun. As such, it has the deepest possible moral implications which cannot be avoided by the pretense that they don't exist. That is the ultimate irresponsibility.

Fairfax Does Not Need Housing Project

We have read with appalled interest the articles appearing in various papers concerning the Marin Town and Country Club commercial development.

We honestly believe that this is a golden opportunity to create a city or county park here in Fairfax that would do credit to the whole Marin community in providing both recreation facilities and affording pleasant walks which have been sadly needed for years in this area. I would suggest that the area be called the "Lord Fairfax Park and Recreation Center."

In no way do I feel Fairfax needs an additional housing development bringing in hoards of people that will tax the already over-burdened highway through our city and along the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Fairfax is a most unique, warm, hospitable western town and the majority of town's people live here because of this.

Furthermore, such a development would make necessary the increase of our police and fire protection not to mention additional schools and other sundry services further compounding the tax payer's present problems.

I cannot stress my feelings too strongly except to say that if such a housing complex is deemed essential, it would be far wiser to situate same up in Novato and stick it in a swamp!

Planners Are Ruining Novato's Landscape

My purpose in writing this letter is to protest against the ineptitude of the "No Plan" Planning Commission of the City of Novato.

Subdivisions for the Novato area are being approved by the Planning Commission without any real planning having taken place. The Planning Commission and staff go through the motions without any serious thought for the future. All that occurs are minor modifications of the contractor's design. Comprehensive planning with a sense of responsibility toward the present citizens of Novato appears to be completely beyond the present Planning Commission.

A case in point is the recent approval by them of the plans for the Woodland Heights subdivision. This particular subdivision, at the extension of Terry Circle and Arlington Circle, was recommended for approval by the planning staff to the Planning Commission under unusual and revealing circumstances. The following are some of the major conditions and exceptions which the contractor is requesting.

1. The extension of Arlington Circle requires an exception to the normal grade (fixed by city ordinance). This makes the engineering less costly to the contractor.

2. Fifteen of the 55 lots require variances from usual subdivision setback requirements so the contractor can take advantage of the inadequate pads which were graded 13 years ago.

3. Many of the proposed houses in the subdivision cannot be given fire protection from the existing water supply. The contractor has proposed a "temporary" storage tank which would supply the area with fire protection for two hours.

At the public hearing of the Planning Commission it soon became evident that the planning staff was unaware that "temporary" could mean up to 20 years and that fire protection was inadequate on this basis. Only a concerted effort by homeowners and the representatives of the fire chief and the water district resulted in the recommendation that this part of the plan be resubmitted to the fire chief for consideration of a larger "temporary" tank. No explanation was given as to why it was necessary to develop this subdivision with temporary storage tanks. . .

The total inability of the Planning Commission either to understand the nature of their responsibility or to comprehend what was involved was revealed when one member of the commission bemoaned the failure of the homeowners to "get together" with the contractor to "resolve their differences." This is similar to asking the victim to get together with the bandit to agree on how he is to be robbed.

The damage the Planning Commission is doing to our community is irreparable. Our neighborhoods are being destroyed. Our hills are being ruined. The future overcrowding of our schools is being ignored. The ability of our poorly maintained streets to handle the increased traffic is being overlooked. Our fire protection and police protection are not being given adequate consideration. The contractor's fungus is creeping over our hills. In short, no planning is taking place.

At a private meeting with the planning staff, one homeowner was told that the homeowners in Novato have a "gangplank syndrome." They are aboard and they want to pull up the gangplank so that noone else can come aboard too. This may be true, but at some point you have to pull up the gangplank or the ship will sink. We have reached that point. What we need now is a Planning Commission that understands this and realizes that its primary responsibility is not to the developers, but to those people who now live in the City of Novato. If our city is not to sink in a sea of troubles (as so many others have), some end must be brought to the wholesale approval by the Planning Commission of the rampant, unplanned growth of the city. I propose a moratorium on subdivisions in the Novato area until adequate planning has taken place.

CAPITOL REPORT

Time For Legislators To Tighten Their Belt

By RUS WALTON

SACRAMENTO — In 1960-61, it cost $2.5 billion to run state government in California.

In 1970-71 — this fiscal year which ends June 30 — it will cost at least $6.7 billion.

Before anyone smirks, "Yeah, but there are lots more people in California now," just chew on this: For 1960-61, the per capita cost of government was $159.12. For 70-71, the per capita cost will be about $336. For a family of four, that's $1344 in all types of state taxes.

You'd think that was enough of a load to carry. After all, when you add on federal taxes and local taxes, it gives you that "what the hell's the use" feeling.

BUT, SMILE. Things could be worse. And they will be. Next year state government — and state taxes — may cost you even more.

Randolph Collier (D-Yreka), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, says the state needs another $974 million in taxes. He started out at $1 billion but cut that by $26 million which was real thoughty of Old Randy. He wants $400 million of that for the public schools.

Mr. Collier once was known as the "father of California's freeways." Now that the concrete mentality is no longer in vogue, he's trying to change his image. Wants to be known as "the granddaddy of the public schools." At taxpayer's expense, of course.

OTHER LEGISLATORS are not quite as vast as Senator Collier. Only half-vast. They're talking about tax increases ranging from $250 to $500 million. Sales taxes. Income taxes. Business taxes. Sin taxes. Somewhere along the line, Governor Reagan will probably have to sign or veto a bill raising about $300 million in new taxes.

MORE MONEY. That's what they think of you. More money for welfare. More money for Medi-Cal. More money for schools. More money for state employes, including state college and university faculties.

Pay hikes at a time like this? If the legislators had any smarts, or guts, they'd hold the line this year. Or, maybe they have already figured out what they're going to say to those 125,000 unemployed aerospace workers. "Let's hear it, baby. Tell us how the State can afford $100 million for pay raises when we can't afford beans and franks and shoes for our kids."

IT'S TIME to face a few facts. Temporary or not California has fallen on some hard times. Legislative analyst A. Alan Post calls it an "acute depression." On top of that, the cost of living is going up. During the past three months, wholesale industrial prices have risen at the annual rate of 4.8 %.

Yet, in the face of these harbingers, politicians of both parties are prattling about a tax increase. It makes you wonder what they serve in those coffee cups at the Capitol. What the citizen, and the economy needs now is not a tax increase but a tax cut.

VERNE ORR told them how to do it. Leave the tax rate alone and start withholding as of next January. Use the $170 million increased revenue from withholding to help offset the expected drop in revenues. Use about half of the one-time, $530 million, "windfall" for capital construction, and give the other half back to the taxpayers.

The taxpayers have already tightened their belts. It's time the legislators did the same thing. Starting now, with the 1971-72 state budget.

Dumping Agnew Not Likely —He's Needed In The South

WASHINGTON — During president Nixon's recent foray into the Deep South, ostensibly to inaugurate a new waterway linking the South and the Midwest, an unscheduled exchange took place. The five southern governors, guests of the President on Air Force 1 in the flight from Mobile, Ala., to Birmingham, were talking, inevitably, about politics.

"I'll tell you one thing," said Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, addressing Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, "if you run in my state next year and if Spiro Agnew is on the Republican ticket and he comes in to campaign against you, he'll clobber you."

I just thought old George was going to jump right out of that plane," said one of the administration officials sitting in on the conversation.

THIS INCIDENT says several things about the state of party politics in the South and the role of the vice president. He is front and center in the Republican party's southern strategy. While he could show few gains from his barnstorming in the South in last year's congressional campaign, he won the allegiance of the hard-core Republicans who have built the party south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

This makes the talk of "dumping" Agnew in '72 sound dubious. He may hurt the ticket in the North, but if the Republicans want to carry the six southern states with their 66 electoral votes that went for the G.O.P. in 1968, and add perhaps one or two others that went for Wallace, it is essential for Agnew to be in place. And the evidence increases that the so-called southern strategy is a vital part of the Nixon plan for re-election.

Those who know Wallace and Alabama make no hard predictions on what he will do next year. The roar of the crowd is for the little governor a drug. It is his amphetamine, his speed. Whether he could forego it in another presidential year is the intangible in the equation.

A second strong pull is money. He is setting up a series of fund-raising dinners in the North and the South, the first in the North at Toledo, Ohio, on June 26. In Dallas an appreciation dinner drew 1,300. Nominally the charge is $50 a plate but Wallace aides say they let in hard hats at $25. The hard hats are the stake he is counting on in the border states and the North.

THOSE WHO HAVE observed Wallace at close range over the years credit him with astute political judgment. In 1968 he carried Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Louisiana and Arkansas for 45 electoral votes. This was far short of his minimum goal of forcing the election into the House of Representatives, where he would be in a powerful bargaining position.

Wallace knows that he could fail to do even that well in 1972. The history of third-party movements has been for the rocket to flare across the sky and then come down with a thud. Obstacles have been put in his way. As a result of action by the legislature in his own state, he may have to run as a Democrat rather than an independent. With bitter party factionalism, there is at least the possibility that he could fail to carry Alabama.

Yet the crowd roar is a strong drug. And he has the supreme court's anti-busing decision as a new target to get the segregationists out of their seats shouting for their hero. To surrender his national image would be a confession of defeat. After all, he got 13 per cent of the total vote in '68. So the odds are that the crowds will roar again — in the South at least — for the presidential candidate promising to repeal the recent past and restore the pristine purity of a segregated nation.

AS FOR AGNEW, he can count on another kind of job insurance. President Nixon, early in his career, went through the dumping trauma twice. Once was in the 1952 campaign when the fund contributed by wealthy private backers in his native California was exposed. Easterners who had helped to persuade General Eisenhower to head the ticket favored dropping Mr. Nixon. But Ike prevailed in a dramatic reunion with his No. 2 in West Virginia. The second, and far less serious, threat came in a dump-Nixon movement started in 1956 by Harold Stassen.

The president is not likely to subject his own vice president to that ordeal. And, besides, Agnew turns them on against the eastern seaboard, the iniquities of the Washington Post, the new York Times, Walter Cronkite and CBS. In the South that is a conspicuous asset.

China's Close Neighbors Suspicious Of Peking

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Fear of the intentions that may lie behind Red China's sudden smile and an almost overwhelming desire for her trade are the chief emotions that war within the nations on her threshhold.

A good example is Malaysia.

Malaysia reversed past policy last fall and voted in favor of a seat for Red China in the United Nations despite a continuous threat from pro-Peking guerrillas operating inside her northern frontiers.

This year a Malaysian trade delegation visited Red China and came under repeated urgings that Malaysia should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist mainland.

A PART of the bait was a Chinese offer to buy up 150,000 to 200,000 tons of Malaysian rubber.

Along with it was an expression by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai of keen interest in a Malaysian proposal for a neutralized Southeast Asia and his reported admonition to overseas Chinese, particularly in Malaysia, that they should be "completely loyal to the country you live in and not look to China as your homeland."

But almost simultaneous with the balm applied by Chou was a prediction on May 20 by the official New China News Agency of the eventual downfall of "reactionary" governments in Malaysia, Burma, Indonesia, the Philippines and Thailand.

THROUGHOUT Southeast Asia, with the exception of the Communist regime of North Vietnam, the overtures from Red China have been received with caution and, in general, the greater the proximity, the greater the caution.

Many have large Chinese populations which they fear are especially vulnerable to machinations of the Peking government.

Others await a final decision by the United States, its stand on a seat for the Communist regime in the United Nations and the kind of relationship that develops as the United States lowers its military stance in Asia.

AMONG SOUTHEAST Asia nations, Burma and Laos have diplomatic relations with Peking under conditions which range from cool to frigid.

Thailand does not have diplomatic relations but contacts are reported to have been established between Bangkok and Peking.

Indonesia would like to renew relations with the Red Chinese, particularly on matters of trade, but Indonesian overtures so far have been ignored.

Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos has said the Philippines would expand its contacts with Communist nations but has indicated he means mostly nations of the Soviet bloc. He remains suspicious of the Chinese.

Australia, farther to the south and at a considerable distance from Red China, would like to expand its trade with the Chinese and received some encouragement recently in the visit of a trade mission to Red China.

Beside Novato Meadows Grow New Townhouses, Row On Row

The name townhouse used to mean an elegant, expensive home within walking distance of Central Park, with crystal chandeliers and mahogany and a small army of servants.

That was before developers learned there is money in putting up something that is a cross between a single-family home, an apartment, and enlisted men's housing, and calling it a townhouse.

They are being touted as "low and moderate income housing," somewhat of a misnomer since there is no such thing as low-cost housing and the term "moderate" has to be stretched a mile to apply.

They are designed, the developers say, to provide persons who otherwise wouldn't be able to buy a home with a place to live, which in Marin these days covers a large field.

IT SEEMS as though every other person who walks into the Novato Planning Department these days has a set of plans for townhouses under his arm.

The Novato Planning Commission has been taking them in stride, but the moment of truth arrived recently when S. J. Garlick proposed to construct mainly townhouses on 400-plus acres west of the city.

Commission chairman Paul A. Oatis Jr. wondered whether Novato was on its way to becoming a community of townhouses. There have been from 1,500 to 2,000 townhouses "either developed or approved for development" in the past year, he said.

"I think cluster R-1 (single family homes) would be better for the city than townhouse after townhouse," Oatis commented.

IT'S HARD to conceive of Novato, originally a rural area and now a community of mostly single-family homes, becoming a townhouse city, but Oatis was concerned there would be an "overbundance of townhouses."

If the city's short-term housing committee is heeded, this will not come to pass, for it has as one of its goals a variety of housing throughout the city.

There is talk in some quarters that the single-family home is on the way out; that it is too costly, uses up too much land, and couldn't possibly meet the housing demands of an increasing population.

If this proves true, what happens to the traditional American dream of a home in the suburbs, with green lawn, the white fence with the little girl with the golden curls swinging on the gate?

Will she then line up outside a row of townhouses, along with six other golden-haired girls, to make sure daddy goes into the right house?

HOUSING, INDEED, is perplexing. It costs too much. There isn't enough of it. And now some people aren't sure we're living in the right type of housing.

Maybe Sam Walter Foss's line about "a house by the side of the road," will have to be changed to "a townhouse by the side of the freeway."

How Lindsay Missed The Boat In New York Traffic Tie-up

WASHINGTON — Last week New York had one of its worst traffic jams in history.

The reason for the complete breakdown was that Mayor John Lindsay and Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy did not follow the advice of President Nixon and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell in dealing with traffic tieups in major cities. Had the mayor and the police commissioner followed the guidelines approved by the president and the attorney general, almost everyone would have got to work on time.

The first thing Mayor Lindsay and Commissioner Murphy should have done was to go on television and warn the people that anyone stalled in his car on a turnpike or road leading into Manhattan would be arrested.

The mayor should have said that he had rented trucks and buses to haul people away. Anyone in a car in an area where there was a traffic jam would be subject to arrest, on the assumption that he was either participating in the traffic tieup or was a spectator.

THOSE PEOPLE STALLED on the Long Island Expressway coming toward the Triborough Bridge would be taken off to Shea Stadium and incarcerated there. Those who couldn't move coming down from Westchester and the Bronx would be thrown into Yankee Stadium. People stuck waiting to go through the Lincoln Tunnel or over the George Washington Bridge would be held in the Hudson tubes outside of Jersey City.

To break up the traffic jams so that the police buses and trucks could get through, recalcitrant drivers would be teargassed.

If this still didn't move the traffic, Commissioner Murphy could give orders for his men to move in on the stalled drivers and use their clubs.

WHILE CIVIL libertarians might squawk about the methods used by the police, Mayor Lindsay and Commissioner Murphy could defend their tactics on the grounds that the traffic tieups constituted a threat to the health and welfare of New York City.

The mayor could say, "It was vital that the government of New York City continue functioning, and I authorized Commissioner Murphy to use all legal methods including mass arrests to insure that the highways, bridges and roads to city hall were kept open."

Had the mayor followed through on the plan, he would have solved many of his most serious problems in one fell swoop.

FIRST, THE TRAFFIC jams would have been broken up in a few minutes, and those not arrested would have been able to get to work. Second, those arrested and incarcerated would have to put up a $25 bond. If they didn't appear for trial, the bond would have been forfeited.

Adding up the bonds of all the people who were stalled that day, the city would have been enriched to the tune of over $250 million, all of it money that Governor Rockefeller couldn't touch.

Thus the mayor would not only have kept his traffic moving but would have solved his financial problems at the same time.

IT WOULD ALSO be a warning to drivers in the future that if they got stuck in traffic they would have to suffer the consequences. It would make people think twice about driving into Manhattan and tying up the city.

I called Mayor Lindsay and asked him why he hadn't followed the president's and attorney general's advice concerning the breaking up of premeditated traffic demonstrations and he said, "Frankly, I was so mad at Rockefeller I didn't think of it."

Projects will include weed control, shrub trimming and other light maintenance projects. The teen-agers were selected from 28 applicants.

Chosen for the work program were: Larry Boeck, David Boesel, Chris Buchian, George Cleland, Arthur Defenderfer, Mike Dougherty, Steve Gorman, Mark Kilmer, Mike Roni, Robert Sloan, Francisco De Valle and Brian White.

Retirement Plan For Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, proposed a constitutional amendment yesterday to set mandatofy retirement for all congressmen and federal judges at 72.

Passage of the amendment, which would have only a partial grandfather clause, would mean that 17 of Miller's Senate colleagues could not seek reelection and seven of them would have to retire after next year.

Miller, who turned 55 on June 6, would be allowed two more full terms and four years of another before he would have to retire under the terms of his bill.

Cash Reported Stolen At Cleaners

Officers said the burglar apparently entered the store at 124 Corte Madera Avenue by removing several windows. The break-in occurred Saturday night.

Panel Will Discuss Mill Valley Measures

The six measures on Mill Valley's June 29 capital improvements bond issue will be discussed at a town meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at Park School.

Five speakers will be allowed two minutes each to present their arguments for passage of the $1.8 million bond measure. A question-and-answer session will follow.

Speakers and the items they will discuss are: Martha Fleischmann, sewer improvements ($450,000); Christian Dietrich, fire station ($240,000); Jerome C. Hauke, street improvements ($500,000); Jean Knapp, storm drainage ($300,000); and Robert Jenkins, park improvements ($90,000) and swimming pool ($250,000).

Several city department heads will attend to provide additional information. The meeting will be called to order by Mayor George E. Wickham and moderated by Eugene E. Crawford, chairman of the bond coordinating committee.

Voters in the June 29 special election will be able to approve some of the bond items and reject others. If all are approved, the city tax rate will increase approximately 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Demonstrators Miss Agnew

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—About 200 antiwar demonstrators jeered persons arriving for the annual Army Ball during the weekend but missed the guest of honor, Vice President Spiro Agnew.

The protesters demonstrated on one side of the Beverly Hilton Saturday night and Agnew entered on the other side.

Most of the guests appeared to pay no attention to the demonstrators who shouted obscenities and made a few unsuccessful attempts to block the driveway of the hotel. There were no arrests.

Traffic Patterns Hearing Delayed

A two-year-old plan for improving traffic flow in downtown San Rafael was taken off the shelf last night for a public hearing and then put back on the shelf for at least another month.

The San Rafael City Council heard from proponents and opponents of the plan before continuing its hearing until 7:30 p.m. July 12.

The plan calls for addtional one-way streets and less on-street parking places downtown.

It was submitted by D. Jackson Faustman, a Sacramento traffic consultant, in June 1969; met opposition at a hearing in July 1969, and has been shelved since.

Faustman suggests making Fifth Avenue one-way westbound and Fourth Street one-way eastbound between Irwin and G streets; A Street northbound and B Street southbound between Second Street and Fifth Avenue, and C Street northbound and D Street southbound between First Street and Fifth Avenue.

Also in the plan are proposals for a $250,000 project to route westbound Fifth Avenue traffic along a one-block S-curve at G Street to meet two-way traffic on Fourth Street, and a $75,000 project for widening Fourth Street from H Street to the intersection with Second Street.

The only part of Faustman's report recommended for immediate implementation by the city's traffic committee was the removal of parking from the south side of Third Street and the north side of Second Street, City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr. reported last night.

About 30 persons attended last night's hearing.

Opposition to one part of the plan was summed up by Councilman Harry A. Barbier, who asked, "Who are we taking care of here — the people of San Rafael or people rushing through town?"

Thomas R. O'Toole of Milani's Garage, 1117 Third Street, opposed removing parking from the one side of Third Street. Such a move, he said, would "kill the merchants on Third."

Walter E. Zurcher, chairman of the San Rafael Downtown Merchants Committee, supported the plan. His committee, as well as the board of directors of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, has approved the proposal for making Fourth Street one-way, he said.

Zurcher said his committee included 18 merchants, which Councilman Fred E. Jensen said wasn't enough.

Jensen suggested a poll of downtown merchants be taken by the city on the plan, and the council directed City Mgr. James H. McCown to arrange for such a poll.

San Rafael real estate man Robert A. Roumiguiere voiced the strongest support for the one-way plan, warning the council that San Rafael "could be a dead and decaying city" in only a few years unless shoppers —"who pay our bills" — can get in and out of town."

Hub Tie To ABAG Is Ended

The San Anselmo City Council last night voted to pull out of the Association of Bay Area Governments.

The vote was 3-2 with Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson and councilman James F. Reed against.

The action was not final as it will be reconsidered at the time the council passes on the final budget for fiscal 1971-72.

The action was taken in an economy move in which the council was paring items from the budget.

Reed said that withdrawing was a step backwards. He said that he did not approve of many things in ABAG, but that he felt it was worth the $439 annual dues just to be there to voice the side of small cities.

Councilman Warren W. Perry said that when he has attended, he felt as though the meetings were rigged and dominated by the larger cities.

Reed countered that small cities have influenced some decisions in ABAG. He cited one example of the small cities' influence in getting ABAG to withhold its opposition to the Knox bill to form a regional government.

Anderson said that San Anselmo's withdrawing from ABAG would make it appear that the city did not support a regional governmental concept.

Reed argued that the city needed the approval of ABAG before it could get any state or federal grants.

However, their arguments could not sway the minds of the three economy-minded councilmen.

Takes Three Hours To Slice $1,896

The San Anselmo City Council succeeded last night in cutting only $1,896 from a $1,718,292 budget for fiscal 1971-72 in a budget study which lasted more than three hours.

The proposed budget is up $244,951 from the current budget. It would require a tax rate of $2.53 per $100 assessed valuation, compared to this year's $2.35. Last night's cuts would trim the anticipated new rate by about half a cent as one cent brings in $3,100 according to City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel.

The largest item cut was $600 from the proposed $3,000 for extra court cases. The board saved $439 in annual dues by voting to withdraw from the Association of Bay Area Governments. It cut the appropriation for the chamber of commerce by $100, reducing it from $3,600 to $3,500 for next year.

The department accounts approved last night (with the proposed budget figure in parenthesis) were city council, $5,059 ($5,259); city administrator $16,460 ($16,510); city clerk $21,784 ($21,884); city attorney, $13,982 ($14,582); citizens committee on zoning and housing $236 ($543), and non-departmental, $21,908 ($22,447).

Department budgets approved without change and the amount proposed were finance officer, $15,643; city treasurer, $632; design review committee, $1,481, and planning commission, $38,865.

The council adjourned until 8 p.m. today to continue its study of the budget.

Iraqis In Peking

BEIRUT (UPI) — A high ranking 11-man Iraqi economic delegation flew to Peking today for a five-day official visit and talks with government leaders, Baghdad Radio said.

Recreation Fund Due Hearing

Terra Linda Recreation-Park District directors will consider adoption of a budget estimated at between $60,000 and $70,000 when they meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in the recreation center.

Budget figures are uncertain because the board did not start out with a specific proposal. Instead, figures were discussed and added line by line.

This year's budget is $68,845, representing a $3,085 increase over last year's budget.

Cobbs: Risk Death For Beliefs

By MARY BURNS

"At this particular time in our history, unless we get more people who are committed and are willing to die for their commitment, we've had it," psychiatrist-author Price Cobbs said last night.

Cobbs told the Urban Training Institute of Golden Gate Baptist Seminary that a minister struggling to serve an urban culture should decide to die for what he says he believes.

Cobbs — examining the urban minister's responsibilities, his mandate and his commitment — said the institutions of America reflect the views and attitudes of the powerful rather than the needs of the poor. "Are you thinking of yourself as an articulator of the needs of the powerless!" he asked.

Cobbs, a San Francisco physician and coauthor of two books, "Black Rage" and "The Jesus Bag," with psychiatrist William Grier, told his all-white audience of the problems of growing up a black in this country.

The attitudes which would brand different people as inferior are ingrained in the American culture he said. "We tend to view those who are different as somehow imperfect versions." He said that the metaphors used by the leadership of the country in referring to the Vietnam War are essentially adolescent because "we believe that these people are not white and are somehow less than us."

"Much of what we say under the guise of ministering to people is really trying to get people to act more like us," Cobbs said.

He called American morality "essentially middle class" and said that middle class values help to formulate the existing disdain for welfare programs.

"The idea that we can't commit large sums of money to solving the problems of poverty is a myth," Cobbs said. The United States is "privately rich and publicly poor," he added.

Cobbs told the ministers and seminary students that rather than studying the black man they should examine what it means to grow up white in this culture, "not feeling that you are such a bad person but just examining how you have grown up."

He cited cases in his work of whites who found it impossible to engage in any experience that would make them feel like "anyone who is called 'different.'"

He called the black man "the victim," and said that ministers who serve an urban setting must imagine what it is like to be the "perennial institutionalized victim."

Cobbs challenged the "standards" set by institutions and persons, and imposed on others without regard to one's fallibility. "What are some of your entrance requirements for being in your church or even into your own intimacy?" Cobbs asked.

He often mentioned the late Martin Luther King, saying King "acted out the classic struggle of the American black man.

"From the beginning he was condemned to death. I believe he knew this and knew that he could do nothing about it. It was his nobility in the face of death that caught the attention of black people.

"As we viewed the life of King it made us think that if we were going to pull it off we would have to form convictions considering the possibility of death. And if we were going to choose to die we would have to die for something that would go beyond us."

Besides his private practice, Cobb is assistant professor of psychiatry at the San Francisco Medical Center of the University of California.

Tools Taken

Power tools valued at more than $300 were taken between 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. yesterday from a construction trailer belonging to Clearwater Hydromechanical Corp. of Burlingame, while it was parked at the west end of Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael police reported today.

Proposed Richardson Bay Path Runs Into Difficult Roadblock

Like a baby reluctant to be born, the embryonic Richardson Bay Pathway may have to be dragged kicking and screaming into reality, the Tiburon City Council was told last night.

City Engineer Ray W. Foreaker, who is attempting to wrap up details of design for paving and improving the path, said right-of-way for an important connecting link to the path is proving difficult to obtain.

So serious are roadblocks to obtaining the connection between the path and Del Mar School at Avenida Miraflores, said Foreaker, that bids for paving the path almost certainly will have to be advertised before the access trail is a surety.

The heaviest traffic on the walkway will funnel in at this point, said Foreaker.

The city engineer reported he is prevented from running the access path along either the east or west side of Pine Terrace by a reluctant property owner on one side and the California Division of Highways on the other.

The property owner is willing to grant a six-foot access easement, but fences must be built on both sides of the path, thus producing a tunnel effect and a very narrow path, he said.

On the other side of the small Pine Terrace Subdivision, he said, the division of highways needs a road shoulder to install a left turn lane at Avenida Miraflores. Tiburon had hoped to use the shoulder for the access path.

Councilmen M. Carlisle Becker and Anne L. Ellingwood both called the Avenida Miraflores-Tiburon Boulevard intersection one of the most dangerous in the city and urged against delay in the left turn channelization.

Foreaker said the channelization would be delayed for about a year if the highways division had to seek other land for it.

Miss Ellinwood cautioned against moving too fast on final details for the path lest federal funds be jeopardized but asked interim improvements to make the path immediately useable for bicycle and pedestrian traffic.

She suggested mowing a six-foot-wide path through the weeds along the trail, compacting the existing earth and sealing the surface with oil.

This treatment, she said, would hold through winter and allow permanent paving to be delayed until after the beginning of the new fiscal year.

With this delay, she said, the city has been assured by staff members of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that a 50 per cent contribution to pathway improvements is probable.

The Richardson Bay Pathway was conceived in December when the city bought the two-mile former railroad right-of-way for $100,000, but its development has been stymied by problems in funding and questions over materials to be used and improvements to be made.

A $50,000 appropriation to Tiburon for half the acquisition cost has been approved, and a HUD contribution to improvement of the path is virtually assured if construction is delayed until after July 1. Miss Ellinwood estimated improvements could run to $80,000, although Donald K. Loomis, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, thought $120,000 might be more likely.

Foreaker said he would present plans and specifications for the path at the council's June 28 meeting. Bids can be advertised the next week and opened either at the July 11 meeting or earlier in the month if the council wishes.

Mayor Denis T. Rice instructed Foreaker to look into interim paving of the path to make it useable until permanent paving is done. The city engineer estimated such interim work would cost about $5,000.

Chicano Hits Educational System

By STEVE SWENSON

A self-proclaimed Chicano militant cussed, accused and upset a Marin County audience of elementary and secondary school teachers yesterday by telling it as he sees it in the Chicano community.

Gregorio Rios, poet and lecturer from San Jose, addressed the group of 250 teachers who are participating in a week-long seminar at Dominican College exploring the history, culture, education and future goals of the Chicano people.

"You people are guilty of oppressing us," Rios told the audience. He declared that an educational system which is white, Anglo-Saxon and Protestant oriented has stripped the Chicano of his culture and language.

He told the teachers that education in America is "nothing but bull xxxx to the Chicano and that is why so many drop out."

Rios then condemned American capitalists who, he said, tell Mexico to send their peasants here so America can carry out her economic plot to exploit the Chicano. "This country has exploited countries like no other country," Rios asserted.

"The capitalists make our people feel like prostitutes when they behave in a way that is acceptable to the Anglo," added Rios. "If that's the way I have to live, then I totally reject it."

He said the capitalists are representative of the meaninglessness of life and the meaningfulness of the dollar, and that they don't go into a poorer country To help the people but rather to help themselves.

One woman from the audience asked Rios if he wanted to discuss the Chicano problem with the teachers or was he a provocateur seeking to upset the audience. Rios answered, "I am a provocateur."

Rios added, "I have been disrespectful today, but I do respect you. I'm saying things I hope you will sincerely think about. I'm feeling for millions of my Chicano people."

Rios said that when the Chicano leaders do get some money they educate and radicalize their children by telling them that the Man (referring to police or the establishment) hates the Chicano.

He said the Chicanos should learn from the blacks to fight back, violence for violence. "We have to fight back as long as you people are racist, exploit us and keep the Chicanos in jail," Rios said. He added that whites get a slap on the hand for a marijuana possession while a Chicano might get 10 years. "Justice? Yeah. Just us," Rios said.

All we want is the opportunity to express ourselves as Chicanos and to live in a way that is relevant to us," Rios asserted. "We want to be treated as human beings and we want you to give us the respect we had to give you."

Rios said this is what "Chicanismo", the Chicano movement is all about. He told his listeners they can't be isolated in Marin County; they must contribute something to the movement if they feel it is right.

In a panel discussion which followed, Felix Ortiz, president of the Chicano Club at West Valley College, said he believed in freedom and thousands of Chicanos are going to fight for freedom and equality, not for white people, but for themselves.

Daniel Carrillo de los Reyes, moderator of the symposium, told his listeners — several of whom said they felt sick because of the negativism — that he respects them. "We have to say it like it is," Reyes said, "so we can go out and do something about it."

Damage At $3,000 In Vandalism

Three cases of vandalism with damage estimated at more than $3,000 occurred over the weekend, San Rafael police reported today.

Vandals did more than $2,000 damage between 5:30 p.m. Sunday and 11 a.m. yesterday to the unoccupied home of Robert Stearns at 110 Mountain View Drive, Francis McEnerney, vice president of Frank Howard Allen and Co., real estate firm, reported to police.

Dirt was poured into the fuel tanks, engines and radiators of a bulldozer and 1.5 yard loader, doing $1,000 damage, sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 7:30 a.m. yesterday, according to police reports. The equipment was parked on a hill in back of 4 Park Ridge Road, said owner Edward L. Dorset of San Geronimo.

Vandals broke 13 windows at Vallecito Junior High School at 50 Nova Albion Way, sometime Thursday or Friday, Principal Otto F. Geiger Jr., reported to police. No estimate was made on the damage.

Mill Valley Nod To Driving Range

An $85,000 golf driving range near the Mill Valley Small Craft Harbor, to be built by a private developer at no cost to the city, last night won endorsement from the city's parks and recreation commission.

Parks and Recreation Director Don L. Dimitratos said commissioners heard a proposal by developer Richard Misuraca and Malcolm Brown, professional at the municipal golf course.

Commissioners declared the driving range to be compatible with the harbor and voted to ask the city council to approve it in principle.

Misuraca said he would return with precise figures showing the amount of income which could be expected if the council approves the concept.

Review Of Budget Finished In Tiburon

The Tiburon City Council finished its review of the 1971-72 budget last night by approving $106,591 in departmental spending after adding $2,500 to the recommended spending program.

At the request of Mayor Denis T. Rice, councilmen added the $2,500 to the parks and recreation budget for an outside consultant to continue open space and park inventory.

Departmental budgets approved, with this year's figures, in parenthesis, are: parks and recreation, $1,010 ($2,805); public works, $70,783 ($63,550); retirement system, $10,424 ($9,652) and equipment replacement, $14,374 ($10,992).

The increasd parks and recreation fund will allow for establishment of a parks and recreation department for the first time in the city's seven-year history. No parks and recreation director will be hired this year, however.

Donald K. Loomis, chairman of the parks and recreation commission, asked the council to include $80,000 in the budget for park acquisition, but was turned down.

Councilmen told him they would consider such an appropriation when the budget is completed and surpluses are known.

Last night's action by the council, sitting as a finance committee, will require final council ratification on presentation of a final budget by the city staff.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

COMMISSION — Agreed to hold open one vacancy on the planning commission and two on the parks and recreation commission to fill with Strawberry and Bel Aire residents if annexation of the two areas is successful. Present commissioners would be asked to continue in office until the annexation election Sept. 14.

WIRE — Prohibited barbed wire and electrified fences on city property and rights-of-way, except for a single strand of barbed wire about five feet and transistorized electrical fences activated only between 10 p.m. and 5 a.m. The exceptions were a concession to property owners, who complained of deer eating their gardens.

CAMPING — Asked an ordinance prepared requiring sanitary facilities and a fire permit for campers or on private property. Rice said he favored prohibition of camping altogether.

LANE — Accepted St. Bernard Lane as a city street.

CLOSED — Went into closed session to discuss appointees to the city planning commission and housing committee. Councilmen Branwell D. Fanning and Albert H. Sennett were absent.

Good Condition After Crash

A Santa Rosa woman was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital following a two-car accident Sunday near Petaluma.

The woman, Beverly Pereyda, 27, received cuts of the right thigh when the car she was driving was hit broadside by another car that failed to stop for a stop sign at Stony Point and Pepper roads, California Highway Patrol said.

Treated for cuts at the hospital were her passenger, Marie Donelson, 24, of 802 Denman Road, Petaluma and the other driver, Amos Till, 61, of San Francisco.

Arabian Horse Show Scheduled

The Golden Gate Arabian Horse Association will present its 13th annual all-Arabian horse show and sale, Thursday through Sunday, at the Sonoma County Fairgrounds in Santa Rosa.

Proceeds will go to St. Vincent's School for Boys in Marinwood. There will be performances at 1 p.m. each day and at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Marinwood Rec Budget On Agenda

The Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission will hold a special meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Marinwood Community Center to discuss next year's budget.

William A. Gordon, recreation director, said the board hopes to keep the budget at this year's level, $105,000. The revenues come from a tax rate of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation, funds from the swimming pool, and other recreational activities and a reserve fund.

At last night's regular meeting, plans for July 4th activities were discussed. The commission is planning a variety of activities including swimming, tennis, pancake breakfast, watermelon feed, ice cream and a band.

Outdoor Education Program Available

Information on enrollment for a children's outdoor education workshop, with emphasis on ecology, field trips and art, is available through Roland C. Williams, 331 Madrone Avenue, Larkspur.

The Independent-Journal Friday reported details of the program could be obtained from Mark Collin, one of two Sonoma State College students presenting the workshops. Inquiries should be directed to Collin care of Williams, who recently moved to Larkspur from Mill Valley.

Chain Collision Hurts Santa Rosan's Back

George C. Gorham, 26, of Santa Rosa, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for back pains suffered when his auto was involved in a three-car chain reaction accident at 4:40 p.m. yesterday on Lakeville Highway, west of Casa Grande Road, Petaluma.

Police said cars driven by Harry Mortenson, 30, of Santa Rosa, and Rolan O. Williams, 58, of Folsom, also were involved.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

U.S. Troops Get Top Treatment; Vietnam Civilians Languish, Die

The Vietnamese people are the innocent victims of a most unpopular war. The number of civilian casualties during more than 20 years, is not known because these figures were not compiled. It has been estimated that during the Past decade, there were more than 1,000,000 casualties and 300,000 killed among civilians. Included in these figures are many children.

E. A. VASTYAN, B. D. of Hershey, Pa., wrote about the problem in a recent issue of Annals of Internal Medicine. American troops receive excellent care and the death rate is one per cent as compared with 4.8 per cent in World War II. Wounded servicemen reach combat hospital units within 40 minutes; some receive care within 5 minutes.

In contrast, civilian casualties have received miserable care. There has been some improvement but the physicians face an insurmountable task. Medical facilities for the natives are inadequate and poorly staffed. Many of the injured wait in the yards for weeks and months to be admitted to a hospital. In some places two and three are put in a bed.

IN 1967, THERE were only 1,000 Vietnamese physicians serving a population of 16 million. Seven hundred were in the military, 100 in Saigon, 100 doing other work (administrative and political.

The county had two medical schools but one was destroyed by enemy fire. During the last few years, other nations, including our own, have tried to help. The American Medical Association, for example, has supported 700 of its members who volunteered for a two months tour of duty.

CIVILIAN HEALTH problems are getting worse. Even in peace time Viet Nam has never been a healthy nation. Malaria, tuberculosis, parasitic diseases, typhoid, smallpox and trachoma are prevalent. Ten years ago life expectancy was 35 years and half the children died by age 5.

To all of this we can now add the more than 150,000 civilians who are amputees, paraplegics, or blind. There are 258,000 orphans and 131,000 war widows. We are committed to help their war efforts but is our military aid creating more devastation in terms of human misery?

FEVERLESS

M. writes: My sister's temperature never goes over 97, even when she is sick. Are there some people who never have fever?

REPLY

Yes, especially those who never develop ailments that induce fever. Let's not brag about your sister because she might become ill (we hope not) tomorrow with a 104 degree temperature.

NEED FOR FLUIDS

A reader writes: What causes dehydration after surgery?

REPLY

Sweating, loss of blood and other tissue fluids, and going for many hours without eating or drinking. This is one reason why intravenous feedings are given after an operation.

LIE DETECTOR

P. F. writes: If a person made false statements which he thought were true, would it show up on the lie detector?

REPLY

It wouldn't, if the person believed his statements to be true. The rate of breathing, blood pressure, and heart rate would remain the same.

DAILY ONION

N. S. writes: Will eating a raw onion every day make the face erupt?

REPLY

No, but the tear ducts may.

GETTING READY — Betty and Walter Van Gelder (in chairs) check the world atlas for facts about their new home, Afghanistan. The younger Van Gelders (left to right) Holly, Amy, Cory and Mark, seem more interested in whether there will be places for camping. The family moves to Afghanistan next month for a two year stint with the Peace Corps.

Family To Do Peace Corps Work

By MARY BURNS

Fourteen years in Marin County is hardly adequate preparation for living in Afghanistan. However, a Marinwood family plans to make the move in two weeks.

Walter B. and Betty Van Gelder and their children, Cory, 10, Holly 12, Amy, 14, and Mark, 16, will vkave June 25 for Philadelphia to join other Peace Corps volunteers for their flight to Kabul, Afghanistan.

The Van Gelders, who reside at 574 Kernberry Drive, are among a select group of families being sent to developing nations under a new Peace Corps program.

Van Gelder will teach architecture at the University of Kabul; Mrs. Van Gelder will teach English in the capital city and the children will attend an international school.

"Volunteering for work with the Peace Corps has been on our minds for about a year," Van Gelder explained. They received an invitation to Afghanistan a month ago.

"We joined because we believe in the work the Peace Corps is doing. Its approach is not material aid but people aid which is more meaningful. This program is attractive for a family because it gives the children a chance to see another culture and another people," Mrs. Van Gelder added.

This is only the second year that families have been accepted as volunteers. As countries requested more experienced personnel, the Peace Corps found it necessary to relax its stringent no-family policy. Families are sent to more urban areas of a country where adequate educational and medical services exist.

During their two-year assignment, the Van Gelders will receive a living allowance but no salary. Each month $200 will be put aside in a savings account to help them readjust to America. They will also receive a small vacation allowment.

Each member of the family is allowed only 80 pounds of luggage. They will take no vehicle and no household furnishings. A strict Peace Corps rule is that volunteers live on the level of the people with whom they are working.

The University of Kabul, the only university in the country, is just beginning its school of architecture. "New architecture in the country shows strong western influence," Van Gelder uaid. "Our hope is that by teaching architecture in the country, we can help the Afghans realize and develop their own native architecture adapted to their country."

The small country--it is only 14 miles long--has a climate similar to that of Denver, Colo. Its language, closely related to Persian, should provide a fitting challenge to the Van Gelders, who will have to learn to write backward from right to left.

The Van Gelders first three months in Afghanistan will be spent in school. They will study the language, history and culture of the country, and find a place to live. Mrs. Van Gelder will have a Peace Corps-trained man-servant (the rigid Moslem culture is completely male-dominated) to help her with cooking and shopping during these 12 weeks. Should he and the family gel, he will remain with them throughout their stay.

The family's meals of fresh vegetables, fruits, lamb and a little beef will be cooked on a bottle gas stove. Because of the high incidence of water contamination, all the family's water will have to be boiled.

The Van Gelders evidence more than the usual amount of excitement, some healthy fear and an idealistic desire to help a country struggling to develop its own character. "It is very important to us that we be there not as tourists but as involved persons," they say.

Van Gelder, 47, is not new to overseas life. He studied, as a Fkpbright scholar, at the University of Delft in Holland for one year. The Danbury, Conn., native received a bachelor's degree in architecture from Cornell University and a bachelor's in geology from Washington and Lee University. He is a member of the American Institute of Architects and the Sierra Club. He and his family are active in the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin County.

Betty Van Gelder, 42, a California resident for 39 years, is a former school teacher and a native of Holdridge, Neb. She graduated from the University of California at Berkeley and taught in the California public schools for several years. She was also on the board of the American Civil Liberties Union.

For 10 years Van Gelder was associated with Crawford and Banning, a San Rafael architectural firm. Recently he has been employed by the Coast Guard Architectural Office in San Francisco.

Armed Man Gets $1,500 Plus Jewels

A Kentfield woman was bound and gagged and robbed yesterday of about $1,500 in cash, as well as jewelry and antique silver, by an armed man who invaded her home.

Marin County sheriff's deputies said today that Arlene Grossenbacher, 27, of 30 Rosebank Avenue, opened her front door at about 9:45 a.m., answering a knock which she thought would be a dishwasher repair man.

Instead, she told deputies, she was met by a tall, blond-haired man, between 40 and 45 years old, armed with an automatic pistol.

He forced her back into the residence, taped her hands and feet and gagged her, before proceeding to pick up the cash — weekend receipts from a San Francisco restaurant owned by her husband — which was on a living room table.

The man also loaded jewelry and silver into pillow cases before leaving the house about 10:15 or 10:30 a.m., deputies said.

Value of the jewelry and silver had not been estimated today, deputies said.

Mrs. Grossenbacher worked the gag loose, hopped to a telephone and was able to summon help by dialing with a knife in her mouth.

Deputies described the robber as having thinning blond hair and a medium build, and wearing tan pants and a striped shirt. He was about six feet, two inches tall, Mrs. Grossenbacher said.

STARS ABOVE

The Little Dipper Needs Explanation

By SHERMAN WALKER

The Little Dipper (or more properly Ursa Minor or Smaller Bear) is not as well known to the general public as it deserves. It is moderately bright, and the star at the end of the handle of the dipper is the North Star, which makes it the cynosure of all eyes. That is more than just a figure of speech. Cynosura comes from a Greek word meaning "the dog's tail" and was once the name of The North Star which indicates that the Little Bear was once known as a dog.

This figure should not be confused with the Pleiades, often erroneously called the Little Dipper.

To locate the Little Dipper, face northward and look at the region of the sky that is above the North Star. The dipper extends from the North Star toward the overhead point.

The two stars at the outer edge of the dipper's bowl are about as bright as the North Star. They are called the Guardians of the Pole because they seem to march around it throughout the night.

The celestial north pole is the point where the extension of the axis of the earth would apparently touch the sky. The North Star is not exactly at that point but it misses it by about 1½ degrees.

The North Star is approaching closer to the true pole and will come within a three-fourths degree of it. After that, the star will apparently recede from the pole and we will have no real guide to that point for a time. This is not because the star moves, but because the axis of the earth changes its position.

Seven Receive Medals Of Honor From President

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon conferred the Medal of Honor on seven Vietnam combat veterans at a private White House ceremony today.

The nation's highest award for courage in battle was presented to six Army men and one marine.

The medal winners included Maj. Kern W. Dunagan, Tucson, Ariz.; CWO Michael J. Novosel, Ft. Bragg, N.C.; S. Sgt. Franklin D. Miller, Elizabeth City, N.C., whose mother, Mrs. Gloria M. Shipman now lives in Farmington, N.M.; Sgt. Richard Penry of Petaluma, Calif.; Sgt. Peter C. Lemon of National City, Mich.; Spec. 4 John P. Baca, a native of Providence, R.I., who lives in Costa Mesa, Calif., and Marine Pfc. Raymond M. Clausen Jr., Hammond, La.

Javits Calls Funds For Jobless Crucial

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said today any veto by President Nixon of proposed emergency employment legislation would be a "cruel blow" to the unemployed and the nation's economy.

Javits, speaking at the annual U.S. Conference of Mayors, said he hoped that in the "highest interest of the nation the President will not veto" such legislation but permit it to become law.

Javits referred to proposed Senate and House bills called the Emergency Employment Act of 1971.

The Senate bill would allocate $1.75 billion for job funding for a two-year period from date of passage through 1973, and the House bill a total of $4.95 billion during a five-year period, Javits said.

Javits said the Nixon administration opposes provisions of both bills and that this was a reversal of its policy in the Manpower Training Act of 1969.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., in an address to the conference, called Nixon's proposed revenue sharing a "three-headed cow."

"It looks interesting but usually doesn't produce much milk," Bayh said.

Critical Smog Level Is Hit

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Smog in Los Angeles is not a "critical medical problem" and its residents suffer no more from respiratory ailments than those in other metropolitan areas, county air pollution chief Robert Chass said Monday.

Chass, opening witness at hearings of the county environmental control commission, conceded that many physicians regard smog as a medical problem and that "it may prove critical for some individuals already afflicted with various disabilities.

"But certainly the term critical is inappropriate when millions of people are living normal life spans and suffering from no greater incidence of respiratory disease than is observed in other metropolitan areas of the county," he said.

Novelist Christie Injured In Fall

OXFORD, England (UPI)—Dame Agatha Christie, 80-year-old crime novelist, broke her leg in a fall at her home, Winterbrook House, at the town of Wallingford and has been hospitalized in Oxford, friends said today.

A spokesman at the Nuffield Orthopaedic Center said the condition of the writer, the world's most translated author of crime stories, is "fair."

Dame Agatha is the wife of archeologist Sir Max Malowan.

She was created a Dame of the British Empire (DBE) in the New Year's honors list proclaimed by Queen Elizabeth in January.

CRLA Seeking Federal Grant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California Rural Legal Assistance officials have asked the federal anti-poverty agency for a 17-month operational grant.

CRLA, now operating under a temporary grant, was criticized by Gov. Ronald Reagan who vetoed federal funds and is the subject of an investigation by a federal commission.

CRLA Director Cruz Reynoso said Monday he asked the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity for the 17-month grant so his agency would not have to "fight for its life" next month and again at the end of the year.

"We feel that we've been superevaluated after 20 days of extensive and intensive commission hearings and we hope that OEO will abide by the commission's findings as it promised to do," Reynoso said.

Reed Budget On Agenda Tonight

A proposed $2,158,335 budget for 1971-72 will be considered by the Reed School District board at 8 p.m. today at Bel Aire School, Karen Way, Tiburon.

The budget compares to a $2,299,286 spending program for the current fiscal year and anticipates revenues of $2,205,550, according to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello.

The superintendent said no estimate of the Budget's effect on the tax rate, which stands at $3.53 this year, will be available until shortly before tomorrow's meeting.

The board also will consider a staffing proposal with a goal of one teacher per 25 pupils.

Marinwood Fire Budget Is Hiked

A preliminary budget for next year of $100,000 was approved last night by the Marinwood Fire Commission, according to Fire Chief Gaylord E. Bonfield.

The proposed budget compares with this year's $85,000 budget. Bonfield said next year's budget will be discussed at a special budget meeting of the Marinwood Community Service District board Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Marinwood Community Center.

Bonfield said he expects no increase in the current tax rate of 61 cents per $100 assessed. He added the $15,000 increase in next year's budget stems from a greater population and an increase in total operating costs.

Also discussed at the commission meeting last night was a proposal by Bonfield and Ronald Marinoff, director on the board of the Upper Lucas Valley Homeowner's association, to form a volunteer planning committee for the hills between Marinwood and Upper Lucas Valley.

According to Bonfield, the committee would consist of volunteer residents of Marinwood who would join an already formed committee in Upper Lucas Valley to suggest plans for construction, roads and utilities in the hills. The suggestions would then be forwarded to the Marin County Planning Commission for its consideration.

The plan to form the volunteer planning committee will be taken up at the June 28th meeting of the services district board.

The commission voted to continue employing a College of Marin student whose salary will no longer be financed under the federal study program. Bonfield said the student will be funded by the commission if the district board agrees June 28.

Hub Driver Is Hurt In Wreck

A 27-year-old San Anselmo man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital following an automobile accident in San Francisco.

Michael Firneno of 127 Woodside Drive was admitted at 9:30 p.m. yesterday with multiple fractures of the left leg and cut left arm, chin and both knees, hospital officials said.

A $10,000 Pact For Manual

The Novato Sanitary District last night awarded Jenks and Adamson of Palo Alto, consulting engineers, a $10,000 contract to prepare a maintenance and operation manual.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph explained the federal Environmental Protection Agency required such a manual as a condition of federal grants for the district's planned improvement projects.

The district is planning to sell $1.6 million in bonds to finance an outfall line and improvements to Ignacio and Novato treatment plants, with federal grants to provide about 80 per cent of the total cost.

Bids on the bonds will be opened at 10 a.m. July 27 at the Bank of American in San Francisco and are expected to be reviewed by the district directors that night, Joseph said.

Discussion Set On Overlapping

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission last night agreed to a joint meeting with the Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission to discuss the overlap in commission responsibilities.

Recreation director James Pekkain said the meeting has been set for July 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall. He said the commission would also discuss city beautification as a possible joint effort.

The commission also heard Pekkain report that he had formally filed a grant application for $315,000 from the state Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for the future Rohnert Regional Park.

Racial Problem Not An Issue

Novato Police Chief Allen V. Klemme said today the dispute between whites and black at Lion's Park, near Stafford Dam, Sunday, didn't stem from any racial problem.

Investigation is continuing the chief said, but so far it has revealed that rather than a racial problem, the incident was part of a continuing problem of youths harassing other people at the park.

The dispute arose after a black man charged that a white youth tried to run into him with a pickup truck. The chief said the incident had no racial significance.
